U.S. boosts Medicare fees 19%, cites cost rise

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Citing rising hospital costs, the government Thursday boosted hospital fees for persons on Medicare by 19 per cent and said the prices for extended treatment in hospitals and nursing homes also would rise.

Under the changes, effective Jan. 1:

- Persons entering a hospital under Medicare will have to pay the first $124 of the bill, compared to $104 now.
- Persons on Medicare staying in a hospital for more than 60 days will pay $31 a day for the 61st through the 90th day, compared to $26 a day now.
- Patients discharged from hospitals who enter a nursing facility and stay there more than 30 days will have to pay $13.50 a day toward the cost of the 31st through the 100th day, instead of the present $13.
- If a person chooses to draw on his "lifetime reserve" days — the extra 60 hospital days a beneficiary can use when more than 90 days of hospital

TEACHERS HIT the picket lines in Prospect Heights Dist. 23 before school opened Thursday to get the board to compromise and set another contract session. Don Radlein, a MacArthur Junior High School teacher, points out one major stumbling block in contract talks with his sign. Teachers want to drop the current merit pay system which the board wants to keep. Despite the picket line, schools opened on time with all teachers returning to their classrooms by 8 a.m.

50 teachers picket Dist. 23 center

by JUDY JOBBITT

More than 50 of 90 Prospect Heights Dist. 23 teachers picketed the administration center Thursday morning in an effort to bring both sides in the stalled contract negotiations back to the bargaining table and to get the board of education to compromise on unsettled issues.

Teachers' union officials presented Supt. Edward Grodsky with a letter requesting his "assistance, as a neutral party, to reestablish direct and open lines of communications between the teachers and the board of education."

Grodsky said he is "in the process of thinking this through. They have asked a response from me."

The teachers termed his help "vital" in the letter. "We hope that you, Supt. Grodsky, who have worked so closely and have gained such respect from the board, can help them realize that this fine school district must continue to run smoothly and happily, and to ensure this, both sides must compromise."

GRODSKY SAID the teachers' demonstration was "very orderly" and that teachers returned to the schools by 8 a.m., their usual starting time.

"It was a matter of doing their thing, something they believed would get them back to the bargaining table," he said.

Teachers broke off negotiations two weeks ago saying the board was unwilling to negotiate a compromise.

Teachers want to drop the current merit system of pay for a standard salary schedule. The board requested that the merit system be kept for this year, but offered to establish a committee to investigate alternative methods of pay.

In return for allowing the committee to include merit systems in its investigation and recommendations, the teachers demanded that two board policies be added to the contract and that an early retirement policy be negotiated.

THE CURRENT board policies the teachers want added to the contract cover maternity leaves and procedures for releasing tenured teachers.

Board Pres. Melvin Lacey said the early retirement policy is negotiable but the other policies are not. "These are things the board must not capitulate to because we're elected. There is no compromise on these things," he said.

He said he is concerned the demonstration Thursday resulted from differences over "issues the Illinois Education Assn. or other groups are trying to promote. It seems to be external to people in our district. It looks like people not at all familiar with our district are calling the shots."

The Dist. 23 teachers' union is affiliated with the IEA, a statewide teachers' union. The union also is a member of the North Suburban Unified Bargaining Council, a coalition of 16 teachers' unions which is involved in negotiating.

LACEY SAID he also is concerned about the teachers' request that Grodsky act as a mediator in the current contract stalemate.

"It's not a case needing mediation," he said. "It's just a straight forward thing of negotiating. Mr. Grodsky has done many things to help us and the schools through conciliatory measures."

Lacey said the superintendent is not supposed to negotiate and that teachers must schedule the next negotiating session because they broke off the contract talks. He said that requirement is included in the procedural agreement for negotiations.

Congress overturns veto of HEW

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress, moving toward adjournment, overrode President Ford's veto of the $36.8 billion bill to fund labor, health, education and welfare programs Thursday, putting the measure immediately into law.

It was the 11th time in 27 attempts that Congress has overturned a Ford veto. The President has vetoed 59 bills since taking office two years ago.

The bill exceeded President Ford's budget request by $4 billion, an amount Sen. Carl Curtis, R-Neb., called "quite significant. It's not a small matter."

But Sen. Warren Magnuson, D-Wash., said the funds in the bill affect the lives and welfare of every American and called Ford's budget request "totally inadequate, a miserable budget creating more misery."

Democratic vice presidential nominee Sen. Walter Mondale, D-Minn., returned to the Senate to vote for the override. His Republican counterpart Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kan., was absent.

The Senate voted 67-15 to override the veto, 12 more than needed. Nineteen Republicans defected from the President and joined 48 Democrats in supporting the override.

The House voted 312-93 to override, 42 votes more than the two-thirds majority required of each body of Congress to beat a veto.

A total of 65 Republicans defected agencies will call the availability of revenue-sharing funds to our attention," Olsen quipped.

THE BILL WILL mean about $250,000 a year for Elk Grove Township. Richard Hall, township supervisor, said the funds will allow the township to "continue all of the programs we have without having to go to the citizens for a tax increase."

George C. Coney, Elk Grove Village finance director, said an $885,000 fund allocation will be used to buy a fire department pumper, a radio for paramedics and will finance improvements for the village garage and fire departments.

Hoffman Estates will gain about $32,000 between now and May if Ford signs the bill. Keith Wendland, village finance director, said the additional money would be added to $372,749 the village has received since 1972.

Additional funds will probably mean a new fire station for Schaumburg. Joseph Castor, Schaumburg village director, said revenue-sharing will "further a proposed building program," meaning a third fire station.

SOCIAL PROGRAMS will benefit most from the funds in Schaumburg Township. Vernon Laubenstein, township supervisor, said the township will receive an additional $160,000 by the end of the year.

Trustee Frank Palmatter of Arlington Heights said the village has "usually earmarked it (revenue-sharing money) for capital gains," to avoid becoming dependent on it. Most of the money has been used for land acquisition and flood-control projects.

"I guess I should thank God it was extended," Robert Cole, Rolling Meadows city treasurer, said. Cole said the city has been counting on the extension of revenue funds to finance police and fire departments, along with the garbage collection service.

The Village of Palatine will receive about $150,000 in revenue-sharing funds, Village Pres. Wendell Jones said.

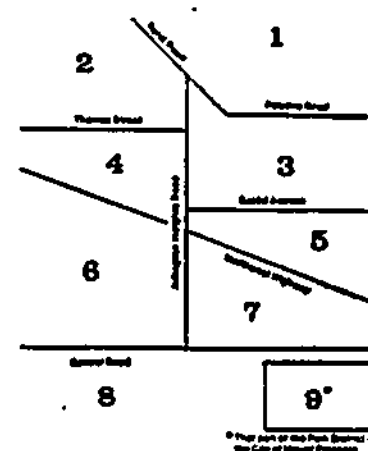

"It has proved its worth and I'm glad it has been extended," Jones said.

Absentee voting continues through 5 p.m. today at the park district office, 800 E. Falcon Dr.

Free transportation over, Judge rules

Cook County Circuit Court Judge Daniel A. Covelli signed an order Thursday allowing the Illinois Dept. of Transportation to eliminate free transportation for its employees at its Schaumburg offices. The American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees had sought to prohibit the loss of commuter bus service from Elgin and Chicago. The service has been provided since April 1975 when the department moved offices from Chicago and Elgin to 1000 Plaza Dr., Schaumburg. About 80 employees used the bus service. Covelli also ordered the department not to impose penalties for transportation related absence or tardiness and to transfer employees with proven hardship in obtaining transportation to similar jobs in other state agencies.

More than 50 teachers picketed in front of the Prospect Heights Dist. 23 administration center Thursday morning in efforts to bring both sides back to the bargaining table and get the board to compromise on contract issues. Supt. Edward Grodecky said the demonstration was "very orderly" and that teachers returned to classrooms by their 8 a.m. starting time. "It was a matter of doing their thing, something they believed would get them back to the bargaining table," he said. Negotiations between the teachers and board negotiators broke off two weeks ago.

Prospect Hts. to hire county cops?

Prospect Heights city officials are considering hiring off-duty Cook County Sheriff's police to enforce the Oct. 15 deadline for the purchase of 1976-77 vehicle stickers. Ald. Edward Bryant, chairman of the city council's public safety committee, said he is investigating if the city could hire two off-duty sheriff's policemen to patrol the city on weekends and weeknights for vehicles that do not display the new city stickers. An ordinance approved by the council this summer for the early sale of stickers sets a $10 fine for violators. The sheriff's police currently provide free service to the community.

1-cent gas tax goes into effect today in county

Cook County's new one-cent-a-gallon gasoline tax, which was levied by the county board to raise an additional $18 million a year, takes effect today.

Service station owners say they should find out today just how far motorists will drive to avoid the new tax.

In borderline communities such as Elk Grove Village and Buffalo Grove, service station dealers on the Cook County side will compete with nearby dealers who will not be forced to levy the tax.

IT BOILS DOWN to a choice for motorists and dealers, said a spokesman for the Amoco Oil Co., Chicago. Dealers in Cook County can either raise their pump prices for gasoline a penny a gallon and risk losing customers to nearby dealers in another county, or "swallow the penny in their profit margins," he said.

The person who holds the key to the situation is the motorist, the Amoco spokesman said. The spokesman said Amoco will comply with the law, when asked about possible bootlegging problems.

Bob Copeland, manager of the Standard station at Devon and Wood Dale roads, Elk Grove Village, said Thursday he doubts the new county tax will have an immediate impact on his gas sales. Copeland's station is on the DuPage County side of Devon Ave. He charges 62.4 cents a gallon for regular gas.

"I'm passing along the tax. It's not my idea," said Dan Rutkowski, manager of Dan's Ranch Mart Mobil station at Dundee and Buffalo Grove roads, Buffalo Grove. He predicts that few motorists will drive to nearby Lake County to save a penny a gallon on fuel costs. He said his Thursday price of 65.9 cents a gallon for full service, regular gasoline sales and 61.5 cents a gallon for "mini-service" regular gas sales will rise one cent a gallon today.

AN ILLINOIS Gasoline Dealers Assn. representative said Thursday that Cook County dealers cannot absorb the gas tax cost, paid through suppliers.

The new fuel tax will "cause thousands of motorists" to buy gasoline outside Cook County, among consumers who generally buy gas inside the county, predicts Herbert Hugo, senior editor of the Platt's Oilgram Industry publication in Chicago. "It very well could force a good many dealers out of business," Hugo said.

Hugo said the tax could also lead to bootlegging problems, if companies seek to avoid paying the premium.

Retail prices for gasoline will remain fairly stable, Hugo said. He said 63 cents to 64 cents a gallon is an average price for regular gas in the Chicago area. Unleaded fuel is generally 2 or more cents above regular fuel costs and premium gas is a penny or two above the unleaded price. "Leaded regular is still the best bargain," he said.

The Chicago Motor Club Thursday reported gasoline prices dropped .2 to .7 cents a gallon during the last two weeks in Chicago and Cook County. Average pump prices reported in the club's Fuel Gauge Report were: 62.9 cents a gallon for regular, down .4 cents; 68 cents a gallon for premium down .2 cents; and 65.4 cents a gallon for unleaded, down .7 cents.

Soviets fueling flames of war: Kissinger

UNITED NATIONS (UPI)—Secretary of State Henry Kissinger Thursday accused the Soviet Union of "fueling the flames of war and racial hatred" by trying to undermine his African diplomacy and warned the Kremlin there can be no "selective detente."

In what may have been his last major foreign policy speech, Kissinger delivered an hour-long review of U.S. foreign policy before the U.N. General Assembly.

In it, Kissinger also called for a resumption of the Geneva Conference on the Middle East, indicating his step-by-step diplomacy which won disengagement agreements between Israel and Egypt was dead.

"The United States believes that the future of mankind requires coexistence with the Soviet Union," Kissinger said. "Tired slogans cannot obscure the necessity for a more constructive relationship."

"We will insist that restraint be reciprocal not just in bilateral relations but around the globe," Kissinger said.

"There can be no selective detente."

Turning to criticism of his African shuttle, which won Rhodesian acceptance of black majority rule, by Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko as "political gimmickry," Kissinger was blunt:

"We have noted crude attempts to distort the purposes of diplomacy and to impede hopeful progress toward peaceful solutions to complex issues. These efforts only foster tensions."

"There may be some countries who see a chance for advantage in fueling the flames of war and racial hatred," Kissinger said. "But they are not motivated by concern for the peoples of Africa, or for peace."

Gromyko was not in the U.N. Assembly hall when Kissinger delivered his speech.

Kissinger said negotiations on Rhodesia which he arranged on his shuttle will give both sides in the black-white dispute "an opportunity to pull back from the brink."

Turning to the Middle East, Kissinger called for an "early resumption" of the Geneva conference on the Middle East.

"The step-by-step negotiations of the past three years have now brought us to a point where comprehensive solutions seem possible," Kissinger said. The call for "comprehensive solutions" seemed to put an end to Kissinger's personal, shuttle style of diplomacy in the Middle East.

The speech, which was noticeably sharper and impatient with those who oppose U.S. efforts, may have been Kissinger's last major foreign policy review. He has said that he would prefer to leave office, even if President Ford were to be elected in November.

Immediate reaction to Kissinger's speech was favorable. One nonaligned delegate, E.L.F. de Seneviratne, of Sri Lanka, and Italian Ambassador Piero Vinci, both said, "This was one of the best speeches that Kissinger ever gave."

Jamil Baroddy of Saudi Arabia said, "A good and well balanced speech but words are not sufficient. It will depend on the political will to realize them."

Ford defends golf dates, campaign funding issues

By United Press International

Defending "my record of personal integrity," President Ford Thursday denied he ever misused campaign funds and said his golf dates with lobbyists were proper, innocent outings with friends.

"My conscience is clear," he said. Ford called reporters into the Oval Office to deal personally with reports the Watergate special prosecutor is investigating his congressional campaign finances and to discuss the golf controversy that has popped up in the midst of his presidential campaign.

He predicted the Watergate prosecutor's probe would clear him completely — if such a probe is in progress — and said he hoped the investigators would finish their efforts soon.

In Boston, Jimmy Carter said he was satisfied with Ford's explanations and that closes the matter, "as far as I'm concerned."

Carter, who had urged Ford to speak up on these issues, opened a three-day campaign swing through the Northeast, turning his fire on Ford's record on unemployment.

"Gerald Ford has no concern about people out of work," he told unemployed persons gathered in a diner in Buffalo, first stop on the day's tour.

He claimed Ford had cost the nation 2 million jobs by vetoing bills that would have generated employment potential.

Ford, leaning on his Oval Office desk, conceded he found the reports questioning his integrity somewhat painful, but maintained he is not worried about their impact on him personally.

"I can say with complete confidence that when the investigation is completed I would be free of any allegations that I've read about," he said.

"It's more important to me personally that it be cleared up because I'm very proud of my record of personal integrity. It's more important to me than the election."

The President, as harried aides and Carter have been urging him to do, dealt with two controversies:

Reports, still not officially confirmed, that special prosecutor Charles Ruff is investigating whether he made personal use as a congressman of campaign funds from the Kent County, Mich., GOP organization; and White House admissions that, as a congressman, he golfed as the guest of corporate executives.

• On the campaign fund issue, he said: "No money ever went to me personally in Kent County or anywhere else."

• On the golf dates, he said: "I do not feel there was any impropriety on my part or any violation" of congressional ethics codes. "I am an avid golfer and I enjoy the company of friends while playing golf . . . I have not accepted nor have they tendered anything that was improper."

Ruff has refused to comment on reports he is investigating whether campaign funds from two maritime unions were funneled to Ford for personal use through the Michigan GOP. The President indicated he himself is not sure any such probe is in progress.

"I have no information whatever on what the special prosecutor is doing," he said.

PRESIDENT FORD leans against the front of his mahogany desk in the Oval Office Thursday and tells reporters he has never accepted any campaign funds for his personal use and expressed confidence he would be cleared in any inquiry by the Special Watergate Prosecutor.

Syrians clearing out resistance

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Syrian and Christian forces slashed through Lebanon's central mountains Thursday in a mop-up campaign to drive retreating Palestinian forces from their last remaining positions. It was the Palestinians' worst defeat in the war.

"After our losses yesterday, we could not hold out," a Palestinian spokesman said. "We are retreating wherever we can and attempting to hold out where we cannot. But it's just a matter of time."

Palestinian sources conceded that the loss of the mountains front 20 miles east of Beirut and north of the Beirut-Damascus highway to a 48-hour Syrian armored and infantry assault was one of their most disastrous losses in nearly 18 months of civil strife in Lebanon.

"The loss of Tel Zaatar," one Palestinian source said in reference to the refugee camp that fell after a 55-day Christian siege last month, "was a prestige blow. But the mountain front is a real strategic loss."

The Christians had predicted total victory within three days when the assault began Tuesday. At the time it seemed a boast but a Syrian tank-led assault Wednesday night captured the three major Palestinian held towns in house-to-house fighting and drove the Palestinians into retreat.

Spokesmen for Christian militias that participated in the assault conceded there were still "pockets of resistance here and there which are being wiped out."

One of them was Ras el Maten, 13 miles southeast of Beirut, which Palestinian spokesmen said they would attempt to hold "as long as possible to help cover the retreat from our other positions."

Reporters touring the area Thursday said Ras el Maten was coming under Syrian artillery fire and being surrounded. There were still guerrillas in the woods fighting a harassing action with Syrian patrols.

Although the Palestinians still held some positions along the strategic Jabel El Knisse ridge 20 miles east of Beirut, they were cut off and surrounded due to the loss of the three towns vital to their mountain defense — Hammana, Meteln and Aintoura.

Congress overrides HEW bill veto

search for the 1977 fiscal year that starts Friday.

The HEW section of the bill included two provisions that apparently helped attract some Republican support for the override.

One bans use of federal funds for abortions, except if a mother's life is endangered, and the other exempts farms employing 10 or fewer persons from coverage of the Occupational Safety and Health Act.

The measure exceeded Ford's budget requests by $4 billion, a point that Ford cited as "a perfect example of the triumph of election year politics over fiscal restraint and responsibility to the hard-pressed American taxpayer."

"The President is clearly insensitive to the times," said House Democratic leader Thomas P. O'Neill. "He seems proud of his record of vetoing every substantial piece of legislation that affects the health, the jobs, the progress of America."

Rep. Robert Michel, R-Ill., leader of the GOP effort to sustain the veto, said "a vote to override is not a vote against health, against education or against the poor and the elderly. The President proposed $32.5 billion for those programs which is three times the amount in the budget of the last year of the (Lyndon B.) Johnson presidency."

During a long, hectic and, sometimes, tense day the Senate and House rushed through major and minor measures in assembly line fashion, trying to clear the way for adjournment Friday night or Saturday.

Bills, which normally would have sparked extended debate, rolled through the chambers with barely a word. Conference reports zipped back-and-forth so they could be approved and sent to the White House.

Speaker Carl Albert and Acting Senate Democratic Leader Robert Byrd said they were optimistic the 94th Congress could adjourn late Friday night but there remained fears the session could spill over to Saturday and possibly even into next week.

Congressional legal experts said a technically could keep Congress in session — on at least a pro-forma basis — until Monday.

A set of regulations governing campaigns has been sent to Congress by the Federal Election Commission and cannot go into effect until after 30 legislative days have expired, a time frame which would end Monday.

White House officials, meantime, said Ford will sign both of the major job bills passed this year by Congress.

John O. Marsh, a Ford counselor, and Max Friedersdorf, Ford's chief congressional liaison aide, said "we were instructed to advise the leadership of the House and Senate that the President will sign both the job bills."

MIG25 performance tests slated

TOKYO (UPI) — Japanese and American technicians will conduct performance tests within a few days on a Soviet MIG25 fighter which reportedly was designed to intercept and destroy U.S. high altitude B52 and B70 bombers, military sources said Thursday.

Sources at the Japan Self Defense Agency said the tests will be conducted with the MIG's engine turned on but declined to say whether an attempt will be made to fly the plane, considered the Soviets' most ad-lum in the United States.

vanced fighter. The twin-engine MIG25, called the "Foxbat," is capable of speeds in excess of 1,850 miles per hour and three years ago set an altitude record of 119,000 feet.

Experts disassembled the plane after it was flown from Siberia to an airport at Hakodate in northern Japan Sept. 6 by defecting Soviet Air Force Lt. Viktor I. Belenko, 29, who eluded Japan's radar screen by flying at low altitudes. Belenko was granted asylum.

Jack Lemmon on probation in tipsy driving case

• Actor Jack Lemmon, 51, was fined $315, given a suspended 30-day jail sentence and put on probation for two years after pleading guilty to a charge of drunken driving. Lemmon was arrested July 1 when his Rolls Royce was seen weaving late at night along California's Pacific Coast Highway. He was booked after failing a breath analysis test and released to the custody of his wife, actress Felicia Farr.

• Complaints were dismissed Thursday in Springfield, Mass., against three persons charged in an alleged conspiracy to assassinate Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., earlier this month. The charges were dropped because of "insufficient evidence to warrant further action." Freed were Mrs. Sandra Rhodes, 37, Robert E. White and David J. King.

Sue Spurrier

• Actor John Wayne this week presented the annual Humanitarian Award of the National Conference of Christians and Jews to Leonard Goldenson, chairman of the board of American Broadcasting Companies, Inc., for service to medical research and the entertainment industry.

• Sue Spurrier, an English woman who advertised recently for a husband for immigration purposes, received a very special letter among her many marriage offers Thursday. The letter, from Congressman Melvin Price, who informed her he has drafted a bill which, if passed, would allow her to remain in the country as a permanent resident.

22 Nixon letters ruled forgeries

A lawyer for former President Richard Nixon said Thursday postal investigators have ruled that 22 letters allegedly written by Nixon to the wife of a foreign diplomat are forgeries. Herbert J. Miller Jr. released a report from the Postal Inspection Service that said, "A handwriting analysis has determined that the letters were not written by Mr. Nixon . . ." The letters "apparently originated in Washington and passed through the hands of individuals in Detroit and Los Angeles before coming to the attention of New York literary agent Scott Meredith," the Postal Service said.

Rizzo ouster move unlawful: court

The Pennsylvania Supreme Court ruled Thursday a move to oust Philadelphia Mayor Frank L. Rizzo from office is unconstitutional and he does not have to face a special recall election in November. The court, in a 4-2-1 decision, reversed a ruling by Common Pleas Court Judge David N. Savitt, who had ordered the "yes-no" question on Rizzo be placed on the Nov. 2 election ballot. Rizzo, at a hastily called news conference attended by about 50 supporters, said his "political career has suffered no blow. I never had any doubts the Supreme Court would rule on facts. The law is on my side." Shelly Yarnoff, leader of the recall movement, termed the decision "a terrible disappointment."

Ford signs benefits bill for veterans

President Ford Thursday signed legislation giving nearly 5 million veterans increased disability and pension benefits to offset the higher cost of living. He said they served the nation in wartime and "it is only right that we serve them well in times of peace." Ford, speaking at a White House ceremony before more than 100 guests, signed two bills. One provided an 8 per cent hike in monthly benefit rates, effective Friday, for veterans receiving disability compensation or to surviving spouses and children of veterans whose deaths were service connected. The second bill extended a temporary 8 per cent increase in pension benefits for about 2.3 million veterans, dependents and survivors until the end of 1976 and gave them a further 7 per cent boost effective Jan. 1.

Black power struggle in Rhodesia hinted

A militant black nationalist announced Thursday he would return from self-exile, raising the possibility of a power struggle among blacks maneuvering for control of Rhodesia during the transition to majority rule. Through spokesmen, Bishop Abel Muzorewa, leader of the so-called external wing of the African National Council, said he will return to Rhodesia within two weeks to participate in the formation of an interim government to rule Rhodesia during the transition. A spokesman said Muzorewa, who left the country last year, planned to lead a delegation to a British-sponsored conference to be held outside Rhodesia in about two weeks.

Mine blast kills 16 in France

A fire 2,400 feet underground Thursday triggered methane gas explosions, killing 16 miners in the heart of France's coal mining region, police said. Intense heat and danger of explosions prevented body recovery operation. A spokesman for the mine at Merlebach, near Metz in Lorraine, said the victims were miners fighting the underground fire which raged for several hours before the deadly explosion. The explosion came when the blaze hit a pocket of pit gas, also known as fire-damp.

Niles faculty accord -school Tuesday

Details of the agreement were not disclosed. But Herbst said it contained a provision that none of the 267 striking teachers would lose their jobs. Other sources said the new three-year agreement, which has yet to be ratified by the teachers, calls for a 4.8 percent salary increase in the first year.

Gibson, who played a young tough in the 1975 movie about life in a Chicago ghetto, was watching a street corner dice game Wednesday when two men got out of a car and shot him with a shotgun in the back at close range. Witnesses said one of them pumped a small-caliber handgun bullet into Gibson's head as he fell. Police said the slaying was an apparent act of revenge for Gibson firing a shot at one of the gunmen's sister. They said Gibson had been held for two weeks in the incident and was released the day before he died.

Four other Chicago men have been charged in Miss Bolger's death. Robert Fikihari, 18, and James Martin, 21, are being held without bond on murder charges in Miss Bolger's death pending arraignment in Kane County Circuit Court Oct. 8. Gary Miller, 22 and John Rowe, 21, were charged with obstruction of justice. Rowe was released Wednesday on $10,000 bond. Miller remained in jail.

Walker not through in politics: Daley

Mayor Richard J. Daley said Thursday Gov. Daniel Walker probably could win the Senate seat held by Republican Charles H. Percy in 1978. "I don't think Dan Walker is through in politics," Daley told a news conference. "He's a young man. He went out and supported the whole Democratic ticket and has proven he's a Democrat." Walker lost the Democratic gubernatorial primary last March to Secretary of State Michael J. Howlett, who ran with Daley's backing. Since then, Walker has made apparent peace with the Daley organization by campaigning for Howlett and the rest of the state Democratic ticket. Percy's Senate term expires in 1978.

A third Quincy man was arrested and charged Thursday in the series of bomb blasts that killed one and injured another man while GOP vice presidential candidate Robert Dole visited Quincy earlier this week. Adams County sheriff's police arrested Stanley Bruce Stock, 18, Quincy, in his home Thursday and charged him with arson and murder. Robert Molley, 37, a Quincy construction worker, and 17-year-old Jeffrey T. Lewis, Quincy, were arrested Wednesday and charged with murder and arson. Adams County State's Atty. Robert Bler said no further suspects were being sought in the case.

Republican campaign workers who stumped Illinois for former California Gov. Ronald Reagan were asked Thursday to give their full support to President Ford. The request was made in a letter signed by former Illinois Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie, Ford's state campaign director, and Reagan's top Illinois supporters — state Rep. Donald Totten and Rep. Philip Crane. They asked Reagan loyalists to throw their "full support and volunteer organization" to the President and "participate in all activities to insure Jerry Ford's election. Just as we are counting on the support Governor Reagan, himself will be giving the President in Illinois, we are also counting on your support," the letter said.

Democratic gubernatorial candidate Michael Howlett said Thursday Illinois will get $1.5 billion in new revenue during the next two years through the expansion of the economy and that should be enough to prevent any hike in tax rates. But Howlett said he doesn't think corporations are paying their fair share of taxes. If a tax increase does become necessary, he said, corporate taxpayers should be hit first. He also repeated his pledge to fight for a constitutional amendment that would make it possible to raise corporate taxes if such a hike became necessary.

Planners invite merchants to meet

Property owners and merchants in downtown Arlington Heights are invited to a special Arlington Heights Plan Commission meeting 8 p.m. Thursday to discuss proposed improvements for the central business district.

The meeting will be in the council chambers of the municipal building, 33 S. Arlington Heights Rd.

"This is an opportunity for merchants and property owners to say what direction downtown improvements should go," said Village Planner Joseph Keeler.

A formal hearing on long range land-use proposals for the central business district has been scheduled by the plan commission Oct. 27.

The land-use proposal, the village parking requirements and plans for a parking garage and shopping plaza-office building on the block bounded by Vail, Sigwalt, Dunton and Campbell streets will be discussed at Thursday's meeting, Keeler said.

Mikva, Young square off in first of 16 debates

by STEVE BROWN

U.S. Rep. Abner J. Mikva, D-10th, and Republican Samuel H. Young Thursday night squared off in the first of 16 campaign debates agreeing they would oppose a constitutional amendment to ban abortion, but on little else.

The pair, opponents for the third time in the 10th Congressional District, answered a series of questions posed by more than 450 persons at the Leverone Hall at Northwestern University in Evanston.

Following the debate, both candidates said they were pleased with the outcome. Young said he would have preferred to ask questions of Mikva and allow Mikva to question him. However, Mikva said that procedure sometimes becomes "too cutesy," adding "I don't think it would serve any useful purposes."

ON THE ABORTION issue, while both Mikva and Young said they would oppose the Constitutional amendment, Young said his action would be based on a poll of district residents which indicates more than 70 per cent oppose an amendment.

Mikva said, "Even when we agree, we disagree on our reasons. I am opposed because the amendment declares the basic notion of the Constitution."

The questions in the debate ranged over a wide series of issues, including defense spending, regulations governing political activities by political employees and government bureaucracy.

On the question of development of the controversial B1 bomber, Mikva said he was opposed because the advanced weapons system would be obsolete before it was ever put into use.

YOUNG SAID he supported development of the B1 because the bomber is necessary to develop an adequate defense force.

The pair also sharply differed on decriminalization of marijuana. Mikva said he supported such a move while Young said he opposed it.

In discussing the gun control, Young said he favors a ban on so-called Saturday night specials, but Mikva said he favored a ban on the sale, manufacture and distribution of all handguns.

During closing statements to the crowd, the Evanston Democrat said there were sharp differences between himself and Young. Young called the congressional race more important than the election for President.

"This election is more important because Congress has more power than the President; Congress passes the law," Young said.

HE DISAGREED with Mikva on the proposal to raise congressional standards and Mikva's suggestion that congressmen not engage in private law practices.

PARK

Saturday, October 2nd

The development of recreational areas is a vital need in our community. Recreational land is an important asset, yet developed park land in Arlington Heights is far below that of other communities. Open land is scarce and this valuable asset should be preserved in a useful state. For a comparatively small cost in tax dollars - approximately $12.00 per year - The Park District could develop over 105 acres of park land.

Included in this project would be 17 new tennis courts; improvement of existing courts and athletic field by providing adequate lighting; improved fieldhouses; walkway lighting in 15 parks; and the construction of an 18 hole golf course.

Approval of The Referendum will benefit you in many ways. It is good for you financially - estimated taxes are twelve dollars a year for both issues, but the benefit to you is thousands of dollars of property appreciation because people are bidding high to live in our fine community.

It is good for you Recreationally. The more open land that is preserved as a golf course or parks, the more you and your family and neighbors will be able to enjoy these facilities.

The following Civic Associations encourage you to

Forecasting folly Finckle's forte

by DIANE NIERNIGAS

Earl Finckle makes a living trying to second guess the most unpredictable, temperamental woman of all time — Mother Nature.

Finckle has spent the past 30 years forecasting storms and sunshine because "it's a challenge" and because there are many persons whose livelihoods depend on the weather."

"The first thing people want to know when they get up in the morning is what the weather will be like. It determines what they will wear and even what their dispositions will be like," said the 50-year-old meteorologist and radio personality who operates the Weather Forecasting Service in Wheeling.

"BUT THERE ARE many corporations and businessmen who must make multimillion dollar decisions everyday on the basis of the weather — it has that much of an effect on what they produce and the job they do," he said.

Finckle, a Skokie resident, is paid anywhere from $10 to brief a private

Police arrest trio on drug counts

Arlington Heights police have arrested three suburban men on charges of possession of drugs valued at more than $1,700.

The first arrest took place when David M. Cleveland, 24, Morton Grove, was stopped for disobeying a traffic signal at Rand and Palatine roads at 11:18 p.m. Wednesday, police said.

Police reportedly found in Cleveland's car: 18.4 grams of cocaine valued at $1,472; tablets of amphetamine valued at $113; 11 tablets of LSD valued at $110; and 24 grams of marijuana valued at $15.

Police charged Cleveland with disobeying a red light and four counts of drug possession.

Detectives then telephoned a room at the Clayton House Motel, at 1090 S. Milwaukee Ave., Wheeling Township, where they said Cleveland told them he was staying.

POLICE SAID an investigator set up a drug sale with William D. Torry, 18, of 1624 E. Cedar Ln., Mount Prospect, who answered the telephone at

The motel room.

An investigator met Terry at 3:30 a.m. Thursday in front of an office building at 1000 S. Milwaukee Ave. and paid Terry $60 for 33 tablets of amphetamines and a quantity of cocaine, police said.

Arlington Heights detectives and Cook County sheriff's policemen moved in and arrested Terry and an accomplice, Philip N. Norman, 18, of 1882 Wood Ln., Mount Prospect, police said.

Police charged Terry with delivery of a controlled substance, and Norman with possession of 15 grams of marijuana.

Norman was released on $1,000 bond and was ordered to appear Oct. 22 in the Arlington Heights branch of Cook County Circuit Court.

Cleveland was assigned $25,000 bond, and Terry, $10,000 bond. Both are being held in the Cook County Jail, in lieu of bond, to await a court hearing today in the Arlington Heights court.

Buffalo Grove High homecoming slated

Students and staff members at Buffalo Grove High School will dress to match the theme set for each day during homecoming week beginning Monday with "grub day."

Students also will begin making floats Monday for the parade at 1:45 p.m. on Thursday.

Homecoming queen candidates will be presented Tuesday, "class day," during a school assembly at 10:15 a.m. Wednesday's theme is "western round-up day."

The queen will be crowned on Thursday, "color day," at 1 p.m. directly preceding the parade.

Friday's theme, the '50s, will be emphasized at the 2:40 p.m. pep assembly — "Happy Days — the '50s."

Saturday's activities include a football game against Fremd High School of Palatine at noon and the homecoming dance, "Times of Your Life," at 8 p.m. in the school cafeteria, 110 W. Dundee Rd., Buffalo Grove.

Parking meter stolen from Vail Street

Thieves early Wednesday morning stole a parking meter valued at $75 from Vait Street in Arlington Heights, police said.

Police said the thieves stole the one-hour meter, its $10 post and $2 in daily weather reports to grain brokers who must determine the prospects for buying and selling.

He lets the Chicago White Sox and Cubs baseball teams know if rain clouds will burst over their home games so rain checks can be issued, and he informs road contractors if rain is expected before they begin pouring concrete.

The operators of the Great America amusement park in Gurnee need to know if high winds and stormy weather are headed their way before setting up death-defying roller coaster rides. Ski resorts need advance notice of snow, before opening their slopes to anxious skiers.

EVEN PASKISTANI government officials recently employed Finkle to predict the success of this year's cotton crop.

The list of diverse clients seeking Finkle's talents is endless.

Finkle insists his method of predicting the whims of Mother Nature is completely scientific and he never relies on someone's throbbing corn or the thickness of a muskrat's fur to tell him when it will rain or how deep the snowfall will be.

Finkle and his seven-member staff chart the world's upper wind patterns on complex weather maps in the forecasting office at 1098 S. Milwaukee Ave.

COMPUTERS, radar devices and other machines, some connected to the U.S. Weather Bureau in Washington, D.C. keep the meteorologists informed about world weather conditions.

The forecasting service specializes in Midwest predictions, particularly in the Chicago area.

Finkle, who got his start as a meteorologist in 1945 with the Air Force, makes live broadcasts of the weather every morning and afternoon to Midwestern radio stations, including WIND and WGN in Chicago.

After the predictions are on record, Finkle retires to his office overlooking the runways at the north end of Pal-Waukee Airport and there, he is confronted with the truth of his forecast through ceiling-to-floor windows.

If it's a black, rainy day, and he's predicted sunshine, he's been known to draw the drapes.

"WE'RE USUALLY very accurate about the weather. We try to do our best with the equipment we have and our experienced eye," he said. "Of course, we aren't going to talk about the predictions that didn't pan out."

More often than not, Finckle says he's been right, but getting skeptics to believe his advance notices is quite another thing, he said.

One year, Finckle warned ex-Cubs manager Leo Durocher that torrents of rain would fall midway through their Sunday baseball game at Wrigley Field.

Between innings, Durocher walked out of the dugout in a bright yellow rain hat and coat, parading around the field mocking Finckle's prediction. By the time he got to first base it was pouring," Finckle said.

OTHERS HAVE taken the weatherman's forecasts to heart. Family barbecues and outings have been postponed, parades have been canceled and even Cuba's games have been rescheduled, as in April 1975 when Chicago was hit by two inches of snow.

Finckle said he didn't know what to expect 13 years ago when he first opened his weather service at the airport field. He was given free office space in exchange for offering free advice to Pal-Waukee pilots.

"The weather in the Chicago area is extremely variable and the number of people who rely on weather conditions to do their work is ever growing. I've learned that," he said.

Does anybody out there give a damn anymore?

"The Times They Are A-Changin'" wrote Bob Dylan, the white man's guru of meaningful music. All mankind has been awakened, Dylan wrote not long ago during America's horrible years.

Hate to smash your guitar, Mr. Dylan, but it would appear that mankind has fallen asleep in his corner. Ideas translated: Nobody gives a damn. Again.

Apathy that permeates this country from sea to sea elicited a roar from the ugly dead Thursday evening at Harper College. The school hosted a guest speaker, William E. Colby. And his audience: 115 persons.

YOU PROBABLY should remember Colby. He's not the stuff that makes ancient history fascinating.

Colby served three turbulent years as director of the Central Intelligence Agency from 1973-76. But his demise came last November as one victim of President Ford's so-called "Saturday Night Massacre."

It was almost embarrassing Thursday evening. Such a pathetic little turnout heard Colby. Many were not even students. Doesn't anybody care?!!

Perhaps it was the wrong night or wrong school. Who knows for sure? But there were days not long ago when students were seen and heard. Occasionally, they even were known to listen. At least they cared.

A MAN OF Colby's stature would have been a security guard's nightmare six or eight years ago at nearly every college campus across this nation.

Those were America's horrible years. Ones that produced Kent State and Jackson State. The Democratic National Convention in Chicago. Nixon and Agnew. Vietnam. Students for a Democratic Society.

If any glimmer could be seen beneath all that unrest, then it was a growing hope that America's new youth had emerged, a concerned and vibrant youth.

Matt Zukowski is a second year journalism student at Harper. He surveyed the small crowd Thursday night and tried to describe the hopelessness of it all.

"I GUESS THE feeling is, 'So what?'" Matt said. "He (Colby) was in during Nixon's administration. They probably feel it's not worth it. They're all fools, especially something like the CIA."

Mark Flomen is another second year journalism student. While Colby supported the CIA, and intelligence operations in general, Mark worked on another question: Where were all those newly awakened people?

"You've got to remember that some of the kids who come here don't even want to be in college," Mark said. "Their parents want them here. They're just playing their parents' song."

"If this was somewhere else, it would be packed. If Daniel Schorr came here it would be packed, but there wouldn't be too many kids," Mark said.

"THESE AREN'T your ordinary university students. Sometimes it disappoints me," he said. "I'm not saying that all people here are apathetic, but you still see a lot of Mickey Mouse stuff."

Colby arrived at Harper shortly before 4 p.m. when he participated in a videotape question-and-answer session with faculty members.

Today

A short press conference preceded his formal remarks to the small gathering. Throughout it all, Colby proved to be a spectacular CIA public relations ambassador.

You'd almost think that recent congressional investigations into the CIA were just so much poking around in the dark.

COLBY ALLUDED to "a high degree of sensationalism" which he said prevailed after charges of CIA assassination plots, domestic tampering, illegal letters searches and many other questions that were raised.

Rest safe; fellow Americans. William E. Colby said Thursday night his old CIA chums are following all the ways now. Gee, that's great, Bill.

The more important lesson here concerns apathy. Disinterest will just open the doors for more CIAs and Watergates. It would be nice to think that future Americans will not be taken for those long rides.

However, nobody can save us except ourselves. Apparently very few of us even care that much.

State's attorney closes probe of Lahti, Harper

by JOHN N. FRANK

The Cook County state's attorney's office has found "no evidence warranting criminal prosecution" of Harper College Pres. Robert Lahti or Harper's board of trustees and closed its six-week investigation, a spokesman for the state's attorney said Thursday.

State's attorney personnel interviewed Lahti, employees of Harper's public safety department and David Tomchek, regional coordinator of the Illinois Education Assn. in response to a letter from Tomchek asking for an investigation of alleged violations of the Illinois Open Meeting Act and college policy.

"All the agencies or individuals that have reviewed the facts have reached the same conclusion and that should close the case," Lahti said Thursday.

TWO SPECIAL trustee committees formed to investigate Lahti's use of college vehicles for private business, flying first class at college expense and college investment policy found no violations of college policy by Lahti.

Tomchek said he "still thinks there is a matter of public trust involved and I still think that has been violated."

Trustee Robert Rausch said the conclusion of the state's attorney was "just more evidence to support the fact that the college is being run in a proper manner."

Rausch chaired the committee which found that Lahti's admitted use of college vehicles for private business did not represent a "pattern of abuse."

BOARD PRES. Shirley Munson said the findings of the state's attorney removed any burden of guilt from Lahti and members of the board.

The Herald reported in July that board members took part in 24 unannounced meetings in the last 1½ years. Rausch's committee determined the majority of those meetings were prenegotiations meetings which legally do not have to be announced and open to the public.

Besides the use of campus vehicles and first class air travel, Tomchek had requested an investigation of a possible conflict of interest on Lahti's part concerning his seat on the board of directors of the Bank of Elk Grove, where the college has accounts.

David Cupriss, a spokesman for the state's attorney's office, would not comment on findings in this area, saying he wanted to avoid rehearsing the allegations involved.

You look like Republicans. Who'd you like for Village President???

The way we see it

Palatine needs solid campaign

Palatine Village Pres. Wen-Jell E. Jones started local political speculation swirling anew when he announced he will not be a candidate for reelection.

Jones' announcement has given challengers ample time to present themselves as potential new leaders of that village, and we are hopeful that several candidates will surface during the coming months. If that happens, Palatine will remain a hotbed of issue-oriented campaigning at the local level.

As Jones is well aware, much can happen before the April balloting, and because he has been so intimately involved in local affairs, it is not unreasonable to believe he might reconsider his decision. At this early date, it seems premature to write Jones' political obituary despite his insistence that his decision is final.

Regardless, we must credit Jones for being a significant force in local elections — particularly in 1973 when he waged an aggressive campaign based upon a platform of issues.

As well, the Republican Organization of Palatine Township often has spawned dissent which has forced Republicans into the political arena to face voters as independents.

All this has been healthy for Palatine politics.

Trustee Bryan Coughlin said this week that he is having little success in his effort to find new faces to present to the local Republican convention in December. But as has been shown before, the Republican convention is not the only avenue available to potential candidates.

Local elections should not be decided among precinct captain and persons designated as Republican representatives from certain areas of the community.

The election should be decided in April, long after the Republican convention in Palatine and after issues are debated among the candidates. The electorate in Palatine should not be faced with the best of the Republicans but the best representative from all of Palatine.

We are hopeful that again next year, Palatine's political arena will be the scene of a hard fought campaign, in which candidates are forced to present themselves and their positions to the people of Palatine.

During the past several years, Palatine voters have been treated to grassroots campaigning, and as a result they have been better informed about the candidates and their issues. It will be to the benefit of the electorate if 1977 is the same kind of election year.

Ford wrong about guns

During his swing through the Deep South, President Gerald R. Ford assumed a strong stance against gun control that included his promise to never allow federal legislation requiring the registration or confiscation of guns.

Although his position received a warm reception from his audience, we believe the President sacrificed common sense for popularity.

With thousands of Americans dying each year because guns are so easy to come by, it is obvious that hand gun control legislation is needed on the national level. Gun control cannot be effective on the local or state level; it would merely leave the door open for people to go to the next county or across the state line to purchase firearms.

'Mistake' almost caused boil over

Suburban Demo split still hot item

by WANDALYN RICE
(A News Analysis)
Ordinarily, notices of political organization meetings sent to organization members and the press are about as controversial as mail addressed to "occupant."

It is a measure of the current tension between "regular" and independent Democrats in the Northwest suburbs that a notice for the Elk Grove Township Democratic Organization meeting last week nearly precipitated an organization crisis.

The notice was a harmless looking hand-written appeal for attendance at the organization's Friday candidate's night. It was on Elk Grove Democratic organization stationery with one small difference — the stationery did not list the name of Elk Grove committeeman William Rose.

The absence of Rose's name from the letterhead and the fact that he already had sent out a meeting notice over his own signature, which went to many of the same people receiving the anonymous notices, caused consternation.

Ever since Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley and Democratic Cook County Chairwoman Jane Byrne began earlier this year encouraging Democratic clubs in townships where the regular suburban organizations were not considered "regular" enough, tension has been building in suburban Democratic organizations which might be targets of new clubs.

Rose and the Elk Grove organization have been considered from the outset of the Daley drive in the suburbs to be a possible target of "regular" wrath. Few of the officials of the organization hold patronage jobs, and the group regularly allows so-called independent Democrats to speak. During the primary campaign, both the regular Daley-backed slate and those backed by Gov. Daniel Walker appeared at organization meetings.

Because of this, many Elk Grove Democrats, including Rose, jumped to the conclusion the anonymous meeting notice was a signal of some plot by Daley-led Democrats to undermine Rose.

Suspicion gazed momentarily at Joan Brennan, candidate for the Illinois House in the third district and a member of the Elk Grove organization.

Brennan, after all, is mounting a campaign against State Rep. Eugene Chapman, D-Arlington Heights, an independent Democrat who has incurred the anger of Daley regulars.

Brennan makes her own affiliations clear. She says she is a "regular" Democrat and anyone else is not "independent" but "irregular." And, Brennan says, "I won't buy irregular merchandise at the store, why should anyone buy it in politics?"

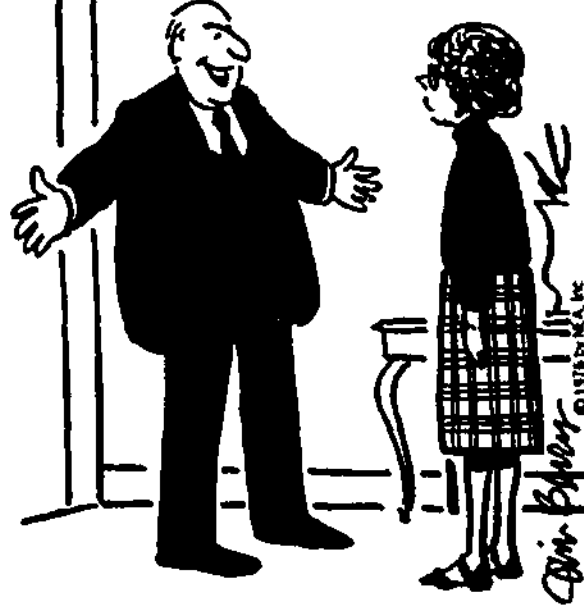

Just before the Elk Grove Democrats convened, Rose, clearly agitated by the sudden appearance of the extra meeting notice, said he was going to "confront" the issue and demand to know where it came from.

Then, suddenly, the crisis was over. The "extra" notice had been sent out by a diligent woman who has recently started helping Rose with party affairs. She just happened to get hold of the wrong stationery.

The meeting proceeded smoothly, with judicial candidates giving brief speeches and a final barbed exchange between Chapman and Brennan.

The incident was ended and Rose was apparently in no immediate jeopardy of being the next committeeman challenged by the Daley organization. But the tensions that caused the near-crisis in the Elk Grove Organization remain, just as they remain in other groups where suburban Democrats get together and look over their shoulders toward Chicago and the "Boss."

Right to lifers are heard but it isn't stopping those with a cause

Two weeks ago we read that Operation Nutrition, a food supplement program for the poor designed to meet the greater nutritional needs of pregnant women and young children, had been cancelled because of lack of funds. This week we find that impoverished women are not to have access to the full range of medical services either, unless they are willing to take the time and spend the money to prove to the government that their lives are in danger. Since the death rate for impoverished women in childbirth and newborns of the poor is double the death rate for the nonpoor; it can be argued that any indigent pregnant woman is at risk medically. The real intent of the Medicaid restriction on abortion is to deny a class of women the access to the same quality of medical care that other women have.

In 1971, Mary Treadwell Berry, an activist for black self-help, said, "The legislators of this country are overwhelmingly male and overwhelmingly white. While rejecting legal abortion, these very men sit in hypocritical splendor and refuse to provide an adequate guaranteed income for those children born to women without financial and social access to legal abortion. While rejecting legal abortion, these very men refuse to fund quality, inexpensive, pre-natal and post-natal care to women without access to abortion. While rejecting legal abortion, these very men refuse to fund quality education and training for the children of the woman without access to abortion."

"Black people cannot afford to have their personal freedom imposed upon by religious tenets or rhetoric. Let no church dare to define womb life to men when every day I see black life defiled, maimed and killed both physically and psychologically. Let no preacher ask me to religiously consider unborn life when I question the wisdom of introducing another black baby into life in white America. I question this wisdom in the name of all our unborn George Jacksons. I'll stay out of church, if the church stays out of my bed."

This anger hasn't disappeared simply because gangs of "right to lifers" have temporarily succeeded in drowning it out. It is a matter of how long we can continue to pay the high cost of keeping the poor "in their place" in ever fewer unskilled jobs and on public aid.

Arlene Cayer

Another opinion on TM program

I am writing in response to an article which appeared in the "World of Religion" column on Saturday, Sept. 11. In the past, The Herald has consistently provided very accurate and factual coverage of the Transcendental Meditation program. However, as a teacher of the Transcendental Meditation (TM) technique, I would like to clarify a few points which were covered in this recent article.

The Transcendental Meditation program does not involve any religious practice. Over 2,000 residents of the Northwest suburbs, including priests, pastors and rabbis, practice the program and find that the technique only helps to strengthen their own religious beliefs and cultural values.

Scientific research has demonstrated that the TM technique provides deep rest to the body, thus eliminating stress and tension. As doctors and scientists are reporting by eliminating stress through the natural, easy and effective technology of the TM program, the very cause of anxiety and disease is eliminated. The TM program is "quick and easy," but it is in no way temporary relief. Research has repeatedly shown that the results are immediate and permanent. Through regular practice of the Transcendental Meditation technique, enlightenment, or full potential of the individual, is systematically developed. Thus problems such as anxiety, or any psychological or physiological weakness, are permanently eliminated.

More support for police Cpl. O'Malley

It would seem that Ald. Huddleston believes there are rules with double standards in Rolling Meadows. Those for ordinary citizens and others for aldermen and their families.

Granted, his son needed a ride home. Under the circumstances, why didn't he make arrangements with someone attending the baseball meeting to give him a ride home, since they were probably leaving city hall at the same time the boy was?

Cpl. Brian O'Malley did not fail in his duty. As a police officer he followed orders. As a police officer and a person Brian O'Malley is one of Rolling Meadows' finest.

Worthy of note

We would like to take this opportunity to thank Bob Cooney of the Rolling Meadows Fire Dept. for the splendid way of bundling what could have been a major problem.

The pictures and lectures that Bob Cooney presented to our children taught them the hazards of playing with fire and we know they have stopped playing with matches.

We are sure that if more people would step forward and ask for help, a lot of lives and property could be saved.

I would like to publicly thank the paramedics of the Arlington Heights Police Dept., particularly officer Ronald Van Raabe, for not only trying to save my husband's life but for his continuing concern and helpfulness after his death. The concern shown for me after the immediate emergency will long be remembered.

BIG BUSINESS

A variation of an erstwhile popular song: "Where have all the gold bugs gone. Grown men crying..."

An ounce of gold has plummeted in price from its near $200 high at the start of 1975, when it became legal again for Americans to own it, to less than $110 by late summer of this year. And that drop in value doesn't take into account the cost of commissions, appraisals, storage and delivery charges; nor does it account for the fact that the owner of a chunk of gold earns not a cent on his investment in interest or dividends.

And now, with gold seemingly so low in price — at least as compared with its earlier high — investors are starting to wonder again if it might not be a good deal. And if not gold itself, what about the stock in companies that mine gold, many of which are also severely depressed in price compared to a year or two ago?

I SAID IT before, and I'll say it again: Gold is an extremely speculative commodity, producing no income, and subject to totally unpredictable world forces. As for mining stocks: their prices tend to follow the price of gold itself, in spite of the fact that many of them are diversified and not that dependent on gold for their income. In short, it's all still very much a crapshoot. Here are some of the factors that contribute to the odds.

• Is gold really low in relation to its previous high? Or is it still very high in relation to its previous low, which

Speaking dollar-wise

by Robert S. Rosefsky was the $40 range for many years? There is no consensus, which means flip a coin. The extreme upward climb from 1972 to 1974 was not prompted by actual market demands for gold as much as it was by wild-eyed speculation on the part of the gold bugs and their devotees. Contrary to what the gold bugs preached, the end of the world did not arrive, and paper currencies are still in vogue. The climb to the $200 level was, then, largely an artificial boost.

• World forces intervened, and likely will continue to do so. Russia, needing wheat, cashed in huge gold resources to pay for it. South Africa, whence much of the gold comes, continues to face strife, which could distort the normal production flow of the metal. The United States, wishing to minimize the role of gold as a form of international currency, auctions off large stockpiles to the highest bidder. Likewise, the International Monetary Fund auctions off portions of its supply, purportedly to provide money for poorer nations.

• Meanwhile, the international clout of gold diminishes in comparison with the newly emerging power of oil and wheat as trade bait among nations.

Considering these imponderables, plus the fact that the costs of investment and loss of use of your money require about a 20 per cent per year increase in the value of gold for you to break even, gold would have no glitter for the prudent investor.

Stock market slump in third day

NEW YORK (UPI) — Investor jitters over the nation's money supply drove prices lower Thursday for the third consecutive session in the slowest trading in nearly four weeks on the New York Stock Exchange.

The fears proved unfounded because the Federal Reserve Board reported after the market closed the nation's basic money supply fell a record $2.8 billion in the latest reporting week, following a record $4.5 billion surge the week before.

In the uncertainty prior to the report, the Dow Jones Industrial average fell one point to 890.19, bringing its three-day loss to 22.94 points. It had been off nearly four points at one time.

THE NYSE common stock index lost 0.07 to 56.23

Thursday and the average price of a common share decreased four cents. Standard & Poor's 500-stock index, which includes some over-the-counter stocks, lost 0.13 to 105.24.

Declines edged advances, 748 to 618, among the 1,800 issues crossing the tape.

Volume totaled 14,700,000 shares, down from the 18,090,000 traded Wednesday. It was the slowest turnover since 13,277,200 shares changed hands Sept. 3.

Prices closed lower in moderate trading on the American Stock Exchange. The Amex market value index lost 0.32 to 101.85, but there was no change in the price of a common share. Volume totaled 1,680,000 shares, compared with 1,770,000 traded Wednesday.

Price of raw farm products dips 0.5%

Sharp price declines in meat commodities, potatoes, wheat and oranges offset good gains in other areas to push the average of all raw farm product prices down by 0.5 per cent for the month ending Sept. 15, the U.S. Agriculture Dept. reported Thursday. Higher prices were reported for soybeans, cotton and milk to offset what otherwise would have been a continuation of a sharp price decline which began to decline last month after a July hiatus. Last month's decline was the steepest for a single month in two years. Before July the average for all farm product prices had increased for three consecutive months.

800 at Deere plant walk off jobs

About 800 United Auto Workers walked off their jobs at Deere and Co. in East Moline Thursday, 12 hours before a contract covering 27,000 workers in six states was due to expire. UAW officials said the walkout was in defiance of union orders. Union negotiators remained closeted with Deere in efforts to reach a new contract before the old pact ran out at midnight. Earlier Thursday, UAW Vice President Pat Greathouse, chief negotiator for the union, said the situation remains "fluid."

S&H redemption center opens

Ribboncutting ceremonies were held Thursday at the new S&H Green Stamp redemption center, 56 W. Wilson St., Palatine. Village Pres. Wendell E. Jones and other civic leaders participated in the event. Maureen O'Meara, manager of the new outlet, said the store will be open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesday through Saturday. The Palatine outlet is the fourth Chicago area S&H redemption store opened during 1976. There are 500 S&H redemption centers nationwide, said zone manager Norm Yager. More than 470 retailers in Illinois offer S&H stamps.

Pound rally fails to stick

The troubled British pound rallied briefly Thursday on foreign exchange markets but tumbled back again to close the day at another loss. The pound opened at $1.6650 and with a boost from government plans to seek a $3.9 billion international loan soared more than 3 cents to $1.70. However, as buying interest fell off, the pound's earlier gains were wiped out and it closed at $1.6610.

New freight terminal in Wheeling

Mason and Dixon Freight Lines Inc. of Kingsport, Tenn., has opened a freight terminal in Wheeling. The 25-door facility is located at 1102 S. Chaddick Dr. Mason-Dixon has 54 freight terminals nationwide.

Progress in strike at Ford?

Ford Motor Co. officials Thursday continued to emphasize privately that some progress is being made to end the 16-day-old strike by 170,000 workers against the No. 2 U.S. auto company. But at least one United Auto Workers source said the firm's optimism was little more than a public relations gesture and said many items are yet to be resolved before there is agreement on a new contract.

U.S. ups milk price support

The U.S. Dept. of Agriculture has increased the milk price support level paid to farmers by .13 cents to $1.26 per hundredweight, effective today. Higher processing costs account for higher margin also paid to milk processing plants. The adjustments "will give some needed price assurance to dairy farmers," said Patrick B. Healey, secretary of the National Milk Producers Federation. John Luss, a spokesman for Chicago Milk Distributors firm in Cicero, said he has not been notified by suppliers that the government pricing changes will affect retail costs.

Judith Guest: her life now far from 'ordinary'

by LAURA SCHMALBACH

Judith Guest comes on just like the mom next door.

Dressed in a comfortable pantsuit and furtively puffing a cigaret ("don't get this in the photo," she pleads with a grin, "my son would kill me"), the 40-year-old housewife sprinkles her conversation with other people's quotes and stories about her grocery shopping.

She fondly remembers the good times in her Palatine neighborhood, loves Erma Bombeck and says she couldn't stand living in New York because "that's not the world that interests me."

She is, in fact, ordinary — yet as the author of the best-selling novel "Ordinary People," she is enjoying a success that's anything but. The gripping story of a sensitive 17-year-old boy's comeback from a suicide attempt and eight-month mental hospital stay has brought her a cool $1 million and the fame to match. But the mother of three sons, still treats interviewers like neighbors in for coffee, and autograph requests are granted with thoughtfulness and a smile.

MS. GUEST'S TALE is enough to make all the closet writers in America dig out their Smith-Coronas and pound away. "Ordinary People," her first completed novel (she put away two others to finish it), is the first unsolicited manuscript Viking Press has accepted in 17 years. It's been picked up by five book clubs. Ballantine Paperbacks bought it for $635,000. And after he sent her a fan letter, Robert Redford successfully negotiated for the film rights.

Not bad for a former teacher whose only professional writing experience was as a part-time stringer for The Arlington Heights Herald back in 1967 and '68. Although Ms. Guest recalls a few library board meetings and a hand in the "Winston Party Line," a Palatine neighborhood column, she quickly admits she wasn't an ace reporter.

"It was good training, but I wasn't any good at it because I hated to ask questions about people's private lives," she says with a sheepish grin.

MS. GUEST'S ABILITY to probe the lives of her own characters has earned her novel rave reviews and comparisons to "Catcher in the Rye." She describes a suburban family's tentative adjustments to personal disaster with crisp emotionalism, and scenes like young Conrad's agonized encounter with a pretty new soprano bring back our own high school hallways with painful clarity.

The novel is filled with snatches of thought, the kind that Ms. Guest says "are my thoughts, too," and she sets a mood with prose that attracts readers — "like the hole in your mouth where your tooth was and you cannot keep your tongue from playing with it."

Some critics see the book, set in suburban Lake Forest with a tax attorney father and a tennis-playing mother, as a statement about suburbia and its lifestyle. But while the novel has plenty of references to expensive Mexican jackets and Christmas vacations in Europe, Ms. Guest emphatically denies a preoccupation with the "boonies."

"I'M A CHILD OF suburbia. I've read a lot of books on the subject, but I couldn't relate to them," she says. "I was just trying to make it seem real . . . everybody has problems no matter what class they're in. We're not so different from one another."

"Sure, there's a lot of plasticity here. Achievements for achievement's sake alone. But it's still a good life . . . all the good friends I have live in the suburbs, and I'm happy where I am," she adds with a toss of her short dark hair.

Ms. Guest does admit to a few kinks in her happiness. The hullabaloo is beginning to take its toll, and the good-natured lady from Edina, Minn., is finding herself "anxious to get back home."

"Giving all these interviews hurts a little," she says. "I'm constantly giving away pieces of myself, and I'm not as tired of it as I am afraid that I'll give it all away and have nothing left for myself."

SHE SAYS SHE'S looking forward to cooking dinners again, to catching up on her "passion for words." But, most of all, she's eager to get back to her typewriter, this time, a novel set in Detroit.

One of the many quotes about writing that adorn her study is by Herbert Gold. Like him, she writes "to master my experience."

"I think everyone has a human need to control," she muses. "Writing gives me that. I can sit down at my typewriter, invent these people, and tell them what to do . . . and do it! It's great." Great for Judith Guest — and even greater for her readers.

JUDITH GUEST has never taken a writing "People" is a best-selling novel that's won rave course: "They're too intimidating," she says. reviews, and instant fame for the suburban "You can do anything you want if you do it," housewife-turned author who is a former Palatine. She ought to know . . . her "Ordinary" fine resident.

Composer Bernard Herrmann

His music made movies come alive

by TOM VON MALDER

"I feel music on the screen can seek out and intensify the inner thoughts of the characters. It can invest a scene with terror, grandeur, gaiety or misery. It can propel the narrative swiftly forward or slow it down."

"It often lifts mere dialogue into the realm of poetry. Finally, it is the communicating link between the screen and the audience, reaching out and enveloping all into one single experience."

That was how Bernard Herrmann, often called the Wagner of film music, described his craft before his death last Christmas Eve. His career, studded with more brilliance than that of a dozen ordinary film composers, stretched from the landmark "Citizen Kane" (1941) to the recently released "Obsession."

Herrmann's skill was in creating rich musical tapestries with full orchestral colors. The music was so well blended with the film, it often became overlooked. Too, he created unusual sound combinations, such as the string-only orchestra for "Psycho" (1960) and the electronics of "The Day the Earth Stood Still" (1951) and "Journey to the Center of the Earth" (1959).

HERRMANN'S TRAINING was in the classics, studying composition at New York University and the Juilliard School. In his early post-graduate days he was composing ballet and founded the critically successful New Chamber Orchestra. Before going to Hollywood, he had completed a symphony, a violin concerto and a cantata based on Herman Melville's "Moby Dick."

His love of the classics would never leave, and in later life Herrmann championed many young composers and helped rescue from obscurity the works of Charles Ives and romantic symphonists Raff and Gade. But becoming a staff conductor for CBS radio in the late '30s initiated the shift in Herrmann's career toward the movies.

At CBS Herrmann worked with Orson Welles as musical director for the Mercury Theater (including the famed "War of the Worlds" broadcast). This led to his scoring "Citizen Kane," "The Magnificent Ambersons" (1942) and "Jane Eyre" (1943) for Welles.

THE "CITIZEN KANE" score with its use of leitmotif (recurring musical themes) — the four-note brass figure for Kane's power and the vibraphone solo for Rosebud — became an instant classic and won Herrmann an Academy Award nomination. The score also demonstrated Herrmann's skill in writing music for photographic montages.

Herrmann did not win an Oscar for "Citizen Kane," but he did win one the same year for "All That Money Can Buy," a film based on "The Devil and Daniel Webster." The score contained one of his first uses of electronics, a singing telephone wire for the devil's sound effect, as well as strings to build suspense.

Throughout the following years, Herrmann's output was huge and diversified. There was the discordant score for "Hangover Square" (1945), the romantic "The Ghost and Mrs. Muir" (1947), "Anna and the King of Siam" (1946) and a third Oscar nomination for "The Snows of Kilmanjaro" (1952), "Garden of Evil" (1954) and "Beneath the Twelve Mile Reef" (1953).

... Albums hard to find

Despite the critical acclaim and genius of Bernard Herrmann's musical scores, little of his work is available on record.

United Artists has reissued some of the early classics, including "Citizen Kane," and you can still find copies of "The Egyptian" in the bargain bins, but newer works are unavailable. For example, "Sisters" (1973) and "The Night Digger" (1971), both considered strong, effective scores, are hidden away with their films.

Since Herrmann's death, Arista has issued "Taxi Driver" and London has issued "Obsession."

IN THE THREE years prior to his death, London allowed Herrmann to conduct several of his more important film pieces. The albums, which are still available, include "The Fantasy Film World of Bernard Herrmann," "The Mysterious Film World of Bernard Herrmann," "Music From the Great Classics" and "Music From the Great Film Thrillers" (an all-Hitchcock collection), as well as a sampler "Bernard Herrmann Conducts Psycho and Other Film Scores."

One hopes that record companies will bargain with film companies to issue some of his forgotten scores and reissue the long unavailable albums, such as "The Seventh Voyage of Sinbad" valued at $200 and "Vertigo" at $100.

— Tom Von Malder

HE BECAME associated with fantasy movies, including "The Seventh Voyage of Sinbad" (1958), "The Three Worlds of Gulliver" (1960), "Jason and the Argonauts" (1963), "Mysterious Island" (1961) and "Fantasia." In all he was able to bring the fantastic creatures and events to life through his music.

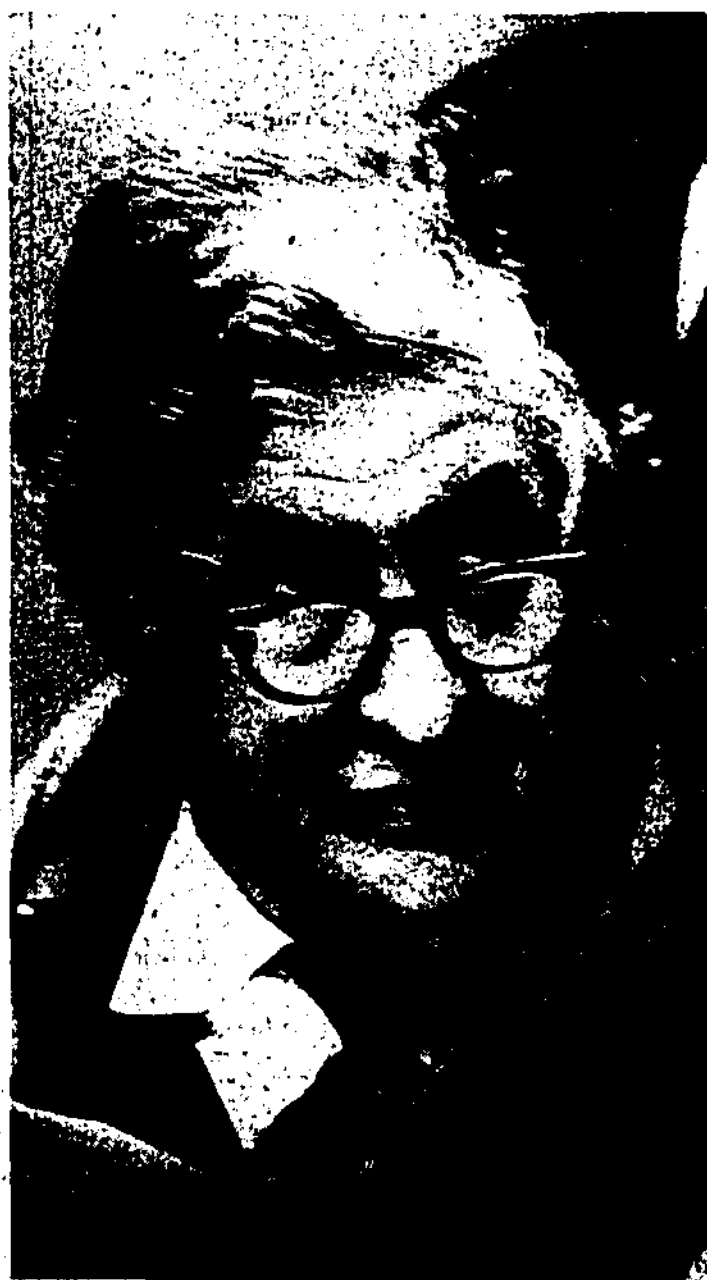

In 1950, Herrmann began one of his most famous collaborations, with Alfred Hitchcock. It lasted for eight straight films, culminating in "North By Northwest" and "Psycho" but included "The Trouble With Harry," "The Man Who Knew Too Much" (with a cameo appearance by Herrmann as a conductor), "Vertigo," "The Wrong Man" and "Marnie." He created electronic simulations of bird cries and wing-flapping for "The Birds."

The great years with Hitchcock broke down when in 1965 Hitchcock rejected Herrmann's score for "Torn Curtain" in favor of John Addison's music, because the studio executives were looking for a more commercial score, one they could make money on with a soundtrack album.

IT WAS WHEN THIS same lust for commercialism swept over the movie music industry and led to numerous pop scores that Herrmann resigned from the Motion Picture Academy, saying he would rather be judged by his peers than his inferiors.

He then continued to go his own way, still creating great music, including "Taxi Driver" and "Obsession," his last two scores. Now the talk is he may be nominated for Oscars for both films, breaking the long drought in nominations since 1946.

The posthumous tribute would not have impressed Herrmann. He wrote for the audience who sits in the theater watching the films, not for the critics.

OFTEN CALLED the Wagner of film music, Bernard Herrmann set many a movie to music, from the landmark "Citizen Kane" in 1941 to "Obsession" released this year. He died Christmas Eve at the age of 64.

Loretta Haggars makes album under real name

Life does imitate art. Would-be country superstar Loretta Haggars of the "Mary Hartman, Mary Hartman" television soap opera has released an album of progressive country music under her real-life name of Mary Kay Place.

"Tondle! At the Capel Lounge Loretta Haggars" (Columbia records) is more than just a quick cash-in on new-found fame. Place has talent and an enthusiasm that bubbles through this album. And she has the strong musical support of Emmylou Harris' backup band, as well as the vocal support of Harris, Dolly Parton and Anne Murray.

The highlights of the album have to be the two songs Place wrote herself and introduced on TV — "Vitamin L" (the vitamin her mother never told her about) and "Baby Boy" (her husband Charlie in the series). It is fitting that "Baby Boy" has just been released as her first single, as it was on television.

The rest of the album is a good mix of generally uptempo music, with a little bit of swing and gospel. "Coke and Chips," Parton's "All I Can Do" and "Have a Little Talk With Jesus" are other strong songs.

Look for Loretta Haggars to be reading the Billboard album charts this season as her real-life album moves up the charts.

Other new releases include:

• "Hasten Down the Wind" by Linda Ronstadt (Asylum). This contains her typical, skillfully done batch of brokenhearted ballads, written in part by Ry Cooder, Warren Zevon and Willie Nelson. There's even a Spanish song, "Lo Siento Mi Vida," and the torchy "Crazy." The rejuvenated oldie, "That'll Be the Day," was the single. Peter Asher's production, as usual, lends beauty to the music.

• "All I Can Do" by Dolly Parton (RCA). A fine, bright collection aimed at the pop market as well as her legion of country fans, this album has eight new Parton tunes, including "Preacher Tom" and "I'm A Drifter." Also Merle Haggard and Emmylou Harris each contribute a song.

• "Diamond In the Rough" by Jessi Colter (Capitol). Slithering sultry ballads sung huskily and mournfully make up the bulk of this excellent album, but there are funky, contrived versions of two Beatles' songs, "Get

by Tom Von Malder

Back" and "Hey Jude," to liven the pace. Waylon Jennings is among the solid group of musicians who help out.

• "Hard Rain" by Bob Dylan (Columbia). Dylan's second live album is not a soundtrack from the recent television special. Only four songs from the show are among the album's nine songs and, except for Mick Ronson, the superstar backing is missing. Nevertheless, the album is exciting and full of energy, with even the coarseness of sound an asset. The driving version of "Maggie's Farm" and an emotional "I Threw It All Away" stand out.

• "This One's For You" (Arista) is Barry Manilow's best all-round album to date. His uptempo songs, like "Day-break" and "Jump Shout Boogie," are among his most entertaining. His choice of Randy Edelman's ballad "Weekend In New England" is excellent, as it avoids the sentimental cloyiness that has marred his previous work.

• "One More From the Road" by Lynyrd Skynyrd (MCA). This two-record, live set has excellent sound quality. If it weren't for the well-deserved applause, you'd think this was a studio album. The song selection covers the band's most familiar work, including "Tuesday's Gone" and the closing scorcher "Free Bird." The band is one of this country's best rockers.

• "The Movies" (Arista). The Movies is a New York band that actually believes in harmonies and pretty melodies (thank goodness, an antidote to The Ramones). "Dancin' On Ice" is the song that grabs the strongest on first hearing, and the group had the chance to sing it last Sunday on NBC TV's "Big Event" which won't hurt its effort to win an audience.

The lyrics are not very meaningful, however. "Empty Room," for example, compares cleaning out an "empty room" (sounds like a trick itself) and washing dishes to forgetting a girl.

Worms take over town in newest scare movie

by DAVID DUGAS

There are people who find worms repellent, especially when millions of very big ones are squirming their way across the living room floor. But they are not likely to see a movie promising just that.

It is titled "Squirm" and it presents the remote (and fictional) little town of Fly Creek, Ga., where a powerful summer storm has knocked down power lines, transmitting electricity right into the soaked ground.

That sends crazed worms to the surface where they'd as soon burrow right under your skin as look at you.

Reportedly based on an actual incident, this scare tale focuses on the plight of Don Scardino, a New York resident who is visiting Patricia Percy and her family, mother Jean Sullivan and sister Fran Higgins.

NO SOONER has Scardino hit town and belled up to the town soda fountain than he finds a worm in his chocolate egg cream. In no time at all, worms are popping out of bathroom shower heads, falling down the ceiling and killing off the neighbors.

Scardino gets the movie's best line when he discovered a man's body filled with worms.

"Talk about New York!" says the guy from the Big Apple.

Review

On a fishing trip, Scardino, Percy and R. A. Dow, the son of a live bait seller, narrowly miss becoming the main course for the vicious nibblers.

Down's father, (Carl Degenhart) is not as lucky and becomes a victim of the ravenous bait he markets. Later, the town sheriff (Peter MacLean) and his girlfriend Barbara Quinn are done in by hordes of the creatures who surround them in bed.

THE PERFORMANCES in this bucolic horror story are adequate enough under the direction of Jeff Lieberman, who also wrote the script. Unfortunately the worms become so numerous, filling entire rooms with what looks like animated spaghetti, they are revolting but not convincing. Yet there are a few scenes — worms wiggling their way under flesh — engulfing withering victims — well calculated to jolt you out of your seat.

"Squirm" is from American International Pictures, which turned a somewhat similar trick with "Frogs" a couple of years ago. It's rated R.

'Swashbuckler' may signal comeback of pirate films

by DICK KLEINER

Hollywood is closely watching the box office record of "The Swashbuckler" to see if it's time for pirate films to make a comeback.

James Goldstone, who directed the film, thinks this is the perfect time. He believes it is attracting viewers of all ages for different reasons.

Adults, he says, remember the pirate films of their youth and will want to see a new one. Younger audiences will be attracted by the message inherent in the pirate film format.

"Pirate films," Goldstone says, "have always been anti-establishment — the heroes are fighting the government, which is always shown to be corrupt and evil."

"THE SWASHBUCKLER" is probably the first film in which a ship gets star billing. Besides Robert Shaw, Genevieve Bufo, James Earl Jones and Beau Bridges, the credits read: "and The Golden Hind as The Blarney Cock."

The Golden Hind is an authentic replica of Sir Francis Drake's pirate ship and well deserves its billing.

Goldstone says the picture is an attempt to do a swashbuckling pirate film as though they never stopped making them, even though there hasn't been a real pirate epic for nearly 40 years. He feels "The Swashbuckler" is how it would be done if they had continued making them.

Thus, it has a modern flavor although the theme and the content are strictly out of the past. You could call it an old-fashioned, new-fangled picture.

Movie guide

Designed to help readers decide which movies they want to see, this guide includes a listing of movies currently playing in the Northwest suburban area plus capsule summaries and comments, based on reports of the Independent Film Journal, for selected films of interest to readers.

Burnt Offerings — Robert Marasco's best-selling gothic potboiler about eerie goings-on at a murderous mansion has been transformed into a silly, uninvolved and drastically overlong movie that seems tailor-made for a late-night TV slot. Stars Karen Black and Oliver Reed. (PG)

"The Shootist" — John Wayne mellows into what may prove the finest role of his career, an aging legendary gunfighter who puts his lifelong ideals in order as he waits out the final seven days of his life. Also stars Lauren Bacall, Ron Howard, James Stewart, Richard Boone. (PG)

"The Omen" — Satan is at it again. This time channeling his monstrous powers through the innocent-looking 5-year-old son of police Gregory Peck and Lee Remick. An extremely handsome production that is well acted and packed with plenty of spine-tingling suspense and chills. Not for the faint of heart. (R)

"Sleat Movie" — Mum's the word from Mel Brooks in this big-budget contemporary silent movie that unleashes a cascade of sight gags, pratfalls and broadly comic set pieces, linked to the connecting story of a minor studio's last-ditch efforts to avoid bankruptcy. Stars Mel Brooks, Marty Feldman and Dom DeLuise. (PG)

"Futureworld" — Entertaining sequel to 1973's "Westworld," this time starring Peter Fonda and Blythe Danner as a pair of investigative reporters who stumble on a plan to turn world leaders and opinion makers into brainwashed living robots. (PG)

"The Sailor Who Fell From Grace With the Sea" — Offbeat but ponderously played romantic horror story about an English widow (Sarah Miles), an American sailor (Kris Kristofferson) and the gruesome lengths her perversely disturbed son goes to in order to squelch their liaison. (R)

Country Players choose new play

"Play It Again, Sam," the Broadway comedy coming to Shady Hill Community House, Barrington, Oct. 15, promises a lot of penetrating humor on the subject of marriage, and some of it may be more truth than fiction, truth about the private life of author Woody Allen.

The Country Players, a community theater group with members in many of the Northwest suburbs, has chosen this play for its first presentation of the season.

Rehearsals are now under way, and anyone interested in working on the production end of the play is welcome. "Play It Again, Sam" will run Friday and Saturday nights the last three weekends of October at the community house, Arch Drive off Kelsey Road, Barrington. Tickets at $3 are available from Pat Honig, 382-1419.

Riverfront restaurant loaded with atmosphere

All that was lacking was the sound of fog horns the night my companion and I crossed the gangplank midst swirls of river fog.

Port of Entry, a riverfront restaurant on Rte. 31, one mile north of Rte. 64 in St. Charles, offers what most suburban restaurants lack: an abundance of atmosphere. The food, however, is unimaginative though good.

Outside, P.O.E. looks like a riverfront warehouse. It's an easy illuation, what with the Fox River lapping against its walls.

In the dining area bales of cotton, sacks of grain and hanging brass scales filled with exotic spices make patrons feel as though they've just stepped off the boat.

And, that's exactly what the owner had in mind.

FRANK NADELL has also succeeded in presenting a "package dinner" at a reasonable price without sacrificing quality.

Most shoppers know, if you pick up your "package" at the port of entry, you save on freight costs.

Nadell's P.O.E. Restaurant has no a la carte offerings on its menu.

The dinner price includes everything: two cocktails before dinner, appetizer, salad, main entree with potatoes and even an after-dinner drink. Adult dinners without cocktails are $1.75 less.

P.O.E. serves hearty portions of steaks, pork and beef barbecue ribs, fried shrimp and lobster tails. Dover sole and flaming shish-kebab round out the mostly American menu.

I enjoyed the filet and lobster combination and my companion ordered ribs, lightly seasoned and cooked just right.

MY BAKED POTATO was served hot and the waiter refilled our bread basket and butter dish without being asked. Though you won't find anything out of the ordinary on this menu, the food is good and service is excellent.

P.O.E. has no house special. However, it does specialize in catering to the average or hearty appetite. Meals are proportioned and priced accord-

U of I Symphony to play in area

The University of Illinois Symphony Orchestra will be on tour in the Chicago suburban area Oct. 7-8, playing concerts in Barrington, Mount Prospect and Palatine among other communities.

Both days the 100-member student orchestra will play at various high schools. An appearance is scheduled at Prospect High in Mount Prospect at 9:15 a.m. Friday, Oct. 8.

The two evening performances are in the Northwest suburbs, Thursday at 8 in the auditorium of Barrington High School and Friday at 8 at Harper College. Ticket information for the Barrington concert is available at 381-1400 ext. 278. The Harper concert is free.

ingly. A lot of people have been looking for that.

The "Hearty" dinners include a lazy susan loaded with such appetizers as liver pate, cheese and a variety of munchies. The price includes salad, potato and a main entree plus cocktails and wine with dinner for $9.50 Sunday through Tuesday. It's $9.95 Wednesday through Friday and $10.95 on Saturdays and holidays.

AVERAGE PORTIONS will cost a diner $4.95 Sunday through Tuesday, $7.45 Wednesday through Friday, and $7.95 Saturdays and holidays.

The average portions are more than adequate. Hearty on the P.O.E. menu means just that. Be prepared for a feast if you decide to order the larger portions.

In addition to the unusual atmosphere, waiters and waitresses encourage guests to relax after dinner and enjoy the view.

We dined over coffee and after-dinner drinks without being rushed.

P.O.E. serves diners as they sit in huge crates dressed up as booths, but it's a fun place to eat.

Elk Grove Arts Guild's first program series of the year begins Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. at Elk Grove Village Library. Entitled "Chicago, Chicago," the four-part series will feature Chicago personalities speaking on facets of life in "the second city." The first speaker is Don Kilmovich, writer for Chicago magazine, who will discuss Chicago nightlife.

The free program will last an hour and is open to the public. Subsequent programs will be held Oct. 20, Nov. 3 and Nov. 17.

This represents the arts guild's first presentation in Elk Grove Village. In the past the guild has sponsored cultural excursions to Chicago and these outings will be continued.

Further information is available from Richard Callisch at 439-4800, ext. 71.

'Take A Number, Darling'

Sharkey comedy not up to par

Elk Grove playwright JACK SHARKEY stays with the same basic style. His comedies are all zany, unpredictable with all kinds of mistaken identities. Sharkey's brain must be constantly churning to come up with enough crazy schemes and characters.

Unfortunately, "TAKE A NUMBER, DARLING," his 14th play now premiering at COUNTRY CLUB COMEDY THEATER in Mount Prospect, does not measure up to his previous work.

The storyline is weak and confusing. The audience is kept in the dark most of the first act — not sure what to expect. That's O.K. if there is enough action to divert attention. But there isn't.

The madcap antics don't begin until the final round, and then too much redundancy and an over-the-top cast together stomp the finer points of a good farce into the ground.

Yet, despite being long and drawn out, the comedy is original and light-hearted. I could live with the tedious beginning if Sharkey's one-liners were more up-to-date. They fall flat in this liberated age. Sexist? I'd never accuse him. I know better. Even so, the play reeks of subtle feminine put-downs, the kind that make women insist on opening doors for themselves.

TOM VENTRIS is good as Duncan Latimer, a concert pianist who practices at home while his wife, Elleen (DORIS SILVER), plays her role every day on a popular soap opera.

Ventris makes Latimer come alive — as a personality. But who told him he could play piano?

PAT MOYER is cast as Bill Rutledge, an old army buddy of Duncan's and former sweetheart of Elleen's. Only Duncan doesn't know the latter, and Bill doesn't know Elleen is now Duncan's wife. The last time he saw her she has a different name and different career — collecting garbage. See what I mean?

But wait one second. Duncan's "almost" wife — he was only married five minutes — comes back to claim him. She happens to be a Spanish dancer who doesn't speak a word of English, or pretends not to anyhow.

JANET DAVIDSON plays Elleen, and she runs around looking confused most of the time, exactly like the audience looks most of the time.

Assigned to straighten out the entire mess is NANCY KOLE, the Latimers' public relations agent (I prefer that to "girl"), who inadvertently lets a nosy reporter (RICK SNYDER) come in and dig around the homestead for some dirt. And boy, does he find it.

Snyder's character is best written and best played. He meshes the third act and turns out to be a refreshing highlight of the evening.

This would-be farce directed by Ed Sauer would do well with some serious tightening, further character development and real money. What's the purpose of passing play money? Times aren't that bad.

Country Club Theatre's MONDAY-NIGHT SHOWCASE has reopened with "SWINGER - HECKELL AND MR. HIDE," a comedy-drama by local playwright JOSEPH KROUCHICK of Mount Prospect.

Staged Monday nights when most theaters are closed, Monday-Night Showcase was designed to give new local talent an opportunity to see what they can do. This is the first production of a play by Krouchick who has finished two other scripts he hopes to see staged one day.

Night out

by Genie Campbell

This is BARBI BENTON'S third visit to the BLUE MAX of the REGENCY HYATT HOUSE. And each time she has introduced almost a brand new show and an increasingly sophisticated image. Barbi's into more of a light rock sound as opposed to pure country, though this time around she remembers her beginning with a Hank Williams medley.

But most of her show covers new songs from her most recent album, "Something New," recorded, naturally, on the Playboy label.

She sings the little song, "Needing You," a catchy "Slaying Power" and her old stand-by that describes herself, "Brass Buckles." She also includes the number she sang on the ABC Mystery Movie, "Ain't That Just the Way?", a favorite of mine because of the powerful, lilting lyrics.

Just as her singing style is developing so is her stage presence. It's a much more subdued, covered up Barbi who comes out on stage for this engagement signaling that Barbi is not only growing up but also out of Playboy.

There's nothing hidden in this offer . . . not even the camera. All you need do is be a customer, or open any new savings or checking account before the sitting dates. There are no fees or print costs—it's another service that shows we believe "Just being there isn't enough."

Simply stop in or call the Suburban bank where you are a customer, give your account number and make an appointment. That's all there is to it!

Proofs will be shown to you and any one pose may be selected (but we warn you—it may be difficult picking just one. These FAMILY PORTRAIT photographers are really good).

If you wish to order additional portraits, they will be available in all sizes. But that's up to you . . . there is no obligation.

So act now. Then you'll have your new 8 x 10 portrait in plenty of time for Christmas. It's a gift the whole family will treasure.

The doctor says

by Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Several conditions cause fatty liver

I recently had my gall bladder removed and at the time of the operation they also took a liver biopsy. They told me that I had a fatty liver and that I should avoid all alcohol. I don't drink anyway. The doctor didn't put me on any special diet or anything and only said to avoid stress.

I couldn't work for four months and at the end of that period I went back to the hospital for another liver biopsy. It showed no change in the condition, but my doctor allowed me to go back to work. I just had to avoid smelling certain solvents and chemicals (which I don't work with anyway).

My question is, what causes a fatty liver and what can be done about it? I'm sure there's something I can do to reverse it. Since I don't know what I did wrong to get it, I don't know if I'm continuing to make it worse unwittingly.

Deposition of fat in the liver can occur in any number of conditions that damage the liver. Use of alcohol is only one example. Starvation can do it because the mobilization of fat stores for energy overloads the liver with fat. It also happens in untreated severe diabetes and after inflammation of the liver. The fatty liver is sometimes replaced then by abnormal architecture of the regenerated liver and scarring, resulting in the condition we call cirrhosis of the liver.

My guess is that the fatty liver is secondary to the disease you had of the gall bladder. There isn't much you can do about it. It may not progress to anything more serious for you. I would suggest though that you take an all-purpose vitamin tablet every day and that you make sure your diet contains at least seven ounces of lean red meat each day. Why? Because the meat contains choline, a substance that helps prevent deposition of fat in the liver. It will not harm you and may be very helpful.

To give you more information on the liver, how it works and what fatty liver and cirrhosis means I am sending you The Health Letter number 7-8, Living With Your Liver. Others who want more information on this subject can send a long, stamped self-addressed envelope with 50 cents for it. Just send your request to me in care of Paddock Publications, P.O. Box 326, San Antonio, Tex. 78292.

I am annoyed with people blaming my sensitivity to cold weather — San Francisco wind or drafts — on poor blood. I give to the blood bank every three months and am in good health, never get cold hands and feet. What is the medical reason for this? I'm 52 years old, 5 feet 1 and weigh 113 pounds. I have thin arms and legs. I am easily chilled, especially around the neck, arms and back.

The sensation of chilliness is dependent upon nerve fibers in the skin and this does not necessarily mean a person's body is cold. It may mean that the body is trying to conserve heat and has shut down the flow of blood to the skin but that has nothing to do with poor circulation.

My guess is that you chill easily because you have no internal thermal underwear. What do I mean? I mean no fat pad. Fat tissue insulates the body and holds body heat in. That is why fat people don't tolerate hot weather well. Be thankful you are thin as you will stay healthier longer. Just put your insulation on the outside as clothing. You can take that off or put it on when you need to, which your friends with weight problems cannot do — so rejoice and count your blessings.

Naptha soap for trees a remedy that worked

Dear Dorothy: Your column said something about using naptha soap on trees. How strong does one make the solution? Is it sprayed on? — John Schonoff

This deterrent treatment appears in none of the tree books and all I've been doing is recounting personal experience. It began with the advice of nurserymen for the care of dogwoods. A piece of the soap put in the crotch of each dogwood seemed to keep borers away. One doubting Thomas wrote the University agricultural school and was told it seemed to work. Then the practice spread to other trees and many of my neighbors made solutions of water with the naptha soap, but without specific measurements. They sprayed tree trunks from the ground upwards to about three feet or so. The trees stayed healthy and we attributed much of this to the naptha soap. The one drawback is that rain washes off the stuff quickly and so repeat action is often necessary.

Dear Dorothy: Want a simple way to do frozen cauliflower? Sauté it with margarine in a covered pan until almost tender. Then put it in a baking dish, sprinkle with Parmesan cheese and put in a 350-degree oven until brown. — Maryann Morrill

Dear Dorothy: Does everyone know that hot glass dishes should not be cooled suddenly? Accidentally put a hot dish in a puddle of cold water on the kitchen counter. It went "bam" — and I was lucky not to be hit by the fragments. — Joyce Rollins

Dear Dorothy: Which is better to season lumber — air drying or kiln drying? And which takes longer? — Harry Kohl Both ways season properly. Air drying takes longer.

(Mrs. Ritz welcomes questions and hints. If a personal reply is required, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Write to Dorothy Ritz in care of Suburban Living, Paddock Publications, Box 226, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60004.)

Supermarket stars

NEW YORK (UPI) — A supermarket trade magazine says floral departments are the supermarkets' new superstars, "outpacing virtually every other product group in sight."

Plants lead the way, but flowers are growing fast, said an article in Progressive Grocer. The report cited the case of a market in Oklahoma City that doubled its floral department volume, going from $5,000 to $10,000 in one week when it ran a sale. The increase reflected a greater profit than the entire meat department of a typical supermarket and half as much profit as an entire grocery section, the magazine said.

The article's annual report on the industry said some independent companies have shown a 600 per cent hike in horticultural volume in the past three years. Between 1972 and 1975, independents merchandising fresh flowers or plants grew from 20 per cent to 46 per cent. Nearly half of all supermarkets currently have some permanent horticultural display, Progressive Grocer estimated.

Most observers see an unlimited run in this growth.

Ask Andy

Circus dates to ancient spectacles

Andy sends the Encyclopaedia Britannica's 1976 Yearbook of Science and the Future to Nandini Sethi, 2, of Toronto, Ont., Canada, for the question: WHO STARTED THE CIRCUS?

People not only love to laugh, they also love to be thrilled by daring feats they themselves would be scared to try. These two elements account for the universal appeal of the circus. And although the modern circus is only a couple hundred years old, many aspects are direct descendants of entertainment forms thousands of years old.

The ancient Romans put on splendid displays of chariot racing to wildly cheering throngs. In fact, the word "circus," meaning circle or ring, comes from the Roman Circus Maximus, a gigantic oblong arena which seated 180,000 persons. Rome had several "circuses," buildings or spaces where races and athletic contests were held. Occasionally, wild animals were brought into the arena to be pitted against each other or some human challenger. The circus of today bears little resemblance to early Roman spectacles. Usually our modern productions occur inside an enormous tent or stadium where parades, trapeze artists, clowns, horsemen, acrobats and trained animals dazzle our eyes.

Two Englishmen, Philip Ashley and Charles Hughes, contributed greatly to the popularity of the circus during the 18th Century. Ashley, who combined horsemanship and acrobatics with clowning, is considered the "father of the circus." He built amphitheaters in many English cities, while Hughes introduced the popular new form of entertainment to Russia.

In the United States, the circus quickly gained large audiences. John Richetts put on the first completely varied circus in Philadelphia in 1793. One of the spectators was George Washington. Whether a simple one-ring show or an elaborate production with full band, the circus has survived down through the years as a unique entertainment experience.

Andy sends a Student Globe to Scott Lackwood, 15, of Sandy Utah, for his question:

CAN YOU PLEASE TELL ME ABOUT THE ANT LION?

Scott has a little insect in his yard which gobbles up ants. It lies waiting for these juicy morsels in a funnel dug in the loose, sandy ground. Inside this pit, only its powerful jaws are exposed and when the prey tumbles in — snap! — it's gone. This stealthy insect is an ant lion, sometimes called a doodlebug, and its trapping tactics are only a part of its life story. For as soon as this larval stage ends and it is fully grown, it spins a rough cocoon. Later it emerges as a lovely creature with four long delicate wings, somewhat resembling a dragonfly.

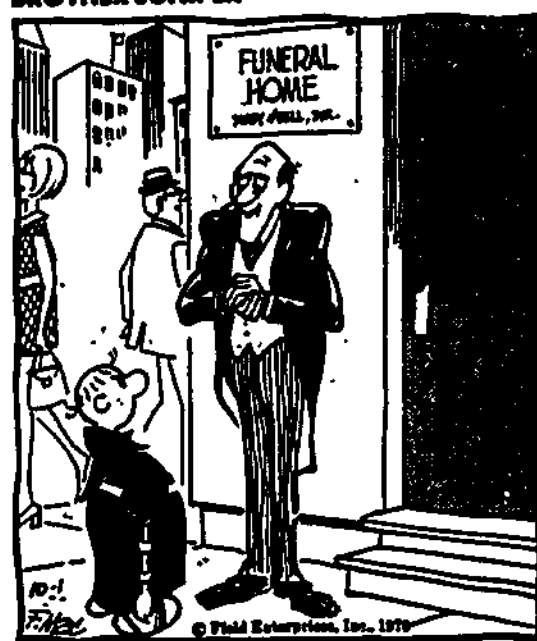

Meanwhile, back in the pit, as soon as an ant or some other small insect wanders over the edge, the ant lion goes into action. It tosses sand up from the base to confuse its victim and to keep the avalanche rolling.

Then it seizes its prey and drags it further down the hole. After eating selected parts, the ant lion casts the remains out of the pit. Then it repairs its trap and settles down to wait for the next innocent passer-by. The ant lion larva's method of obtaining food is not very lionlike, but it certainly is efficient.

Princess Grace hails uncle's play

by JOAN HANAUER

NEW YORK (UPI) — "It's true that there seem to be fewer women's roles today. Perhaps women have lost their mystique a little bit."

That's the view of Princess Grace of Monaco, the former Grace Kelly of Philadelphia, New York and Hollywood.

Her Serene Highness, sounding every bit as serene as her title, agreed to a telephone interview from Paris in order to discuss the PBS broadcast "The Fatal Weakness," a Hollywood Television Theater version of the 1946 Broadway Play by her uncle, George Kelly. PBS broadcasts the show Sept. 30 (consult local PBS station of exact day and time).

THE PLAY STARS Eva Marie Saint in a sophisticated comedy about a middle class woman whose middle-headed sentimentality wrecks her marriage — a role originated on Broadway by Ina Claire. Kelly's best known play was "Craig's Wife," with a dilly of a woman's lead.

"I saw the television show when I was in New York in July," Princess Grace said, "and I was delighted with it. I thought it was very well done, I thought the performances were good, I thought Eva Marie Saint was perfectly delightful and charming in the leading part. I had seen Ina Claire do it in New York years ago. Eva Marie Saint's performance compares very favorably."

She added that she thought the play held up over the years — that while styles have changed, "I don't think human problems change. Relationships between people are basically the same. For that it's very timely."

Loser disappears by magic

This is the sort of hand that looks easy to the expert. He has four apparent losers, but he causes one to disappear into thin air by the use of what is known as an elimination play.

He assumes that West has opened a singleton spade. He wins the lead in his own hand and plays a club. West rises with the ace and leads a second club. No other lead is any better.

South wins, draws trumps and leads a diamond toward dummy. Dummy's king wins the first or second diamond and another diamond is played. This will give West two diamonds and one club and a headache. He will have to lead a card in one of those suits. South will ruff in dummy and discard his losing spade!

This is what would happen with an expert declarer, but there is a way to defeat the contract. Instead of taking his ace when the first club is led, West plays the queen. South must draw trumps before leading a second club which East must take with his nine. Now East plays the queen of spades. South takes the ace in dummy, comes to his hand with a trump and leads a diamond. West plays the queen of this suit. Dummy takes the king, but when the second diamond is played, East wins. He cashes his jack of spades, leads another spade and the defense waits for West to get his diamond trick.

Win at bridge

by Oswald and Jim Jacoby

Grid card features North games tonight

No unbeaten teams remain after 3 weeks; patterns expected to emerge in key games

by KEITH REINHARD

Now that just about everyone is totally confused, Mid-Suburban League football moves into full swing this weekend with the opening of North Division play.

Six area games are on tap Friday night — five of them MSL tilts — and three more high school contests are slated for tomorrow involving local squads. After Saturday it's possible that patterns will begin to emerge, but so far, one can only make calculated guesses about where the power lies.

Combat Friday will see Arlington at Hersey, Buffalo Grove at Palatine and Wheeling at Fremd in north division tilts. Elk Grove, meanwhile, will visit Forest View and Prospect will entertain Conant as the MSL South continues to heat up from last week.

Maine West will be at Glenbrook North in a Central Suburban South showdown to round out this evening's log.

Thus far, about the only certainty is that there will be no undefeated group blossoming from the local ranks at the conclusion of the 1976 campaign. Elk Grove, Hoffman Estates and Regis de Iowa put the damper on the area's remaining three unbeaten teams (Rolling Meadows, Forest View, Buffalo Grove) last weekend.

Here's the bill of fare for Friday:

ELK GROVE AT FOREST VIEW

The tenth chapter of this neighborhood brawl promises to be a good one, pitting two teams with 2-1 marks against each other. One more win for the Grenadiers at this juncture could put them in the driver's seat in the MSL South.

Grove head coach Don Schnake is not about to write off the Falcons however, despite their setback at Hoffman Estates last Saturday. "I think they had an emotional problem that they sure won't have this week. That loss will make them even better."

View helmsman Fred Luasow is hoping Schnake is correct in his assessment. "We need a complete turnaround. With all the fumbles, interceptions and busted patterns last week it was like a nightmare."

Added the Falcon mentor: "We'll be in for another long day if we don't get through the seams and attack this Elk Grove club quickly. They're so physical and they're so strong and deep in the backfield that we just can't afford to play catch-up football against them."

"I'm impressed with Forest View's defense," countered Schnake. "They've had a little trouble with consistency on offense but I don't see many weaknesses in their other unit. They haven't given up many touchdowns this season."

The series stands at 4-1.

ARLINGTON AT HERSEY

Redbird coach Chuck Haines has seen his squad rally for a pair of wins after losing their opener but he is putting all this non-conference action behind him. "It's the beginning of a new season now although we're not actually catching Hersey at an ideal time. They have to be smarting from their loss to Prospect last week and more than anxious to want to rebound."

Haines is expecting the Huskies to severely test Arlington's biggest strength . . . their defensive secondary. Hersey quarterback Dan Vucovich has averaged 24 passes and 128 yards in aerial yardage a game and it will be clashing with defenders Gary Kempton, Tom North and Rick Godwin and their total three-game pass yield of only 65 yards.

Hersey pilot Joe Gliwa, however, appears more anxious to unleash a ground game that is at full strength now with the return of Wally Hommerding to the lineup. "Getting Wally back is a real lift. Tony Becker did a super job of ball-carrying for us last week and the two of them together should make our running game go now."

"This is the kind of rivalry that the kids on both sides don't have to be prodded into getting up for. I just hope we can get ours up a little higher," added Gliwa.

CONANT AT PROSPECT

The Knights have strongly dominated the rivalry in recent years, winning six of the last seven meetings, but that should have little bearing on tonight's outcome. Both clubs figure to be sky high, having last weekend knocked off both of the defending MSL champions.

"We're excited," offered Conant coach John Ayres, whose team blanked South division kingly Schamburg. "We're still a long way from perfection but the win last week has really provided us with some great spirit."

The Cougars will be playing this week without the services of halfback Tony Stompanato and linebacker Jack Kerr, and Ayres acknowledges the fact that Prospect is as good a team as Conant will face all season. But he promises to have his team ready for another strong showing.

Conant was led by Jeff Johnson in the win over Schamburg. Johnson, a two-way senior, punished the Saxons with 71 yards rushing and contributed several key tackles from his linebacker spot.

Grouwink called the victor over Hersey an important one — in terms other than won-loss records. "The win was great for the program. It's given us confidence. We've learned that if we play well as a unit, we're going to win."

Prospect's Tom Sampson, a 6-2, 195-pound junior tackle, earned defensive honors in the game against Hersey. It was his blocked punt that turned out to be the game's crucial moment.

Another key performer for the Knights was punter Mike Frushour, who averaged 37 yards on five kicks, including a 52-yarder. Frushour's high punts allowed Prospect to limit Hersey to just one return yard.

WHEELING AT FREMD

Observed Wheeling coach Gerry Cinnab: "Fremd is a strong, hard-nosed team that comes right at you. They have a real fine athlete in (Gary) Gunderson, a very quick back who blocks, runs and catches passes. He's a mover. Things are probably going to be just as tough for us this week as they were against Libertyville last Saturday."

Fremd's Joe Samojedny meanwhile, is still looking for improvement for a Vike outfit that trimmed New Trier West 21-0 a week ago. "Non-conference games can provide us with some experience but this one with Wheeling counts for a lot more so it's important that we're ready."

BUFFALO GROVE AT PALATINE

"Our defense played well," pointed out Palatine head man Arv Herstedt of his club's losing effort at Peoria Central last week.

"Their defense is of primary concern to us," echoed Buffalo Grove coach Grant Blaney. "It's been pretty stingy all season."

Thus the stage is set for this young rivalry. Blaney's charges squeezed out a two-point verdict over the Pirates in their first meeting in 1974 and escaped by a single point last season.

"I think we're in for another toughie this time," added the Grove mentor. "It's at their place for one thing, (Continued on Page 2)

31 prep golf teams to play in annual Cougar Classic

by KEITH REINHARD
Golf Editor

A record 31 high school teams, including 10 area entries, will begin teeing off at 8 a.m. Saturday in the sixth annual Cougar Classic golf tournament at Hilldale Golf Club, Hoffman Estates.

Six teams, including four area squads, have a chance to take the title, won last year by Downers Grove South.

Fremd is one of the front-runners, having only two weeks ago taken top honors in the Fenton Invitational. Palatine is another possibility along with Dundee, Cary Grove, Addison Trail and Naperville North.

Even Forest View and hosting Conant cannot be ruled out as possible champs.

The make up of the tourney will be somewhat different than last year. In addition to the fact that four teams from 1975 have dropped out of competition — to be replaced by five new entries — the meet itself has been shifted to another site.

"The tournament should be somewhat tougher this year," said meet director Barry Carlson, Conant golf coach. "We were at Golden Acres in 1975 and Hilldale is a more difficult course . . . much tighter . . . and we'll be playing off the back tees to compound the difficulty."

Carlson feels the site change may be helpful to his own club, which has never finished worse than 14th in their own tournament. On the two previous occasions when it was played over the par 35-36 Hilldale layout, his team placed fourth and tied for first respectively.

New additions to the tourney include Naperville Central and Naperville North, Oak Park, Glenbard South and Maine North. Buffalo Grove, St. Viator, Maine East and Elgin have dropped out of tourney play.

Among the individuals rated to make a run for medalist honors are Palatine's Mike Sievers and Nick Zambale along with Cary Grove's Tom Hartley, low shooter at Fenton two weeks ago. Dave Erickson of Proviso West and Mike Jacobs of Niles West, both among the top 10 finishers in the 1975 Cougar Classic, are also favorites.

Aurora West has a pair of top-flight individuals. Joe Husar of Hoffman Estates and Randy Soverinsen of Conant are other possibilities.

Other area teams entered are Arlington, Elk Grove, Maine West, Rolling Meadows and Schamburg. Other schools coming to play at Hilldale Saturday include East Leyden, Elmwood Park, North Chicago, Notre Dame, Proviso East, St. Edward and West Leyden.

Soccer report

Wildcats defeat Bison; Knights, Vikings also win

Fremd, Wheeling and Prospect posted high school soccer wins Thursday.

Playing at Barrington, the Fremd Vikings improved their record to 5-0-1 with a 2-1 victory over the Broncos.

The Norrys brothers accounted for the winners' scores. Steve on a penalty kick and Jerry on a corner kick. Paul Cornwell assisted on the latter.

Fremd goalie Eric Hartman broke his leg. Bob Kapko finished the game in goal.

Barrington's record is now 1-4-1. In the sophomore contest, Fremd and Barrington played to a 1-1 tie, dropping their records to 5-0-1.

"Frankly, I think we didn't play up to par," said Wheeling Head coach Pete Fischbach of his team's 3-2 win over hosting Buffalo Grove.

"Apparently, we seem to take light opponents lightly and rise up against the better ones. However, Buffalo Grove has improved from the first time we played them (which Wheeling also won, 2-0)."

John Byckowski paced the winning Wildcats with two goals, including the winning one. Rainer Engelmann scored the other goal.

Wheeling goalie Chris Small made 12 saves. Meanwhile, the Wildcats blasted 22 shots at Bison goalie Tim Hill.

The Bison whipped Wheeling on the sophomore level, 2-1. Prospect hiked its record to 2-4-1.

with a 2-1 victory over hosting Lake Park. Santiago Bustamante put the Knights on the board in the second quarter, assisted by Eric Johansson.

Tony Anast gave the Knights the win with a third period score, assisted by Roger Condorf.

Prospect head coach Wally Bachir said goalie Norb Radatz "played an outstanding game" in holding the Lancers to just one goal.

The Knight sophomores also won, 4-0.

The Hersey Huskies gave up two cheap goals in the first half before making a valiant attempt to come back in the second half, losing 4-3 at Waukegan East.

Larry Anglada put the Huskies on the board in the first quarter, assisted by Pat Alarcon and Joe Vellsek.

Dan Vellsek knocked one home in the third period, assisted by Anglada. Bob Klaus slammed in another in the fourth.

"We played a good, strong second-half," said Huskie coach Walk Jasinski. "We just couldn't quite get it tied."

Hersey goalie Jim Cowden had 18 saves. Seven Huskie shots were saved by Waukegan's goalie.

"That's the most goals since our opening game," said Jasinski, who saw his team's overall record drop to 1-6-2.

The Huskie sophomore team lost, 3-0.

Monroe loses 1st game as Angels handle Sox

From Herald Wire Services ANAHEIM, Calif. — Mount Prospect's Larry Monroe failed in his bid to win his second start for the White Sox here Thursday night.

The Angels defeated the White Sox, 7-3.

Monroe, a 20-year-old rookie, was touched for one run in the second and three in the fifth, being lifted in the sixth inning for relief pitcher Ken Kravec.

Tony Solaita doubled to lead off the second and scored on a single by Ron Jackson.

After sending the Angels down in order in three out of the first four innings, Jackson started another rally with a double in the fifth. Rusty Torres also doubled to make it 2-0.

Following a sacrifice bunt that moved Torres to third, Dave Chank used a safety squeeze bunt to widen the lead to 3-0. The ball was misplayed, allowing Chank to move to third. With the infield pulled in, Andy Etchebarren singled home another run.

Monroe, 6-1, allowed three earned runs, six hits, and two walks. On Sept. 14, Monroe made his first start. Then he only worked two innings, allowing just one run on three hits. He was lifted as Manager Paul Richards brought in a left-hander to face a Kansas City lineup packed with lefty batters.

This former Forest View High School star has also made six relief appearances since joining the Sox from Knoxville late in August.

Chet Lemon ended a long Chicago scoreless inning streak with a two-run homer in the seventh, but it wasn't enough.

Rebellion

Professional football prisoners begin to escape

There are no billboards out there to tell the world, but the National Football League has lost some of its luster.

The people who run the show will never admit it, but the erosion in public interest is starting to show in many ways.

When pro football was really king, people would knock down walls and drive through swamps to see their teams play.

Forget the rain. Forget the ice, snow, sleet and sub-zero temperatures.

Times have changed. Today, many fans seem to be saying, "Forget the game."

Maybe it was raining Sunday, but the Chicago Bears came to Soldier Field with a 2-0 record. The game was blacked out on local television, but 16,000 fans still didn't show up.

You might expect that in December when a team was struggling for survival and just playing out the string, I didn't expect that in September when everyone was talking about the "new Bears."

It's not just a Chicago problem. You can see it developing in other areas despite the propaganda pumped out by the National Football League. The erosion may be slow, but it's there.

The NFL would never admit its game has lost anything. They seem to feel it is bigger than life itself, the perfect product with running, throwing, jumping, catching, smiling, fighting.

There are times I find everything connected with the NFL a little hard to comprehend. They seem to have brainwashed so many people.

It's gotten so bad reporters are reporting non-events.

The wire service ran a story Tuesday that coach Hank Stram of the New Orleans Saints will have his team wear white jerseys and black pants against the Houston Oilers. Stram thought the home fans would like to see the alternate uniforms.

Stop the presses. Come on, people, get serious.

You would not believe the number of stories filed daily on the NFL. You would not believe the NFL releases that cross this desk every week.

The NFL's busy work is selling, the oversell and the hard-sell. They're selling the days of the day when there are no games. At least, they feel obligated to sell those days.

Pro football has become a very big thing in the last 20 years, and there is no adding mystery about that. The boom parallels booms in communications, affluence, urbanization, leisure time — and other sports.

However, I'm convinced that at the grass-roots level, pro football has projected itself as a bit too swank for its own good. Even the phony fields give the game an artificial look it doesn't need.

I always thought the character of football set it apart. Teams used to play on muddy fields, sheets of ice. They had to adjust to the variables of the weather as much as adjusting to the opponent.

Bob Frisk
Sports Editor

The rugs look nice but don't help pro football present itself as a game for rugged individuals. The sport, like the nation, has gone soft.

That could help explain 16,000 no-shows on an afternoon a Bears' game was blacked out. The rain is just a convenient excuse.

The game represents itself as too much theater. There's a subtle suggestion to the fan that since the player isn't being asked to play in difficult elements why should the fan have to do so as a spectator?

When it was decided to play the Super Bowl in warm weather, this robbed those cities that dreamed of hosting a championship. The fans brave the cold, biting winds of November and December, plus rain and snow, when they buy regular-season tickets. But they're deprived of a chance to freeze at the championship game.

Pro football simply has oversold itself. Every time you turn on the TV, you see a live game, a rerun or highlights. The exposure has to hurt because the games have become stereotyped.

For every Roger Staubach thriller, there are countless boring, ho-hum affairs directed by very conservative coaches afraid of losing their jobs.

No longer are the fans and writers crying out that baseball is a big bore because, if that's true, pro football has become a replica of tedium.

Competition is a relative thing because seeing two evenly matched sandlot, high school or college teams can often be a much better football show than the pros put on each weekend.

Just because they wear the pro label and get the big dollars doesn't mean they are going to put on a classic confrontation.

This entire pro football spectacle is fascinating. People have been prisoners of the game for so long a rebellion is developing.

Maybe those Sunday afternoons in the fall are just too precious to be taken up with the same thing week after week — watching football.

Sports world Phils battling selves

PHILADELPHIA — The Philadelphia Phillies, champions of the National League East, returned home Thursday amid a swirl of reports that the team was involved in internal disputes, some of them racial.

Prior to Wednesday night's 6-3 victory over the Cardinals in St. Louis, Manager Danny Ozark held a 34-minute team meeting in which he said he "really got on it. I guess some guys were insulted."

The meeting followed reports that some of the players were unhappy that controversial first baseman Dick Allen did not accompany the team to St. Louis, and was allowed to return home following the Phillies clinching of the division title in Montreal last Sunday.

Relief pitcher Tug McGraw was quoted as saying in St. Louis that if Allen was "so hot to celebrate with his family he should have flown them here. He makes $250,000 a year. He can afford it. They said he's been hitting an hour and a half every day at home. What the hell does he think his teammates are doing out here?"

There were reports of grumbling among some of the Phillies' black players because Jerry Martin, a white, started in right field in place of Ollie Brown, a black, in the division clinching game.

Ozark said Brown was not hitting and he knew "why he wasn't in the lineup."

The Allen controversy started when he told a writer in Montreal that he would not play in the playoffs if the Phillies dropped veteran utility player Tony Taylor from the list of 25 players who will be eligible. The Phillies have used 26 players during the season, with Taylor being off and on the active list when there was a player on the disabled list.

Outfielder Garry Maddox, a black and one of the defensive mainstays of the team, said that during the meeting, "McGraw got up and brought up all this race stuff. I couldn't believe it. Somebody's sure been fooling me this season. I never saw a sign all year of any race problems. But now one of my teammates tells me we've got one. A lot of guys are upset by this."

Dr. Querica — Ali's savior

BOSTON — Dr. Lewis R. Querica has never been in the boxing ring before. But he put a little extra punch in Muhammad Ali's successful defense of his heavyweight title against Ken Norton.

Querica, of suburban Medford, is a chiropractic kinesiologist. He was summoned to Ali's training camp at Klamath Lake, N.Y., earlier this month to cure Ali of an injury received during a sparring session. The Massachusetts Chiropractic Society disclosed Thursday that Querica went to New York on the weekend of Sept. 11-12 to treat the champ for a whiplash injury to his neck.

Because of the injury, Ali was unable to turn his head, lift his arm to punch and, as a result, had to cancel his training sessions for four days. According to the society, comedian Dick Gregory, who was managing Ali's camp, asked Querica to come to the camp. The comedian is a patient of Querica's.

Other doctors had told Ali to wear a cervical collar and it was feared the fight with Norton would have to be canceled. Querica said that within one day of his arrival, much of the pain had been alleviated and that Ali was able to turn his head and lift his arm.

Peterson recovering from surgery

INGLEWOOD, Calif. — Texas Rangers southpaw Fritz Peterson said Thursday he was recovering nicely from surgery performed at Centinela Valley Hospital two days ago to repair a torn muscle in his left shoulder.

The 34-year-old Peterson, a 20-game winner with the New York Yankees in 1970, hasn't pitched in a Ranger game since June 19. The operation, in the rotation cuff, also gave surgeons an opportunity to remove some bone spurs from his left arm.

Peterson said Rangers' Board Chairman Brad Corbett and Manager Frank Lucchesi "have just been tremendous" in mentally helping him overcome his physical problems.

"I've been on the active list the last three weeks, but Lucchesi didn't put me in a game," said Peterson. "I appreciate it. He knew my arm was hurting."

Peterson had a 1-3 record prior to his injury. He is a former Arlington High School player.

NFL owner: Rozelle insults Jews

LOS ANGELES — Los Angeles Rams' owner Carroll Rosenbloom blasted National Football League Commissioner Pete Rozelle Thursday for scheduling the Miami-Los Angeles game on Yom Kippur, the Jewish high holiday.

The game is scheduled to start at 4 p.m. EDT Sunday and will be televised nationally.

"This is a thing that was done with malice aforethought," said Rosenbloom. "I make no claim to being a religious man, but I am Jewish and this is an insensitivity that has offended many people."

He said he would go to the game. Since the holiday, the Day of Atonement, begins at sundown, it was expected that many Jewish fans would leave the game at halftime to go to temple for religious services.

In reply to Rosenbloom's statement, Rozelle said the league had to provide a game for a national network telecast, adding, "The Rams, by scheduling rotation, play the Dolphins in Miami and this was the only attractive game available."

Bears hurting for home TV debut

The Chicago Bears, although listing three usual starters as questionable because of injuries, announced Thursday their Sunday game against the Washington Redskins was a sellout and the game would be televised here.

Given no more than a 50-50 chance to play Sunday were wide receivers Bo Rather, with a right knee injury, and Ron Shanklin, left knee, and guard Noah Jackson, left foot.

Illini's Friel doubtful for A&M game

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. — Coach Bob Blackman said Thursday whether tight end Marty Friel starts Saturday against Texas A&M will depend on how well he's feeling.

Friel has been out of practice all week because of an ankle injury he suffered during last week's game against Baylor. Mark Soebbing has been filling in for him and will start if Friel doesn't feel up to the game.

Blackman planned a light half-hour workout for today.

LSU gridders to devour 'gators'

BATON ROUGE, La. — Louisiana State's football squad readied for Saturday's match against Southeastern Conference foe Florida by feasting on "gator" steak.

Today's team lunch menu included 100 pounds of alligator meat which dormitory cook Etienne Picou said would taste "something like chicken." The gator meat was a gift to LSU Coach Charles McClendon.

Florida's team is nicknamed the Gators.

Other news from the sports world...

Mustachioed Stan Aligeti and Wally Armstrong, a pair of little known pros seeking their first tour victories, carded seven-under par 64 Thursday to grab a two-shot lead over a trio of players that included 1974 U.S. Open champion Lou Graham and 46-year-old veteran Don January in the first round of the $125,000 Sahara Invitational golf tournament in Las Vegas. . . . George Foreman, the No. 1 contender for Muhammad Ali's world heavyweight title, is being lined up to meet the winner of the Oct. 12 triple crown clash between Richard Dunn and Joe Bugner for the British, European and Commonwealth boxing crowns. . . .

Cross-country roundup

Palatine, Fremd keep on winning

by ART MUGALIAN
Cross-Country Editor

Palatine's Tom Johnson showed Thursday that the reports of his demise were greatly exaggerated as he and fellow Pirate junior Chuck Elliott led their team to a convincing 15-45 victory over Arlington in a cross country duel at Palatine Hills.

Meanwhile, at Union Oli, powerful Fremd tied the IHSA record for consecutive dual-meet victories by slugging Hersey 15-48 and Von Steuben 15-50.

In other meets, Hoffman Estates (4-0) stayed undefeated by topping Rolling Meadows 23-34, Conant preserved its unblemished record (4-0) with a 19-44 win at Elk Grove, Forest View knocked off Prospect 26-29, and Buffalo Grove stopped Wheeling 26-29.

Palatine's Johnson, stricken by a case of mono earlier in the season, was rumored at one time to be out for the remainder of the year. But Johnson scotched those rumors with a sixth-place effort at the Woodstock Invitational Saturday and returned to winning form Thursday against Arlington.

Johnson entered the chute hand-in-hand with teammate Elliott in a display of solidarity, but Johnson was given the No. 1 card. They were each clocked in 14:47 on the 2.75-mile course.

Palatine's Tony Vargas (14:59), Brian Kessler (15:00), and Kevin Koy (15:05) all finished ahead of Arlington's first man, Jim Lear (15:09).

The Pirates were tuning up for next Thursday's showdown with cross-town rival Fremd, which packed six runners in front of Hersey's top finisher Thursday.

The winner, with a sprint to the chute, was Dan Tischler (15:30), followed by mates John Filosa (15:31), Bob Ratcliffe (15:32), Matt Filosa (15:33), Rolando Garza (15:36), and Dan Inbody (15:40). Hersey's Steve Johnson was next (15:41).

Fremd and Hersey each shut out Von Steuben.

The two wins gave Fremd 55 straight dual-meet victories over a period of six seasons, two less than Viking coach Ron Menely had originally figured. The official IHSA record of 55, previously set by Peoria Central and now tied by Fremd, can be broken Thursday against Palatine and Maine West at Palatine Hills.

Hoffman Estates' win over Meadows was achieved without the Hawks' No. 4 man, Bill Joyce. But Hoffman squeezed five runners ahead of Rolling Meadows' third harrier. The winner of the meet was Tom Choche of the Mustangs in 15:19, seven seconds off the Hoffman Estates course record.

Conant's Dan Cummings, running as strong as he has ever run, according to coach Jack Ary, took first place at Elk Grove in 15:15. Cummings was 18 seconds in front of Elk Grove senior Tim Cullen, who was second.

The day's only upset was Forest View's victory over Prospect. The loss dropped the Knights to 3-2 in South duals and virtually dealt them out of MSL title contention.

Bob Haas and Darryl Robinson finished one-two for Forest View, but the key to the meet was Prospect's Mark Smith and Ken Weendorf. The two Knight harriers had missed workouts all week because of illness and the result was evident. Smith, a junior, finished seventh, a full minute off his best course time, and the soph Weendorf was passed by two Falcon runners at the chute and ended up 10th.

Joe Schmidt of Buffalo Grove ended Ben Sanchez' undefeated conference record with a win in 15:38 on Buffalo Grove's home course. Sanchez was second in 15:48.

Wheeling wins non-league duel

Hersey and Prospect girls post tennis shutouts

Hersey and Prospect scored clean 7-0 sweeps in Mid-Suburban League girls tennis Thursday.

Hersey's Debby Sampson had the toughest time of the Huskies at No. 1 singles, going three sets with Hoffman Estates' Kate Swaya before winning 2-6, 7-5, 6-4.

Kathy Tchon won her No. 2 singles match by default and Elisabeth Buck won her No. 3 singles battle in straight sets.

The Hersey doubles pairings all won their matches in straight sets, led by Debbie Barnd and Jean Vetta at No. 1 doubles.

Prospect blanked Conant as every Knight entry won in straight sets.

Jean Rezny started the Knights off with a 6-0, 6-0 blitz at No. 1 singles.

The other Knight singles players, Carla Rub at No. 2 and Julie Schwem at No. 3, lost only three games between them.

League leading Arlington put another mark in the win column with a 6-1 decision over Forest View.

Jenny Kim and Nancy Lachus took Forest View's only point at No. 4 doubles, winning a taut 1-4, 6-3, 6-3 verdict.

Leslie Grabitz won easily at No. 1 singles with a 6-1, 6-0 count. Janet Haberborn took her No. 2 singles match by the same score and Carrie Sears bettered them both with a 6-0, 6-0 win at No. 1 singles.

Beth Klawitter and Lisa Pugsley were extended to three sets before winning their No. 3 doubles match but the No. 1 team of Kris Richey and Nancy Weber and the No. 2 team of Laura Sanders and Kim Broderick lost only four games between them.

Wheeling stepped out of league competition for the afternoon and topped Sacred Heart, 6-1.

Carin Byckowski and Kim Wojcik scored impressive victories for the Wildcats at No. 1 and No. 2 singles respectively, dropping only three games between them.

The No. 1 Wheeling doubles team of Dotti Mallin and Barb Wright had to scramble to take a 7-6, 7-6 win. All the other Wheeling doubles teams won in straight sets.

6 grid tilts on docket

and it's a conference opener for another."

While Herstedt is satisfied with his team's defensive play thus far, he'd like to begin generating a more steady offense. "We got it going well for awhile at Peoria, driving for both our touchdowns. If we can keep running backs (Brad) Bouwman and (Jim) Luzinski in gear this week it'll counter the strong ground game I certainly expect them to get from (John) MacIsaac and (Ben) Orcutt."

MAINE WEST AT GLENBROOK NORTH

The Warriors will be hoping to break out of a three-game losing streak when they journey to Northbrook Friday to tackle the Spartans.

Glenbrook was idle last weekend, collecting a forfeit win over a Niles West unit handicapped by a school strike. The Spartans were state champions in 1974 and under the direction of veteran coach Hal Samorins field consistently strong clubs.

Injuries are still plaguing the small Maine West team, as well as mistakes. A defensive breakdown allowed Maine South one long TD strike last week and an interception led to another score as the Hawks went on to topple West 21-8.

MOUNT PROSPECT MEN'S LEAGUE

RED DIVISION
Wombats 12, Raiders 6.
The Mount Prospect and Wombats defense Wednesday to humble the Raiders, 12-6 and move their record to 2-1.
Wombat signal caller "Duke" Brian Reed, who clicked on 17 of 26 passes for 124 yards, hit Al Ernst on a 5-yard touchdown run on the first offensive play of the game after cornerback Chuck McDuff intercepted a Raider pass.
The defense put the game out of reach when Glenn "The Mad Stork" Hoffman smothered the Raider QB in the end zone for a safety.
Reed marched the marauders down the field in the second half for their final touchdowns, working to Jeff "Rabbit" Smith and George "The Vacuum" Dunbar before finding Ernst in the end zone for a 17-yard score.

Back in 1910, a motorist would race his engine vigorously just before he turned off the ignition switch. "There" he would say, "that makes it easier to turn her on the next time." Back then motorists believed that this final revving would pull in raw gasoline and prime the cylinders so that they would fire right away. It turns out that priming the cylinders with raw gasoline this way also washed the protective film of oil from the cylinders, but at 25 miles per hour top speed, it was not all that important.

They still haven't unveiled the rustproof car.

And they probably never will. Because real rustproofing can't be done on an assembly line. Undercoating and ordinary rustproofing don't do a complete job either.

But Ziebart uses a patented spray tool to get inside your car's body. We cover every square inch of rust-prone metal with our unique sealant. To make your car really rustproof, and worth more when you do trade it in.

There's only one place to get it. Through an authorized Ziebart Dealer. That's us.

The real Ali wasn't there

NEW YORK — A funny thing happened at the Norton-Ali heavyweight championship fight Tuesday night. No, not the decision, although that was funny enough.

What was funny about it was that the champ didn't show up. Oh, there was someone there in white trunks and a whole bunch of Jerry Lewis abtiks. But, whoever that was, it wasn't Muhammad Ali. Ali should have this guy arrested.

It was some chunky, flat-footed bum. A prelim boy, I would guess they picked up in the gym.

He even fooled the judges. But he couldn't fool anyone who ever saw the real Ali. This impostor should have been thrown out of there by the third round. It was the worst imitation of Muhammad Ali ever seen.

Listen! We all know about the Ali style. Dazzling speed, beautiful moves, blinding head fakes. A thrill to watch. The nearest thing to a glorious sunset ever seen in the ring. A flaming incandescence it hurt to look at.

But this guy looked like the rear of a refugee march. The real Ali must be bound and gagged in a closet some place.

Ken Norton beat this guy to a face-heel. All I can guess is that the judges got confused as to which was which. Even the guy impersonating Ali knew he was beat. He slunk to his corner at the end of 15 rounds, turning his back on the taunts of Norton.

Have you ever heard of the butterfly wanting to turn into a caterpillar? The swan who'd rather be a duck? A prince who'd rather be a frog?

Well, that's Ali. The most beautiful thing to watch ever to lace on gloves and all of a sudden he wants to be Ernie. "The Rock" Durando. He starts to fight like something known as "The Belling Brakeman" or "One Punch Hogan."

This is a guy who used to disappear on his opponent about the third round and do everything but tap dance on the top of his head while he chatted with the crowd, did a buck and wing, sang a few choruses of "Mother Machree" or otherwise enjoyed himself. Now, he's fighting like a guy who just hopes to land that one big punch before they turn the lights out. He's like a clubfighter who can only throw crazy rights.

The canary wants to be a cat. All wants to go down in history as a slugger. That's like Caruso preferring to be known as a locomotive engineer, Bernhardt wanting to be remembered for her cooking.

It was the story of the fight. Ali junked the act that brought him to Broadway and began doing bird calls. He started acting like "The Belling Brakeman" or somebody called "Rocky."

"Float like a butterfly, sting like a bee" became "float like an anvil and sting like an ox."

It really cost him the fight, I don't care what those judges think. I mean, I can see, too. If Ali won that fight, Japan won World War II.

It wasn't much of a fight. The fight crowd has a name for it, an "agony" fight. Carter-Ford was a slugfest by comparison. Joe Garagiola said it was "the first no-hitter in the new Yankee Stadium. The two fighters stood there and slugged each other with dirty looks most of the night. By the eighth round, North was even out-talking him.

These guys have now fought 39 monotonous rounds and they could probably fight 129 more and still have an 8-7 or split decision. For excitement, they're just better than test patterns. I'd rather listen to a lecture on the migratory habits of the fruit fly than sit through another one of these.

The trouble with fights like these is that so little happens, it's hard to give a round to either one of them. If you care, I had Norton 9-5 and 1-even. Norton's camp screamed that they stole the fight from him. If so, it was petty larceny.

Besides, the guy Ali temporarily bequeaths the heavyweight title to doesn't seem to be able to do much with it. They're better off fighting him for the challenger's percentage than fighting anyone else for 90 per cent of it.

All has gone the route of all old fighters. He fights in brief flashy flurries. He gets the judges to picking the wrong walnut without the pea under it. He makes them think he's really sawing the girl in half.

Nothing worked. They gave him his title I guess for Christmas. Even his personal physician, Dr. Ferdie Pacheco, in the locker room afterward confided grimly. "He (Ali) took a beating in there tonight." Ali's corner thought his nose was broken once.

And so closes another chapter in the thrilling adventures of Muhammad Ali as he strolls down life's highways. The swan who would be a rooster, the star who would rather be the best friend, the artist who yearns to move scenery is no more baroque than the brilliant recitallist who wants to move the piano. Ali fighting out of a flatfoot crouch, taking 10 to get in one punch is an outrage against nature. It's the worst kind of miscasting, an offense to the senses.

Also, it doesn't work. Ali is not going to win fights the way Marciano did. He's got to win the way Willie Pep did. And if it won't work against a Hollywood movie actor where will it get him against a professional fighter? A lion can't beat you with his tail and a shark doesn't sting you and Ali trading punches is like an eagle running. He needs a psychiatrist. If he can't run and dance anymore, he shouldn't be in places where he has to.

RUSTPROOFING CHECKLIST

Before you spend one cent to protect your new car, follow this checklist to be sure you're buying real rustproof protection...

- ☐ Deal only with a professional rustproofing service. While many car dealers sell so-called rustproofing services, very few qualify as professionals. Every Ziebart Dealer is factory trained.
- ☐ Check the guarantee. If the rustproofing only guarantees "those areas treated or rustproofed" - watch out! Go see your Ziebart Dealer.
- ☐ Ask if your make and model car is covered in the rustproofing's specifications. Your Ziebart Dealer has specifications on more than 450 different makes and models to assure coverage of all critical areas on each car he rustproofs.
- ☐ Be sure the rustproofing has the specialized tools and equipment required for rustproofing. Some rustproofers try to get by with 3 or 4 spray tools. Your Ziebart Dealer has 9 patented spray tools designed specifically to reach body areas that require rustproofing.
- ☐ Take your new car directly to your Ziebart Dealer and you don't have to worry about rustproof protection. He's the professional rustproofing with the proven ability and experience.

It's Us. Or Rust.

40-under par tops 2-day golf tourney at Mount Prospect

As expected, it took 40-under par to win the ninth annual Mount Prospect Open Golf Tournament played at the Mount Prospect Country Club. The tourney format this year was a four-man team at full handicap, playing two best balls per hole.

Due to the rainy weather, the second round which was delayed two hours, was played as a shotgun start (one team on each tee beginning at the same time). However, the rain delay had little adverse effect on the contending teams as the winning team shot 22 under par for the day, four better than Saturday's round, and 40 under for the tournament. Tom Piazza of Mount Prospect captained the winning team (second time in a row for Tom) and was ably assisted by local residents Fritz Fasnacht 13, Art Hammerstrom 17 and Frank Gunn 19.

The second-place finishers at 39-under par also had a Fasnacht. Fred, the father of Fritz, captained the team which also had low round of the day at 23 under par. Other members of the second-place team were John Demaret of Glenview at 13, Ron Revers 17 and Al LaQuey 23. Revers and LaQuey as well as Fasnacht are Mount Prospect residents.

Thirty-seven under par took third place. This team was captained by Mike MacDonald, 6, of Palatine followed by three local Mount Prospect residents who oddly enough play in the same group throughout the golfing season — Larry Kurka 13, Jack Kilroy 15 and Larry Ostling 18.

Fourth and fifth place was settled at 33-under par. George Wells 9, Jim Moran 14, Ward Oliver 16 and Bill Hickey 23, all Mount Prospect residents shared in the tie with the team of Ed Esler of Wauconda, 9, Jim Brennan, 14, of Mount Prospect, Pat Sandell, 16, of Hanover Park and Bob Anderson of the local club.

Closest to the pin players were awarded each day for accuracy on the Par 3 holes, No. 7 and 12. On Saturday Wayne White of Mount Prospect, the last golfer to shoot on No. 7, took the prize while Frank Gunn was closest on No. 12 with a shot six feet from the hole. Sunday, Bob Krause, a 22 handicapper, won on the difficult twirled No. 7 and Norm Denzinger on No. 12 was five feet from the hole.

The social activities held each day following play, were hosted by Elaine and Jim Moran at their home in Mount Prospect.

Most of the 100 players agreed that the two-man best ball event tried this year for the first time, was not only exciting but required real team play. Each team member had to play to his full handicap.

The 1977 event, which will complete the first decade of the tourney's history, will follow the same format. It will probably be scheduled the last weekend in September.

Winter heat bill may rise 13 to 15% NI Gas says

Winter home heating bill Northern Illinois Gas Co. is to total 13 to 15 per cent last year, a company spokesman said Thursday.

Gas supplies are adequate to meet the winter NI gas customers. Residual shortages, spokeswoman Hayes said.

The higher cost of natural gas is the result of price increases by pipeline companies that supply the state, she said.

THE GAS COMPANY said it will not pass higher costs to customers automatically.

This summer, the Federal Energy Commission approved shelling off ceiling prices for natural gas.

Gas production companies now $1.42 per therm contracted Jan. 1, 1975, three times the price per therm.

Other low-cost gas produced, depending on where it was produced.

At the time ceiling prices were estimated that the yearly bill would state-by-state.

BASED ON 15 per cent
tomers, a bill of $300 last

Winter heat bill may rise 13 to 15% NI Gas says

by KURT BAER

Winter home heating bills from the Northern Illinois Gas Co. are expected to total 13 to 15 per cent more than last year, a company spokeswoman said Thursday.

Gas supplies are described as adequate to meet the winter demand of NI gas customers. Residential users should not encounter natural gas shortages, spokeswoman Regina Hayes said.

The higher cost of natural gas is the result of price increases by the pipeline companies that supply NI Gas, she said.

THE GAS COMPANY is permitted to pass higher costs to consumers automatically.

This summer, the Federal Power Commission approved sharply higher ceiling prices for natural gas.

Gas producers and pipeline companies now are allowed to charge $1.42 per thousand cubic feet on gas contracted for interstate sale after Jan. 1, 1973. The new price is almost three times the old ceiling price of 52 cents per thousand cubic feet.

Other lower rates are charged by gas producers and pipeline companies depending on when the gas being sold was produced.

At the time it approved the higher ceiling prices, the power commission estimated the average gas consumer's yearly bill would increase $15.60, with state-by-state variations.

BASED ON THE average estimated 15 per cent increase for NI gas customers, a home heating bill that totaled $300 last winter will cost $345 this year.

Political briefs

Rep. Udall in area today to aid Carter campaign

U.S. Rep. Morris K. Udall, D-Ariz., once a presidential candidate, will campaign for Democrat Jimmy Carter today in the 12th Congressional District.

Udall will take part in the grand opening of Carter's campaign offices in Arlington Heights and Highland Park.

The Highland Park appearance is scheduled for 12:15 p.m. and the congressman will stop in North Point Shopping Center in Arlington Heights at about 2:15 p.m.

Udall will make other appearances today for Carter in Evanston and DeKalb.

Another close Mikva-Young race

Assessments from both Democratic and Republican leaders in the 10th Congressional District continue to suggest the campaign between Republican Samuel H. Young of Glenview and U.S. Rep. Abner J. Mikva, D-10th, will be another close contest.

Several Republican committeemen in the district, which includes Des Plaines, believe the Republican voter turnout in the Maine Township area could be the key.

New Trier Township GOP Committeeman Dave Brown made that assessment Wednesday night, saying the organization there has been rejuvenated and should produce a big Republican vote this year.

Maine Township GOP Committeeman Philip Raffo said he hopes to give Young a 9,000-vote edge over Mikva in the township. He expects the results in the district's other four townships to represent a stand-off.

Mikva's forces also have been concentrating on Maine Township.

Jack Marco, Mikva's administrative assistant, said more than 1,200 voters have been registered to vote in the district. He expects another 1,000 or more to be registered on precinct registration day Tuesday.

The 1974 contest saw Mikva edge Young by less than 3,000 votes. Both candidates have said they expect this election to be close.

Chapman hits right-to-life groups

State Rep. Eugenia Chapman, D-Arlington Heights, renewed comments Thursday over the efforts by right-to-life groups to oppose her reelection campaign.

Mrs. Chapman was critical of the effort, stating the abortion question was not an issue in the Illinois General Assembly.

The partial results of a questionnaire circulated by Chapman in the Third Legislative District indicate that 107 persons are opposed to the legislature ratifying a constitutional amendment banning abortion, if it is passed by Congress, while 57 favor the ratification. She sent 14,000 copies of the questionnaire to constituents last week.

Business conference Oct. 8

U.S. Rep. Phillip M. Crane, R-12th, will host his third annual business conference Oct. 8 at the Arlington Park Hilton, Arlington Heights.

Crane said representatives of three federal agencies will attend the session to address local businessmen on the operation of various federal programs. Persons interested in attending the conference should contact Crane's office at 394-0790 for more information.

New methods in drug fight sought

Democrat Marshall Rothman, a candidate for the Illinois Senate from the Second Legislative District, called for new methods of dealing with narcotics and drug-related crimes in the state.

"If we can control guns and drugs, then I would foresee a drastic and welcome drop in our crime rate," Rothman said.

Rossberger criticizes opponent

Joseph F. Rossberger Jr., a Democratic candidate for the Illinois House in the First Legislative District, disputed one of his opponents claims regarding expertise in education.

Rossberger noted that Roger Keats, a Republican, has said he probably would be a better expert in the field of education than all the legislators in Springfield except for maybe three or four.

"If that is true, then why have the two largest professional teachers' organizations given me and not my opponent their endorsements?" Rossberger asked.

Keats is a teacher, but Rossberger has gained the endorsement of the Illinois Federation of Teachers and the Illinois Education Assn.

U.S. boosts Medicare fees 19%; cites cost rise

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Citing rising hospital costs, the government Thursday boosted hospital fees for persons on Medicare by 19 per cent and said the prices for extended treatment in hospitals and nursing homes also would rise.

Under the changes, effective Jan. 1:

- Persons entering a hospital under Medicare will have to pay the first $124 of the bill, compared to $104 now.
- Persons on Medicare staying in a hospital for more than 60 days will pay $31 a day for the 61st through the 90th day, compared to $26 a day now.
- Patients discharged from hospitals who enter a nursing facility and stay there more than 30 days will have to pay $135.50 a day toward the cost of the stay through the 100th day, instead of the present $13.
- If a person chooses to draw on his "lifetime reserve" days — the extra 60 hospital days a beneficiary can use when more than 90 days of hospital

Congress overturns veto of HEW

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress, moving toward adjournment, overrode President Ford's veto of the $36.6 billion bill to fund labor, health, education and welfare programs Thursday, putting the measure immediately into law.

It was the 11th time in 27 attempts that Congress has overturned a Ford veto. The President has vetoed 59 bills since taking office two years ago. The bill exceeded President Ford's budget request by $4 billion, an amount Sen. Carl Curtis, R-Neb., called "quite significant. It's not a small matter."

But Sen. Warren Magnuson, D-Wash., said the funds in the bill affect the lives and welfare of every American and called Ford's budget request "totally inadequate, a miserable budget creating more misery."

Democratic vice presidential nominee Sen. Walter Mondale, D-Minn., returned to the Senate to vote for the override. His Republican counterpart

Oakton Street parking ban prepared to relieve tieups

A plan to open two or three municipal parking lots and eliminate on-street parking on Oakton Street is being prepared by Des Plaines officials as a possible solution to traffic congestion on Oakton Street.

Michael Richardson, city director of planning and zoning, Thursday said his department is preparing a plan that calls for the purchase of two or three tracts on Oakton Street for parking lots and prohibiting parking on the street between River Road and the Soo Line R.R. tracks.

"Our intention is to take parking off Oakton and put it in another place," he said. "We're hoping we can improve the traffic flow and still satisfy the merchants and shoppers."

RICHARDSON SAID moving the on-street parking to municipal lots should enable Oakton Street to handle twice as much traffic.

"The parking that's there now really hinders the movement of traffic," he said. "The parking closes down two lanes and only half the traffic that the street is capable of handling can get through."

He said the municipal lots, which would accommodate 150 to 160 cars, would be adequate to meet the parking needs on Oakton Street. He said Oakton Street can accommodate about 300 cars, but that only about 85 spaces are filled during peak shopping periods.

Richardson said the location of the three tracts under consideration by his department will not be released until recommendations are presented to the city council. He also refused to divulge the estimated cost of the property, saying only that it is "expensive."

RICHARDSON SAID he hopes to

Old rivals square off in 1st debate

by STEVE BROWN

U.S. Rep. Abner J. Mikva, D-Ill., and Republican Samuel H. Young Thursday night squared off in the first of 16 campaign debates agreeing they would oppose a constitutional amendment to ban abortion, but on little else.

The pair, opponents for the third time in the 10th Congressional District, answered a series of questions posed by more than 450 persons at the Levee Hall at Northwestern University in Evanston.

Following the debate, both candidates said they were pleased with the outcome. Young said he would have preferred to ask questions of Mikva and allow Mikva to question him. However, Mikva said that procedure sometimes becomes "too cutesy," adding "I don't think it would serve any useful purposes."

ON THE ABORTION issue, while both Mikva and Young said they would oppose the Constitutional amendment, Young said his action would be based on a poll of district residents which indicates more than 70 per cent oppose an amendment.

Mikva said, "Even when we agree, we disagree on our reasons. I am opposed because the amendment decries the basic notion of the Constitution."

The questions in the debate ranged over a wide series of issues, including defense spending, regulations governing political activities by political employees and government bureaucracy.

On the question of development of the controversial B1 bomber, Mikva said he was opposed because the advanced weapons system would be obsolete before it was ever put into use.

Samuel H. Young

YOUNG SAID he supported development of the B1 because the bomber is necessary to develop an adequate defense force.

The pair also sharply differed on decriminalization of marijuana. Mikva said he supported such a move while Young said he opposed it.

In discussing the gun control, Young said he favors a ban on so-called Saturday night specials, but Mikva said he favored a ban on the sale, manufacture and distribution of all handguns.

During closing statements to the crowd, the Evanston Democrat said there were sharp differences between himself and Young. Young called the congressional race more important than the election for President.

"This election is more important because Congress has more power than the President, Congress passes the law," Young said.

HE DISAGREED with Mikva on the proposal to raise congressional standards and Mikva's suggestion that congressmen not engage in private law practices.

"Your income should be sufficiently small while serving in Congress that you've got to perform some sort of civilian occupation to make ends meet, that way you suffer like all the rest of the taxpayers," Young said.

Prairie Ave. closed until Nov. 15

Prairie Avenue between Lee and Pearson streets in Des Plaines is expected to be closed until Nov. 15 while workers widen and repave the street.

The $155,000 project, which is being paid for with motor fuel tax funds, is being done by the city to accommodate the increased traffic that is expected to be generated by the Superblock downtown redevelopment project.

Ellis Perl, assistant city engineer, said in addition to widening Prairie Avenue to four lanes, the city plans to install a 10-foot planted median, plant trees along the curbs, install new streetlights and put in improved traffic signals at Lee Street and Prairie Avenue.

THE REPAVING work is being done by Paveway Construction Inc.,

Glenview. City officials want the work completed by Nov. 15 so Prairie Avenue can accommodate shoppers during the Christmas shopping season.

In addition to the ongoing work, city officials are considering rerouting Prairie Avenue in the eastern portion of the downtown area.

Prairie Avenue now exits on River Road south of the Chicago and North Western Ry. tracks. Under the proposed plan, the street would not connect with River Road, but extend south to Thacker Street.

The city council already has voted to purchase for $110,000 two lots at 1802 and 1806 Thacker St., which will enable the city to move ahead with the rerouting project. Officials, however, will wait to see if future downtown redevelopment will increase traffic enough to justify the project.

ONE OF THE lots is needed for the right-of-way and the other city officials hope to trade for another needed site belonging to nearby Central School, 1526 Thacker St. A group of Des Plaines residents is protesting the rerouting plan, saying it fears children attending Central School will be endangered by traffic on the four-lane street.

The residents are asking the Des Plaines Dist. 42 Board of Education to block the reroute plans by refusing to approve the land trade.

The reroute proposal is part of an over-all downtown traffic flow plan. Included is a proposal for an overpass on River Road over Miner Street and the railroad tracks, which city officials speculate is five years away.

Ford expected to sign legislation

OK of revenue-sharing to benefit NW suburbs

A Herald staff report

Revised allocations for social service groups, new equipment and improved local government services for the Northwest suburbs are likely to result from Congress' approval Thursday of $25.6 billion in revenue-sharing funds.

A bill allocating the funds over a nearly four-year period has been sent to President Ford. He is expected to sign it. The funds would be made available to 39,000 state and local governments through September 1980.

Most Northwest suburban officials contacted Thursday were pleased with the action by Congress.

"WE'RE ABSOLUTELY delighted with the news," Wheeling Township supervisor Ethel Kolerus, said. "Revenue sharing will give us an opportunity to continue and increase services that are important to our area."

"All I can say is that I'm exhilarated," Des Plaines Mayor Charles J. Bolek said. "We've been working strenuously to have it reinstated. We've been preparing our budget on the assumption that we'd be getting it."

Thomas Markus, assistant village manager of Wheeling, said, "We're delighted the program has been extended. It will prevent any major tax increases in the village."

"We have allocated most of our federal revenue-sharing funds for fire department salaries and we'll probably continue to use them that way in the future," Richard Jesse, finance director for the Village of Mount Prospect, said.

WILLIAM MASLOWSKI, a Prospect Heights alderman and a member of the city council's finance committee, said he is "happy" about passage of the funding bill.

"At this point we're not sure how much revenue we'll be receiving, but every little bit helps," Maslowski said.

"I think they're smart people,"

Howard Olsen, Palatine Township supervisor, said of the congressmen who voted for the bill.

"I have no doubt that the various agencies will call the availability of revenue-sharing funds to our attention," Olsen quipped.

THE BILL WILL mean about $250,000 a year for Elk Grove Township. Richard Hall, township supervisor, said the funds will allow the township to "continue all of the programs we have without having to go to the citizens for a tax increase."

George C. Coney, Elk Grove Village finance director, said an $885,000 fund allocation will be used to buy a fire department pumper, a radio for paramedics and will finance improvements for the village garage and fire departments.

Hoffman Estates will gain about $32,000 between now and May if Ford signs the bill. Keith Wendland, village finance director, said the additional money would be added to $572,749 the village has received since 1972.

Additional funds will probably mean a new fire station for Schaumburg. Joseph Castor, Schaumburg finance director, said revenue-sharing will "further a proposed building program," meaning a third fire station.

SOCIAL PROGRAMS will benefit most from the funds in Schaumburg Township. Vernon Laubenstein, township supervisor, said the township will receive an additional $160,000 by the end of the year.

Trustee Frank Palmatier of Arlington Heights said the village has "usually earmarked it (revenue-sharing money) for capital gains," to avoid becoming dependent on it. Most of the money has been used for land acquisition and flood-control projects.

"I guess I should thank God it was extended," Robert Cole, Rolling Meadows city treasurer, said. Cole said the city has been counting on the extension of revenue funds to finance police and fire departments, along with the garbage collection service.

The Village of Palatine will receive about $159,000 in revenue-sharing funds, Village Pres. Wendell Jones said.

"It has proved its worth and I'm glad it has been extended," Jones said.

Water, sewer work included

$30 million in improvements told

An estimated $30 million in capital improvements for the village, including upgrading of the water and sanitary sewer systems, has been outlined by Wheeling Village Mgr. Terry L. Zerkle.

Zerkle Thursday said staff recommendations on capital improvements are "very preliminary" and that final decisions on the projects will be made "by the board in conjunction with village residents." A timetable for the proposed improvements has not been set.

"We're just trying to get a plan of action started. Our recommendations are what we see as the deficiencies in the village — areas which need to be addressed and upgraded," he said.

PROJECTS OUTLINED by the village staff included improvements to the water, sanitary sewer and storm drainage system, new street construction, street reconstruction and repairs to sidewalks, curbs and gutters.

The staff also recommended construction of a public works vehicle maintenance building, a new main fire station and branch station west of the Soo Line R. R. tracks and additions to the municipal building.

Zerkle said the village board must review the recommendations and set priorities before investigating various means of financing the projects. Funding alternatives include bond referendums, state and federal grants and the special assessments, he said.

"We're not proposing any wholesale tax increases to accomplish this program. There's no way we could do that," he said.

ZERKLE SAID there are certain improvements "which could actually be decided by the voters."

"For example, the construction of a new fire station or expansion of the village hall could be placed on a referendum. In the final analysis, the community makes a final determination through the vote," he said.

Zerkle said it is "absolutely necessary that the community be involved. It's the voter who decides what level of service and type of community he wants."

The village staff has also recommended upgrading of license and fee schedules in Wheeling. Thomas Markus, assistant village manager, said some revenue sources, including tap-on fees and business licenses, "haven't increased since 1958."

"THE GROWTH in this community has really drained our resources. Increases in some of the fees could have gone a long way in offsetting our costs," he said.

Zerkle said the current village tap-on fee of $25 doesn't "even cover the cost of sending a building inspector out to inspect the site." Tap-on fees are fees paid when a new unit or development is brought into the city's water system.

Zerkle said the village will not "arbitrarily or unilaterally raise the fees for the sake of securing revenues."

"That's not the intent. The revenue required should be tied into some level of service or some capital improvement program. Growth should pay for itself," he said.

A WORKER PLOWS up dirt at the construction site of Lake-Cook Road, which will be a four-lane highway extending from Highland Park to Barrington. County officials recently opened the road to local traffic from Milwaukee Avenue to Sanders Road.

Cedar Run, Lake-Cook tie unlikely

Cedar Run Drive will not be connected with Lake-Cook Road if the Wheeling Village Board approves the recommendations of the village administration.

Village Mgr. Terry L. Zerkle Thursday said a study of Lake-Cook Road's impact on the village indicates an intersection at Cedar Run Drive could create traffic safety problems.

"The county is proposing a straight intersection — no left-turn lanes or deceleration lanes — with only a stop sign. Lake-Cook will be a four-lane roadway and we could expect a fair amount of traffic and some accidents," he said.

ZERKLE SAID the staff has proposed construction of a collector road on a parcel of land just east of Cedar Run. He said the collector road could connect McHenry Road with Lake-Cook Road, giving residents of Whiplash Mobile Home Park and Cedar Run access.

The administration also has recommended that Lake-Cook Road and Cedar Run Drive be connected for emergency use only, Zerkle said. He said a barricade could be built to prevent access to regular traffic.

"The primary advantage of an intersection at Cedar Run and Lake-Cook Road is that it provides an alternative emergency access to the area west of the Soo Line," he said.

Zerkle said the village also can ask that the intersection be eliminated or redesigned to incorporate more traffic safety devices. He said any additional traffic safety features would have to be installed at village expense.

THE VILLAGE staff also has suggested that only right turns be allowed at the intersection, Zerkle said.

Paul Flakamp, president of the Cedar Run Homeowner's Corp., said problems caused by construction on Lake-Cook Road "have almost come to a halt." Cedar Run residents had complained about heavy construction traffic on private roads and safety hazards caused by the heavy equipment.

Flakamp said the contractor also has replaced sodding torn up by construction equipment.

Unit head quits, cites obligations

June Orlovski, chairwoman of the Wheeling Youth Commission, has resigned from her post "due to growing business and family obligations."

Mrs. Orlovski, 667 S. Milwaukee Ave., said she is "no longer in a position" to "devote sufficient time and energy to the important duties of the youth commission."

U.S. boosts Medicare fees 19%, cites cost rise

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Citing rising hospital costs, the government Thursday boosted hospital fees for persons on Medicare by 19 per cent and said the prices for extended treatment in hospitals and nursing homes also would rise.

Under the changes, effective Jan. 1:

- Persons entering a hospital under Medicare will have to pay the first $124 of the bill, compared to $104 now.
- Persons on Medicare staying in a hospital for more than 60 days will pay $31 a day for the 61st through the 90th day, compared to $26 a day now.

• Patients discharged from hospitals who enter a nursing facility and stay there more than 20 days will have to pay $15.50 a day toward the cost of the 21st through the 100th day, instead of the present $13.

• If a person chooses to draw on his "lifetime reserve" days — the extra 60 hospital days a beneficiary can use when more than 90 days of hospital care in a benefit period is needed — the patient will pay $62 for each reserve day used instead of the current $52.

"The increases are mandatory under law," said a spokesman for the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. "They are mandated by rising hospital costs."

THE CHANGES could cause hardship for many of the 24.7 million elderly persons on fixed incomes who are covered by hospital insurance under Medicare. The number of persons covered is expected to increase to 25.3 million next year.

Social Security Commissioner James B. Cardwell said the hike in the initial deductible is intended to make the beneficiary responsible for expenses approximately equal to the average cost of one day of hospital care.

Currently, the average hospital stay under Medicare costs about $1,600, the government said.

Congress overturns veto of HEW

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress, moving toward adjournment, overrode President Ford's veto of the $58.6 billion bill to fund labor, health, education and welfare programs Thursday, putting the measure immediately into law.

It was the 11th time in 27 attempts that Congress has overturned a Ford veto. The President has vetoed 59 bills since taking office two years ago.

The bill exceeded President Ford's budget request by $4 billion, an amount Sen. Carl Curtis, R-Nebr., called "quite significant. It's not a small matter."

But Sen. Warren Magnuson, D-Wash., said the funds in the bill affect the lives and welfare of every American and called Ford's budget request "totally inadequate, a miserable budget creating more misery."

Democratic vice presidential nominee Sen. Walter Mondale, D-Minn., returned to the Senate to vote for the override. His Republican counterpart Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kan., was absent.

The Senate voted 67-15 to override the veto, 12 more than needed. Nineteen Republicans defected from the President and joined 48 Democrats in supporting the override.

The House voted 312-83 to override, 42 votes more than the two-thirds majority required of each body of Congress to beat a veto.

A total of 63 Republicans defected from Ford and joined 347 Democrats to override in the House. Twenty-two Democrats joined 71 Republicans in voting to sustain.

The bill provides $10 billion for the Department of Labor, including funds to create some 37,000 new public service jobs, and the rest to the Department of Health, Education and Welfare for the major programs of aid to education and health services and re-salary schedule. The board requested that the merit system be kept for this year, but offered to establish a committee to investigate alternative methods of pay.

In return for allowing the committee to include merit systems in its investigation and recommendations, the teachers demanded that two board policies be added to the contract and that an early retirement policy be negotiated.

THE CURRENT board policies the teachers want added to the contract cover maternity leaves and procedures for releasing tenured teachers.

Board Pres. Melvin Laco said the early retirement policy is negotiable but the other policies are not. "These are things the board must not capitulate to because we're elected. There is no compromise on these things," he said.

He said he is concerned the demonstration Thursday resulted from differences over "issues the Illinois Education Assn. or other groups are trying to promote. It seems to be external to people in our district. It looks like people not at all familiar with our district are calling the shots."

The Dist. 23 teachers' union is affiliated with the IEA, a statewide teachers' union. The union also is a member of the North Suburban Unified Bargaining Council, a coalition of 16 teachers' unions which is involved in negotiating.

LACE SAID he also is concerned about the teachers' request that Grodsky act as a mediator in the current contract stalemate.

"It's not a case needing mediation," he said. "It's just a straight forward thing of negotiating. Mr. Grodsky has done many things to help us and the schools through conciliatory measures."

Lace said the superintendent is not supposed to negotiate and that teachers must schedule the next negotiating session because they broke off the contract talks. He said that requirement is included in the procedural agreement for negotiations.

David Kessler, union negotiator, said the teachers plan to distribute leaflets at PTA open houses being held Tuesday and Thursday at Ross and Eisenhower Schools.

He said union negotiators will not return to the bargaining table until the board is willing to negotiate inclusion of board policies in the contract.

Society slates funds for Childerly unit

The Wheeling Historical Society has appropriated $1,010 for restoration and redevelopment of the Childerly Retreat House, 506 McHenry Road.

Shirley Koeppen, society president, said the funds will be used to restore historical buildings on the 10-acre site. The Wheeling Park District is in the process of purchasing the land from the Calvert Foundation of Chicago, a Catholic organization.

Mrs. Koeppen said the historical society is seeking members "interested in helping with this gigantic project."

"We're open to new membership. They're most welcome," she said.

Mikva, Young square off in first of 16 debates

by STEVE BROWN

U.S. Rep. Abner J. Mikva, D-10th, and Republican Samuel H. Young Thursday night squared off in the first of 16 campaign debates agreeing they would oppose a constitutional amendment to ban abortion, but on little else.

The pair, opponents for the third time in the 10th Congressional District, answered a series of questions posed by more than 450 persons at the Leverone Hall at Northwestern University in Evanston.

Following the debate, both candidates said they were pleased with the outcome. Young said he would have preferred to ask questions of Mikva and allow Mikva to question him. However, Mikva said that procedure sometimes becomes "too cutesy," adding "I don't think it would serve any useful purposes."

ON THE ABORTION issue, while both Mikva and Young said they would oppose the Constitutional amendment, Young said his action would be based on a poll of district residents which indicates more than 70 per cent oppose an amendment.

Mikva said, "Even when we agree, we disagree on our reasons. I am opposed because the amendment decies the basic notion of the Constitution."

The questions in the debate ranged over a wide series of issues, including defense spending, regulations governing political activities by political employees and government bureaucracy.

On the question of development of the controversial BI bomber, Mikva said he was opposed because the advanced weapons system would be obsolete before it was ever put into use.

YOUNG SAID he supported development of the BI because the bomber is necessary to develop an adequate defense force.

The pair also sharply differed on decriminalization of marijuana. Mikva said he supported such a move while Young said he opposed it.

In discussing the gun control, Young said he favors a ban on so-called Saturday night specials, but Mikva said he favored a ban on the sale, manufacture and distribution of all handguns.

During closing statements to the crowd, the Evanston Democrat said there were sharp differences between himself and Young. Young called the congressional race more important than the election for President.

"This election is more important because Congress has more power than the President, Congress passes the law," Young said.

HE DISAGREED with Mikva on the proposal to raise congressional standards and Mikva's suggestion that congressmen not engage in private law practices.

"Your income should be sufficiently small while serving in Congress that you've got to perform some sort of civilian occupation to make ends meet, that way you suffer like all the rest of the taxpayers," Young said.

Ford expected to sign legislation

OK of revenue-sharing to benefit NW suburbs

A Herald staff report

Revised allocations for social service groups, new equipment and improved local government services for the Northwest suburbs are likely to result from Congress' approval Thursday of $25.6 billion in revenue-sharing funds.

A bill allocating the funds over a nearly four-year period has been sent to President Ford. He is expected to sign it. The funds would be made available to 39,000 state and local governments through September 1980.

Most Northwest suburban officials contacted Thursday were pleased with the action by Congress.

"WE'RE ABSOLUTELY delighted with the news," Wheeling Township supervisor Ethel Kolerus, said. "Revenue sharing will give us an opportunity to continue and increase services that are important to our area."

"All I can say is that I'm exhilarated," Des Plaines Mayor Charles J. Bolek said. "We've been working strenuously to have it reinstated. We've been preparing our budget on the assumption that we'd be getting it."

Thomas Markus, assistant village manager of Wheeling, said, "We're delighted the program has been extended. It will prevent any major tax increases in the village."

"We have allocated most of our federal revenue-sharing funds for fire department salaries and we'll probably continue to use them that way in the future," Richard Jesse, finance director for the Village of Mount Prospect, said.

WILLIAM MASLOWSKE, a Prospect Heights alderman and a member of the city council's finance committee, said he is "happy" about passage of the funding bill.

"At this point we're not sure how much revenue we'll be receiving, but every little bit helps," Maslowski said.

"I think they're smart people,"

Howard Olsen, Palatine Township supervisor, said of the congressmen who voted for the bill.

"I have no doubt that the various agencies will call the availability of revenue-sharing funds to our attention," Olsen quipped.

THE BILL WILL mean about $250,000 a year for Elk Grove Township. Richard Hall, township supervisor, said the funds will allow the township to "continue all of the programs we have without having to go to the citizens for a tax increase."

George C. Coney, Elk Grove Village finance director, said an $885,000 fund allocation will be used to buy a fire department pumper, a radio for paramedics and will finance improvements for the village garage and fire departments.

Hoffman Estates will gain about $32,000 between now and May if Ford signs the bill. Keith Wendland, village finance director, said the additional money would be added to $572,749 the village has received since 1972.

Additional funds will probably mean a new fire station for Schaumburg. Joseph Castor, Schaumburg finance director, said revenue-sharing will "further a proposed building program," meaning a third fire station.

SOCIAL PROGRAMS will benefit most from the funds in Schaumburg Township. Vernon Laubenstein, township supervisor, said the township will receive an additional $160,000 by the end of the year.

Trustee Frank Palmatier of Arlington Heights said the village has "usually earmarked it (revenue-sharing money) for capital gains," to avoid becoming dependent on it. Most of the money has been used for land acquisition and flood-control projects.

"I guess I should thank God it was extended," Robert Cole, Rolling Meadows city treasurer, said. Cole said the city has been counting on the extension of revenue funds to finance police and fire departments, along with the garbage collection service.

The Village of Palatine will receive about $159,000 in revenue-sharing funds, Village Pres. Wendell Jones said.

"It has proved its worth and I'm glad it has been extended," Jones said.

U.S. boosts Medicare fees 19%, cites cost rise

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Citing rising hospital costs, the government Thursday boosted hospital fees for persons on Medicare by 19 per cent and said the prices for extended treatment in hospitals and nursing homes also would rise.

Under the changes, effective Jan. 1:

- Persons entering a hospital under Medicare will have to pay the first $124 of the bill, compared to $104 now.
- Persons on Medicare staying in a hospital for more than 90 days will pay $31 a day for the 91st through the 100th day, compared to $25 a day now.
- Patients discharged from hospitals who enter a nursing facility and stay there more than 30 days will have to pay $15.50 a day toward the cost of the 31st through the 100th day, instead of the present $13.
- If a person chooses to draw on his "lifetime reserve" days — the extra 60 hospital days a beneficiary can use when more than 90 days of hospital care in a benefit period is needed — the patient will pay $62 for each reserve day used instead of the current $52.

"The increases are mandatory under law," said a spokesman for the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. "They are mandated by rising hospital costs."

THE CHANGES could cause hardship for many of the 24.7 million elderly persons on fixed incomes who are covered by hospital insurance under Medicare. The number of persons covered is expected to increase to 25.3 million next year.

Social Security Commissioner James B. Cardwell said the hike in the initial deductible is intended to make the beneficiary responsible for expenses approximately equal to the average cost of one day of hospital care.

Currently, the average hospital stay under Medicare costs about $1,600, the government said.

A fire drill at Buffalo Grove High School Thursday helped alert students of fire prevention week which begins Sunday.

Dist. 21 achievement scores on the way up

by DIANE GRANAT

Students with average intelligence in Wheeling-Buffalo Grove Dist. 21, are achieving less than their ability on standardized tests, while students with above average intelligence are performing higher than district expectations.

However, over-all scores on standardized tests used in Dist. 21 reveal an upward trend in student achievement.

These findings are based on results from the Iowa Test of Basic Skills, administered to 4,500 third-through eighth-grade students last April. The results were analyzed Thursday by consultants from Northern Illinois University at a meeting of the Dist. 21 administrators council.

THE STUDENTS' scores in all subjects tested were at or above their own grade levels compared to national averages on the Iowa test. These scores generally have increased in the past three years.

However, when the test scores were compared to the expected performance for students at different intelligence levels, the results showed students with average intelligence making smaller gains than expected.

A "theoretical expectancy" is used by Dist. 21 to determine whether students are achieving according to their ability and their grade level. Ability is measured by intelligence tests given to all Dist. 21 students.

Average intelligence is defined as an Intelligence Quotient between 90 and 110, and above average is an IQ above 111. The national norm or IQ is 100, but in Dist. 21 the average IQ is 111.

"Your average group is something you need to look at," NIU's Wesley Many told the administrators. "But the above and 'above above' students are making good progress."

SUPT. KENNETH GILL said an analysis of test scores last year also indicated that the academic development of average children should be the district's main concern. Gill said the district's attempts to solve this problem apparently were "not too effective."

Peter Abrams, another consultant from NIU, said, "It is much easier to avoid the issue and not to look at IQ. Then you can say, 'look, we're doing well'" compared to national norms.

"The average IQ in this district is 111, which is considerably higher than the national norm," Abrams said. "We would expect them (the students) to do better than the average student on the national norm because they are smarter to begin with."

This year's test results indicated that all third graders did better than expected, while in other grade levels average and below average students did not meet the expected range for their ability.

MANY SAID THE performance of third graders may have been better because there is a heavier emphasis on basic skills, such as reading, in the primary grades. In the upper grades the emphasis shifts to higher content in the curriculum, he said.

Many cautioned the district officials on the use of the test scores. He said the tests can be used only as an indicator, rather than an absolute measure of student achievement.

"The Iowa tests cannot deal with local curricular differences which might have bearing on the outcome," Many said. He said the district must be sure it is testing students on what they are being taught.

The Iowa tests are designed to measure growth in five areas: Vocabulary, Reading, Mathematics, Science, and Social Studies.

Congress overturns veto of HEW

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress, moving toward adjournment, overrode President Ford's veto of the $36.6 billion bill to fund labor, health, education and welfare programs Thursday, putting the measure immediately into law.

It was the 11th time in 27 attempts that Congress has overturned a Ford veto. The President has vetoed 50 bills since taking office two years ago.

The bill exceeded President Ford's budget request by $4 billion, an amount Sen. Carl Curtis, R-Nebr., called "quite significant. It's not a small matter."

But Sen. Warren Magnuson, D-Wash., said the funds in the bill affect the lives and welfare of every American and called Ford's budget request "totally inadequate, a miserable budget creating more misery."

Democratic vice presidential nominee Sen. Walter Mondale, D-Minn., returned to the Senate to vote for the override. His Republican counterpart Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kan., was absent.

The Senate voted 67-15 to override the veto, 12 more than needed. Nineteen Republicans defected from the President and joined 48 Democrats in supporting the override.

The House voted 312-93 to override, 42 votes more than the two-thirds majority required of each body of Congress to best a veto.

A total of 63 Republicans defected from Ford and joined 247 Democrats to override in the House. Twenty-two Democrats joined 71 Republicans in voting to sustain.

The bill provides $10 billion for the Department of Labor, including funds to create some 27,000 new public service jobs, and the rest to the Department of Health, Education and Welfare for the major programs of aid to education and health services and re-

Mikva, Young square off in first of 16 debates

by STEVE BROWN

U.S. Rep. Abner J. Mikva, D-10th, and Republican Samuel H. Young Thursday night squared off in the first of 16 campaign debates agreeing they would oppose a constitutional amendment to ban abortion, but on little else.

The pair, opponents for the third time in the 10th Congressional District, answered a series of questions posed by more than 450 persons at the Leverone Hall at Northwestern University in Evanston.

Following the debate, both candidates said they were pleased with the outcome. Young said he would have preferred to ask questions of Mikva and allow Mikva to question him. However, Mikva said that procedure sometimes becomes "too cutesy," adding "I don't think it would serve any useful purposes."

ON THE ABORTION issue, while both Mikva and Young said they would oppose the Constitutional amendment, Young said his action would be based on a poll of district residents which indicates more than 70 per cent oppose an amendment.

Mikva said, "Even when we agree, we disagree on our reasons. I am opposed because the amendment decries the basic notion of the Constitution."

The questions in the debate ranged over a wide series of issues, including defense spending, regulations governing political activities by political employees and government bureaucracy.

On the question of development of the controversial B1 bomber, Mikva said he was opposed because the advanced weapons system would be obsolete before it was ever put into use.

YOUNG SAID he supported development of the B1 because the bomber is necessary to develop an adequate defense force.

The pair also sharply differed on decriminalization of marijuana. Mikva said he supported such a move while Young said he opposed it.

In discussing the gun control, Young said he favors a ban on so-called Saturday night specials, but Mikva said he favored a ban on the sale, manufacture and distribution of all handguns.

During closing statements to the crowd, the Evanston Democrat said there were sharp differences between himself and Young. Young called the congressional race more important than the election for President.

"This election is more important because Congress has more power than the President, Congress passes the law," Young said.

HE DISAGREED with Mikva on the proposal to raise congressional standards and Mikva's suggestion that

Abner J. Mikva

Samuel H. Young

congressmen not engage in private law practices.

"Your income should be sufficiently small while serving in Congress that you've got to perform some sort of civilian occupation to make ends meet, that way you suffer like all the rest of the taxpayers," Young said.

lary, reading comprehension, language skills, work study skills and mathematics. A composite score also is reported for each grade level.

MARJORIE BEU, assistant superintendent for instruction, said in an initial analysis of the reading and language arts scores, she found the district's goals and objectives do not match what the test measures.

Miss Beu said the district covers the topics on the tests but at different grade levels.

The over-all results of the tests show an improvement in all subject areas for the third-fourth-and-seventh-grade students, compared to the scores of students in those grade levels last year. Fifth grade scores remained the same as last year and scores in the sixth and eighth grades showed a slight drop.

Gill said the drop in scores in the upper grades is part of a nationwide phenomenon. "We're going to work on that," he said.

The test scores are broken down by school, class and individual student to monitor the success of the district's programs and the progress of individual students.

"Eventually the classroom teacher has to analyze what she's teaching and what is happening to those kids," Gill said.

County gets approval to refuse plats

The Lake County plats officer has the power to refuse to record municipal plats, according to an opinion issued this week by Illinois Atty. Gen. William Scott.

The opinion contradicts an opinion issued last week by Lake County State's Atty. Jack Hoogastan.

County plats officer F. T. "Mike" Graham has refused to sign municipal plats in the past based on alleged drainage or building code violations.

IN ONE INSTANCE, Graham refused to sign the plat for Hawthorn Shopping Center in Vernon Hills. Graham contended the shopping center did not have adequate water retention area and added to flooding and pollution problems on the Des Plaines River.

The county was sued by the developer of the center, Urban Investment and Development Corp. A Lake County Circuit Court judge upheld the county and the case is now in the Illinois Appellate Court.

Counties in the Northeastern Illinois Planning Commission area with a population under 500,000 can refuse to sign municipal plats, according to Scott's opinion.

"It seems clear that those counties that qualify, including Lake County, have the power to regulate plats of land located anywhere in the county and to require that all plats of land within the county be submitted to the county authorities for their approval," the Scott opinion said.

Hoogastan's opinion last week said that the signature of the plats officer in the case of a municipal plat was "a ministerial act" and added that Graham did not have the discretion not to sign a plat.

IF A PLAT IS not signed and recorded in the county, the land cannot be sold. In the case of the Hawthorn Center, where stores are leased by a single owner, the unrecorded plat has not yet had an impact. In the case of a subdivision, no homes could be sold until the plat is recorded.

Mundelein Mayor Maurice Noll, who is an administrative assistant to the Lake County Municipal League, said Thursday he will recommend to the municipal league that some action be taken on the matter.

"With a guy like Graham up there, we wouldn't get anything through," Noll said. "Graham can procrastinate and delay and it would be expensive and discouraging for the developer. The abuse of the review process is where the danger lies," Noll said.

Hoogastan said Thursday that he believes there would be a test case of the opinion or an effort by the municipalities to change the legislation.

GRAHAM SAID Thursday that he intends to continue to use his power as plats officer and he criticized municipal officials who object to the power.

"If there are problems within any plat, we are certainly going to call attention to them. If that means refusal to sign the plat, that is the course we will take," Graham said.

"If local village officials cherish their powers above the best interests of the public maybe we need new village officials," Graham said.

Police arrest trio on drug counts

Arlington Heights police have arrested three suburban men on charges of possession of drugs valued at more than $1,700.

The first arrest took place when David M. Cleveland, 24, Morton Grove, was stopped for disobeying a traffic signal at Rand and Palatine roads at 11:18 p.m. Wednesday, police said.

Police reportedly found in Cleveland's car: 18.4 grams of cocaine valued at $1,472; tablets of amphetamines valued at $113; 11 tablets of LSD valued at $110; and 24 grams of marijuana valued at $15.

Police charged Cleveland with disobeying a red light and four counts of drug possession.

Detectives then telephoned a room at the Clayton House Motel, at 1090 S. Milwaukee Ave., Wheeling Township, where they said Cleveland told them he was staying.

POLICE SAID an investigator set up a drug sale with William D. Terry, 18, of 1824 E. Cedar Ln., Mount Prospect, who answered the telephone at the motel room.

An investigator met Terry at 3:30 a.m. Thursday in front of an office building at 1000 S. Milwaukee Ave., and paid Terry $60 for 33 tablets of amphetamines and a quantity of cocaine, police said.

Arlington Heights detectives and a Cook County sheriff's policeman moved in and arrested Terry and an accomplice, Philip N. Norman, 18, of 1882 Wood Ln., Mount Prospect, police said.

Police charged Terry with delivery of a controlled substance, and Norman with possession of 15 grams of marijuana.

Norman was released on $1,000 bond and was ordered to appear Oct. 22 in the Arlington Heights branch of Cook County Circuit Court.

Cleveland was assigned $25,000 bond, and Terry, $10,000 bond. Both are being held in the Cook County Jail, in lieu of bond, to await a court hearing today in the Arlington Heights court.

U.S. boosts Medicare fees 19%, cites cost rise

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Citing rising hospital costs, the government Thursday boosted hospital fees for persons on Medicare by 19 per cent and said the prices for extended treatment in hospitals and nursing homes also would rise.

Under the changes, effective Jan. 1:

- Persons entering a hospital under Medicare will have to pay the first $124 of the bill, compared to $104 now.
- Persons on Medicare staying in a hospital for more than 60 days will pay $31 a day for the 61st through the 90th day, compared to $26 a day now.
- Patients discharged from hospitals who enter a nursing facility and stay there more than 20 days will have to pay $13.50 a day toward the cost of the 21st through the 100th day, instead of the present $13.
- If a person chooses to draw on his "lifetime reserve" days — the extra 60 hospital days a beneficiary can use when more than 90 days of hospital care in a benefit period is needed — the patient will pay $62 for each reserve day used instead of the current $52.

"The increases are mandatory under law," said a spokesman for the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. "They are mandated by rising hospital costs."

THE CHANGES could cause hardship for many of the 24.7 million elderly persons on fixed incomes who are covered by hospital insurance under Medicare. The number of persons covered is expected to increase to 25.3 million next year.

Social Security Commissioner James B. Cardwell said the hike in the initial deductible is intended to make the beneficiary responsible for expenses approximately equal to the average cost of one day of hospital care.

Currently, the average hospital stay under Medicare costs about $1,000, the government said.

MACHINES AND MEN prepare land at the northwest corner of Meacham and Nerge roads for construction of 158 homes planned by Centex Homes Corp. The village gave the go-ahead for the work this week. The Meacham Road fire station will be located at the north end of the tract.

Court opens Dist. 211 voter lists

by HOLLY HANSON

Residents in High School Dist. 211 have the right to view voter lists for Dist. 211 Board of Education elections, a Cook County Circuit Court judge has ruled.

Schaumburg resident Judy Sherman last October filed suit to obtain the right to inspect Dist. 211 voter lists, which give the names and addresses of persons voting in each election.

In January, Judge Harry Comerford ruled Mrs. Sherman could examine the lists from the April 1975 election, but he did not extend the right to other residents or to other elections.

THE DIST. 211 BOARD appealed the decision to an Illinois appellate court, John Hager, attorney for Dist. 211, said.

The appellate court last Friday extended Comerford's ruling to allow all residents to examine and copy voting records 30 days after an election if no questions of tampering have been raised, Michael Kreloff, attorney for Mrs. Sherman, said.

In the past, Dist. 211 has destroyed its voting records six months after elections and has denied residents access to voting lists because election can be contested six months after they take place.

James Slater, Dist. 211 business manager, said the district had been interpreting the law to mean that the voting records could be destroyed after six months, but Kreloff argued in the case that Dist. 211 had been misinterpreting the law.

"THE LAW STATES all ballots shall be retained for six months and then be destroyed by burning," Kreloff said. But voter lists are not ballots, he said, and so are not provided for under this law. The lists may be destroyed only with permission of the local records commission, he said.

Dist. 211 has 30 days in which to ask for a rehearing. If it does not, Comerford's ruling will go into effect, Kreloff said.

Mrs. Sherman said she filed the suit because she is involved in school board campaigns. "It is hard to send mail to all residents so it's nice to be able to see who the voters are," she said.

She said she filed the suit for herself and for anyone else who has an interest in school politics.

"I'M THE PERFECT person (to file the suit) because there's no risk involved. They (the Dist. 211 Board) can't sue me for a fortune or ruin my political career," she said. "I can't lose. I can only win."

She said she thinks public records should be made available to the public. "I can't see making a little person suffer just because he's a little person," she said.

Slater emphasized Dist. 211 has attempted to cooperate with Mrs. Sherman by retaining the April 1975 election lists during the suit.

"We are helping to test it (the school records law) in court," he said.

Hager said he does not expect the district to ask for a rehearing on the suit. "I will advise the school board to accept the judge's ruling," he said.

Congress overturns veto of HEW

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress, moving toward adjournment, overrode President Ford's veto of the $36.6 billion bill to fund labor, health, education and welfare programs Thursday, putting the measure immediately into law.

It was the 11th time in 27 attempts that Congress has overturned a Ford veto. The President has vetoed 59 bills since taking office two years ago.

The bill exceeded President Ford's budget request by $4 billion, an amount Sen. Carl Curtis, R-Neb., called "quite significant. It's not a small matter."

But Sen. Warren Magnuson, D-Wash., said the funds in the bill affect the lives and welfare of every American and called Ford's budget request "totally inadequate, a miserable budget creating more misery."

Democratic vice presidential nominee Sen. Walter Mondale, D-Minn., re-

Federal-aid bill OK to aid suburbs

A Herald staff report

Revised allocations for social service groups, new equipment and improved local government services for the Northwest suburbs are likely to result from Congress' approval Thursday of $25.6 billion in revenue-sharing funds.

A bill allocating the funds over a nearly four-year period has been sent to President Ford. He is expected to sign it. The funds would be made available to 39,000 state and local governments through September 1980.

Most Northwest suburban officials contacted Thursday were pleased with the action by Congress.

"WE'RE ABSOLUTELY delighted with the news," Wheeling Township supervisor Ethel Kolerus, said. "Revenue sharing will give us an opportunity to continue and increase services that are important to our area."

"All I can say is that I'm exhilarated," Des Plaines Mayor Charles J. Bolek said. "We've been working strenuously to have it reinstated. We've been preparing our budget on the assumption that we'd be getting it."

Thomas Markus, assistant village manager of Wheeling, said, "We're delighted the program has been extended. It will prevent any major tax increases in the village."

"We have allocated most of our federal revenue-sharing funds for fire department salaries and we'll probably continue to use them that way in the future," Richard Jesse, finance director for the Village of Mount Prospect, said.

WILLIAM MASLOWSKE, a Prospect Heights alderman and a member of the city council's finance committee, said he is "happy" about passage of the funding bill.

"At this point we're not sure how much revenue we'll be receiving, but every little bit helps," Maslowski said.

"I think they're smart people," Howard Olsen, Palatine Township supervisor, said of the congressmen who voted for the bill.

"I have no doubt that the various agencies will call the availability of revenue-sharing funds to our attention," Olsen quipped.

THE BILL WILL mean about $250,000 a year for Elk Grove Township. Richard Hall, township supervisor, said the funds will allow the township to "continue all of the programs we have without having to go to the citizens for a tax increase."

George C. Coney, Elk Grove Village finance director, said an $885,000 fund allocation will be used to buy a fire department pumper, a radio for paramedics and will finance improvements for the village garage and fire departments.

Hoffman Estates will gain about $32,000 between now and May if Ford signs the bill, Keith Wendland, village finance director, said the additional money would be added to $372,749 the village has received since 1972.

Funds needed by village

Elk Grove Village has averaged $375,000 a year in federal revenue-sharing fund receipts, but this year the fund has made a crucial difference.

"We have appropriated $885,000 in revenue-sharing funds, using all we have," said Finance Director George C. Coney.

The village board had to turn to revenue-sharing funds during budget time in order to eliminate most of an anticipated deficit for 1976-77. The village budgeted the funds for capital improvements, including $281,000 for construction of the Meacham Road fire station.

REVENUE-SHARING funds also are being or have been used to buy an $80,000 fire pumper, a paramedic telemetry radio, improvements at the public works garage, remodeling of the Landmeier Road fire station and a 20-channel telephone recorder for the fire department.

Congress' approval of a four-year extension of the revenue-sharing program will mean "between $350,000 and $400,000 a year extra available for other capital expenditures," Coney said.

The village board has adopted a policy to use revenue-sharing funds only for one-time expenses because of the uncertainty that the revenue-sharing funds would continue.

Additional funds will probably mean a new fire station for Schaumburg. Joseph Castor, Schaumburg finance director, said revenue-sharing will "further a proposed building program," meaning a third fire station.

SOCIAL PROGRAMS will benefit most from the funds in Schaumburg Township. Vernon Laubenstein, township supervisor, said the township will receive an additional $160,000 by the end of the year.

Trustee Frank Palmatier of Arlington Heights said the village has "usually earmarked it (revenue-sharing money) for capital gains" to avoid becoming dependent on it. Most of the money has been used for land acquisition and flood-control projects.

"I guess I should thank God it was extended," Robert Cole, Rolling Meadows city treasurer, said. Cole said the city has been counting on the extension of revenue funds to finance police and fire departments, along with the garbage collection service.

The Village of Palatine will receive about $150,000 in revenue-sharing funds, Village Pres. Wendell Jones said.

"It has proved its worth and I'm glad it has been extended," Jones said.

from Ford and joined 247 Democrats to override in the House. Twenty-two Democrats joined 71 Republicans in voting to sustain.

The bill provides $10 billion for the Department of Labor, including funds to create some 27,000 new public service jobs, and the rest to the Department of Health, Education and Welfare for the major programs of aid to education and health services and re-

Any kid can get a gun, all he has to do is cheat a little

by JOHN LAMPINEN

The 16-year-old Schaumburg youth used a black-ink pen to fill out the firearm owner's identification application.

In the space where it asked for his name, he scrawled a pseudonym. Where it asked for his date of birth, he wrote one that indicated his age as 18.

He finished filling out the form, slipped it and a money order for $5 into an envelope, and mailed it to the Illinois Dept. of Law Enforcement, Firearm Owners Identification Section.

IN A COUPLE of weeks, they sent him an ID card. He took it to K-Mart at Roselle and Golf roads in Schaumburg.

The clerk looked at the card and took down the ID number. The youngster's photo was on it, so the clerk had little way of knowing the card was phony. He sold the youngster a rifle.

Two weeks ago, police believe, that rifle was used to shoot up a vacant apartment in Hoffman Estates, some of the bullets passing through the walls into a neighboring apartment, narrowly missing its occupants.

Sgt. Ronald Sperandio of the Hoffman Estates Police Dept. is angry about the way the identification program is run. He's been angry about it for a long time.

THE INTENT of the program had been to control guns, Sperandio contends it is not doing that.

"The law's useless. Whatever its intent was, it's not happening," he says. "It's nothing more than a tax."

When Springfield gets an application, he contends, it mails the card and files the information. Very little work is done to ferret out false information.

"The only time you find that out," he says, "is when it's too late, when you've got a bad buy."

IN MOST CASES, that is, after the weapon has been used.

"What good is it if you don't verify that material?" Sperandio asks. "We go through more trouble here verifying someone for a liquor license than they do for a gun."

In Hoffman Estates, he says, liquor license applicants are fingerprinted. Occasionally, police check for syndicate connections. With firearms identification, the state does not even ask for a birth certificate, he says.

The firearms program leaves the verification up to the notary public who signs the application or the dealer who sells the gun, he says.

BUT NOTARY publics rarely ask for identification, he says, and gun

Police arrest trio on drug counts

Arlington Heights police have arrested three suburban men on charges of possession of drugs valued at more than $1,700.

The first arrest took place when David M. Cleveland, 24, Morton Grove, was stopped for disobeying a traffic signal at Rand and Palatine roads at 11:18 p.m. Wednesday, police said.

Police reportedly found in Cleveland's car: 18.4 grams of cocaine valued at $1,472; tablets of amphetamines valued at $113; 11 tablets of LSD valued at $110; and 24 grams of marijuana valued at $15.

Police charged Cleveland with disobeying a red light and four counts of drug possession.

Detectives then telephoned a room at the Clayton House Motel, at 1090 S. Milwaukee Ave., Wheeling Township, where they said Cleveland told them he was staying.

POLICE SAID an investigator set up a drug sale with William D. Terry, 18, of 1624 E. Cedar Ln., Mount Prospect, who answered the telephone at the motel room.

An investigator met Terry at 3:30 a.m. Thursday in front of an office building at 1000 S. Milwaukee Ave., and paid Terry $60 for 33 tablets of amphetamines and a quantity of cocaine, police said.

Arlington Heights detectives and a Cook County sheriff's policeman moved in and arrested Terry and an accomplice, Philip N. Norman, 18, of 1832 Wood Ln., Mount Prospect, police said.

dealers have no idea whether an ID card is valid.

"The employee isn't a policeman. They're not trained. Many times they are part-time," he says. "The problem doesn't really sit with the dealer; it sits with the law."

Applicants who knowingly lie on the identification form can be charged with perjury, Sperandio notes.

But it is up to the state's attorney to prosecute, and Sperandio cannot remember a single case going to court.

The Schaumburg youth, while charged in connection with the shooting incident, has not been charged with perjury on the application.

ILLEGAL GUN use is not restricted to Chicago, Sperandio says. It is increasing in the suburbs. Violent crime is on the upswing, and Hoffman Estates police are finding more juveniles with guns.

Sperandio picks up a file and begins naming the cases:

• Two 16-year-olds charged with unlawful use of weapons; a 15-year-old shooting a rifle; a couple more 16-year-olds caught with guns and brass knuckles.

Last January, undercover police bought several weapons from a group of teens in a controlled buy.

"There's more; there's a lot more," Sperandio says. "That's not only Hoffman Estates. It's happening in all communities."

OF COURSE, verification of identification information won't solve the problem completely, Sperandio concedes. There will still be youngsters buying guns on the street.

But, he believes, a stronger law would offer some control, and might have prevented the shooting at the apartment complex.

"Make it a gun law," he says, "not a tax law."

Mikva, Young square off in first of 16 debates

by STEVE BROWN

U.S. Rep. Abner J. Mikva, D-10th, and Republican Samuel H. Young Thursday night squared off in the first of 16 campaign debates agreeing they would oppose a constitutional amendment to ban abortion, but on little else.

The pair, opponents for the third time in the 10th Congressional District, answered a series of questions posed by more than 450 persons at the Leverone Hall at Northwestern University in Evanston.

Following the debate, both candidates said they were pleased with the outcome. Young said he would have preferred to ask questions of Mikva and allow Mikva to question him. However, Mikva said that procedure sometimes becomes "too cutesy," adding "I don't think it would serve any useful purposes."

ON THE ABORTION issue, while both Mikva and Young said they would oppose the Constitutional amendment, Young said his action would be based on a poll of district residents which indicates more than 70 per cent oppose an amendment.

Mikva said, "Even when we agree, we disagree on our reasons. I am opposed because the amendment decries the basic notion of the Constitution."

The questions in the debate ranged over a wide series of issues, including defense spending, regulations governing political activities by political employees and government bureaucracy.

On the question of development of the controversial BI bomber, Mikva said he was opposed because the advanced weapons system would be obsolete before it was ever put into use.

YOUNG SAID he supported development of the BI because the bomber is necessary to develop an adequate defense force.

The pair also sharply differed on decriminalization of marijuana. Mikva said he supported such a move while Young said he opposed it.

In discussing the gun control, Young said he favors a ban on so-called Saturday night specials, but Mikva said he favored a ban on the sale, manufacture and distribution of all handguns.

During closing statements to the crowd, the Evanston Democrat said there were sharp differences between himself and Young. Young called the congressional race more important than the election for President.

"This election is more important because Congress has more power than the President, Congress passes the law," Young said.

HE DISAGREED with Mikva on the proposal to raise congressional standards and Mikva's suggestion that congressmen not engage in private law practices.

"Your income should be sufficiently small while serving in Congress that you've got to perform some sort of civilian occupation to make ends meet, that way you suffer like all the rest of the taxpayers," Young said.

Dist. 54 to study effects of class boost on budget

by HOLLY HANSON

A study on the effects of raising the average Schaumburg Township Dist. 54 class size from 25 to 28 students as one way to avoid a projected budget deficit has been ordered by the district's board of education.

The board, meeting as a committee-of-the-whole Wednesday, reviewed a five-year financial projection given last week to the district's citizens' advisory committee by district officials and then ordered the class size study compiled by the administration.

The financial report projects a $1.17 million surplus for 1977-78 not including salary raises for district employees. If an 8 per cent raise is added to the budget, the district would have a deficit of $92,300.

IF DISTRICT employees receive an 8 per cent raise in 1978-79 also, the projected deficit will be $1.7 million. Teachers negotiated a 7.9 per cent average salary increase for 1978-79.

The board made $300,000 in budget cuts for 1978-79 which will lower anticipated expenditures in 1977-78 and future years, district officials said. The board has not told the administration whether these cuts also should be made in 1977-78 or whether certain items should be reinstated.

The board directed Ronald Ruble, assistant superintendent of personnel, to prepare a study on the effects of having an average class size of 28 with no class smaller than 25 or larger than 30 students. The current district average class size is 25.

Ruble said the district can save between $250,000 and $300,000 by raising the average class size by one student. Larger classes means fewer classrooms in use, he said. As a result, the need for supportive staff, including consultants, maintenance personnel and principals, is reduced.

BOARD MEMBER Elizabeth Carpenter said the board also will consider whether children from the same family would have to attend different schools and how much it would cost to bus children across the district to keep class size equal.

"One of the board's rules of thumb is that two classrooms (of children) make one busload," she said. "If we save on one fund, we have to see what the effect is on another fund."

Mrs. Carpenter said raising class size is not the only step being considered. "It is one of many alternatives; there are a bunch of others too," she said. "The citizens' advisory committee is also looking at instructional programs, where we stand next to state standards and salaries."

Public schools must follow standards set by the state in determining the number of hours of instruction per week in each educational area.

Eliminating raises as a solution to the budget problem is often discussed first, she said, because salaries are the biggest part of the budget and the "most emotional."

In Dist. 54, salaries for all employees account for about 75 per cent of the total operating budget, said Marvin Lapicola, assistant superintendent of finance.

THE CITIZENS' advisory committee, headed by Mrs. Carpenter, had asked Ruble to prepare a breakdown of districtwide classroom enrollment, "where we are by school and by room," she said. The report will show the committee which schools and which grades have larger or smaller class sizes than the district average.

The committee, which met Tuesday, agreed to discuss solutions to the projected deficits and to put together a survey to present to district residents. Options to be considered are larger class size, curtailing or eliminating programs, decreasing use of supplies and making personnel cuts.

Mrs. Carpenter said the survey being prepared by the committee is a good idea because residents will be made aware of the district's financial situation. "The residents read about a state aid cut, but they don't realize it's in their back yards," she said.

The committee also will be able to use responses from residents to help it make recommendations to the board about the budget, she said.

"We only have certain options (in cutting the budget)," she said. "And no options are really nice."

business based at Pal-Waukee Airport, Prospect Heights. Priester and other charter pilots transport both passengers and cargo to various destinations.

Pal-Waukee charter pilots

The sky's the limit for these taxis

by DIANE MERMIGAS

It's no ordinary flight service that shuttles around politicians and entertainers one minute and scatters the ashes of the dead across the countryside the next.

The charter pilots at Pal-Waukee Airport, Palatine Road and Milwaukee Avenue, after all, is anything but an ordinary transportation service — one that is often used by the public for the oddest jobs.

The dozen or so pilots work around the clock, running errands to every part of the country, delivering people and cargo to far-flung destinations.

"We really fill a void in the business by helping companies or individuals who need to get somewhere fast but don't want to take a regular airline flight and don't have their own private planes," said Charles Priester, head of the charter division, and co-owner and operator of the airport with his father, George.

THE AVERAGE of 10 charters a day and 75 a week seldom leaves the division's three Lear jets and eight propeller planes idle.

One pilot might leave before dawn to fly a local corporate head to New York for a breakfast meeting and then return him for lunch in Chicago.

Another pilot might take off with a political candidate for a week-long airport-hopping campaign — downstate or take on the dubious distinction of chauffeuring entertainers such as Frank Sinatra and the Osmonds around the Midwest for a concert tour.

No two requests are alike and one never knows how a job will go since the pilot has the mechanical complexities of the plane, the temperamental whims of Mother Nature and the uncanny reactions of his passengers to deal with, Priester said.

"Once I was scheduled to fly a businessman to Houston for the day. I didn't get back here until almost a month later. He paid me to fly him from one coast to the other and even into Mexico for other business. We saw everything," he said.

NOTABLES SUCH as Bill Cosby, Sen. Hubert Humphrey, Sen. Edward Kennedy and former Gov. Richard Ogilvie have been passengers in Priester's plane during the 21 years he has been flying.

Entertainers and politicians usually sit quietly preoccupied while the pilot takes care of things up front, Priester said.

"It's a thrill to meet and fly people like that. But it's always the ordinary, everyday types who leave me with something to think about," he said.

The hourly rates of $610 to charter a Lear jet and $80 to hire a prop plane and pilot doesn't deter people from using time in the air for whatever they like.

One fanciful young man picked a plane ride over Lake Michigan to propose to his girlfriend who cried throughout the return trip, Priester said.

ONE ELDERLY man, taking his first air trip sat rigid and silent, his sweaty palms over his eyes, during a two-hour trip to New York and then got off the plane raving about the flight.

As in any business, things don't always go as planned. Freight has been delivered to the wrong location and even the wrong passengers have been flown on a trip due to communications mix-ups, he said.

Requests such as the one to scatter the ashes of someone who has been cremated to the four winds, "don't happen very often, but they do happen," Priester said.

Although the hours and work are irregular, Joe Leardi has been flying charters out of Pal-Waukee for 28 years.

Thieves steal equipment from Sinmast office

Furniture and office equipment valued at $2,500 have been stolen from an Elk Grove Village firm, police reported Thursday.

Police said thieves burglarized Sinmast of American Inc., at 1200 Greenleaf Ave., between 3 p.m. Sept. 28 and 9:45 a.m. Tuesday. Sinmast officials reportedly discovered the theft during an inventory of their office.

Police said the thieves stole three files, two stereo tape decks, eight chairs, one electric typewriter, one black and white television, one color television, one television stand, two leather couches, two end tables and two table lamps.

Police reportedly found no signs of forced entry.

Boots, shoes stolen from unlocked semi

Elk Grove Village police are seeking thieves who stole goods valued at $750 in two separate thefts, police reported Tuesday.

Police said thieves stole 48 pairs of boots and shoes and 84 quart-cans of an industrial cleaner from an unlocked trailer-truck parked at the loading dock of Guaranty Trucking Co., 1000 Lust Ave.

Police said the theft occurred between Thursday morning and Friday morning and was reported to police Monday.

Thieves also entered a house under construction at 59 S. Arlington Heights Rd. between 11 a.m. Sunday and 8 a.m. Monday, and stole eight rolls of roofing paper valued at $130 and 50 pounds of nails valued at $30, police said.

Masque & Staff performance today

Union loses bid to force state to keep bus service

The American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees has lost its bid to force the Illinois Dept. of Transportation to continue free transportation for employees at its Schaumburg headquarters.

Judge Daniel A. Covelli of Cook County Circuit Court signed an order Thursday allowing the department to eliminate the bus service starting this morning.

Covelli's order requires the department to:

- Consider employees' problems and not impose penalties for transportation-related absences or tardiness.

- Provide emergency transportation in the event of mass transit breakdown or failure.

- Transfer employees with proven hardship in obtaining transportation to similar jobs in other state agencies.

- Make certain the cost of transportation to employees does not exceed $1.75 per person per day for October and November.

RALPH WEHNER, assistant district engineer for the department, said he was not sure why Covelli placed a ceiling on employee costs for the next two months.

Wehner said the terms of the agreement were reached at a Thursday morning conference between union and department officials and their attorneys.

Wehner said employees were told free transportation would be only temporary when the department moved its Chicago and Elgin offices to 1000 Plaza Dr., Schaumburg, in April 1975.

He said the cost of the service was $6,200 a month for three buses and seven cars to pick up workers at two places in Chicago and one in Elgin.

WEHNER SAID 135 employees initially used the free bus service when it began last year, but ridership has now dropped to 81.

He said alternative transportation arrangements had been made by all but one employee who is being transferred to another state department.

Representatives of the union could not be reached for comment Thursday.

Union representatives have said alternative forms of transportation are not acceptable and criticized the department's move from downtown Chicago to Schaumburg.

Union officials contend department workers were given jobs in Chicago and say the department of transportation should be in the business of promoting mass transit and should not have moved to Schaumburg, where there is none.

U.S. boosts Medicare fees 19%, cites cost rise

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Citing rising hospital costs, the government Thursday boosted hospital fees for persons on Medicare by 19 per cent and said the prices for extended treatment in hospitals and nursing homes also would rise.

Under the changes, effective Jan. 1:

- Persons entering a hospital under Medicare will have to pay the first $124 of the bill, compared to $104 now.
- Persons on Medicare staying in a hospital for more than 60 days will pay $31 a day for the 61st through the 90th day, compared to $28 a day now.

• Patients discharged from hospitals who enter a nursing facility and stay there more than 20 days will have to pay $15.30 a day toward the cost of the 21st through the 100th day, instead of the present $13.

- If a person chooses to draw on his "lifetime reserve" days — the extra 60 hospital days a beneficiary can use when more than 90 days of hospital

Congress overturns veto of HEW

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress, moving toward adjournment, overrode President Ford's veto of the $56.6 billion bill to fund labor, health, education and welfare programs Thursday, putting the measure immediately into law.

It was the 11th time in 27 attempts that Congress has overturned a Ford veto. The President has vetoed 59 bills since taking office two years ago.

The bill exceeded President Ford's budget request by $4.1 billion, an amount Sen. Carl Curtis, R-Nebr., called "quite significant. It's not a small matter."

But Sen. Warren Magnuson,

D-Wash., said the funds in the bill affect the lives and welfare of every American and called Ford's budget request "totally inadequate, a miserable budget creating more misery."

Democratic vice presidential nominee Sen. Walter Mondale, D-Minn., returned to the Senate to vote for the override. His Republican counterpart Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kan., was absent.

The Senate voted 67-15 to override the veto, 12 more than needed. Nineteen Republicans defected from the President and joined 48 Democrats in

The American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees has lost its bid to force the Illinois Dept. of Transportation to continue free transportation for employees at its Schaumburg headquarters.

Federal-aid bill OK to aid suburbs

A Herald staff report

Revised allocations for social service groups, new equipment and improved local government services for the Northwest suburbs are likely to result from Congress' approval Thursday of $23.6 billion in revenue-sharing funds.

A bill allocating the funds over a nearly four-year period has been sent to President Ford. He is expected to sign it. The funds would be made available to 39,000 state and local governments through September 1980.

Most Northwest suburban officials contacted Thursday were pleased with the action by Congress.

"WE'RE ABSOLUTELY delighted with the news," Wheeling Township supervisor Ethel Kolerus, said. "Revenue sharing will give us an opportunity to continue and increase services that are important to our area."

"All I can say is that I'm exultant," Des Plaines Mayor Charles J. Bolek said. "We've been working strenuously to have it reinstated. We've been preparing our budget on the assumption that we'd be getting it."

Thomas Markus, assistant village manager of Wheeling, said, "We're delighted the program has been extended. It will prevent any major tax increases in the village."

"We have allocated most of our federal revenue-sharing funds for fire department salaries and we'll probably continue to use them that way in the future," Richard Jesse, finance director for the Village of Mount Prospect, said.

WILLIAM MASLOWSKE, a Prospect Heights alderman and a member of the city council's finance committee, said he is "happy" about passage of the funding bill.

"At this point we're not sure how much revenue we'll be receiving, but every little bit helps," Maslowski said.

"I think they're smart people," Howard Olson, Palatine Township supervisor, said of the congressmen who voted for the bill.

"I have no doubt that the various agencies will call the availability of revenue-sharing funds to our attention," Olson quipped.

THE BILL WILL mean about $250,000 a year for Elk Grove Township. Richard Hall, township supervisor, said the funds will allow the township to "continue all of the programs we have without having to go to the citizens for a tax increase."

George C. Coney, Elk Grove Village finance director, said an $85,000 fund allocation will be used to buy a fire department pumper, a radio for paramedics and will finance improvements for the village garage and fire departments.

Hoffman Estates will gain about $12,000 between now and May if Ford signs the bill. Keith Wendland, village finance director, said the additional money would be added to $572,749 the village has received since 1972.

Additional funds will probably mean a new fire station for Schaumburg. Joseph Castor, Schaumburg finance director, said revenue-sharing will "further a proposed building program," meaning a third fire station.

SOCIAL PROGRAMS will benefit most from the funds in Schaumburg Township. Vernon Lautenstein, township supervisor, said the township will receive an additional $100,000 by the end of the year.

Trustee Frank Palmatier of Arlington Heights said the village has "usually earmarked it (revenue-sharing money) for capital gains," to avoid becoming dependent on it. Most of the money has been used for land acquisition and flood-control projects.

"I guess I should thank God it was extended," Robert Cole, Rolling Meadows city treasurer, said. Cole said the city has been counting on the extension of revenue funds to finance police and fire departments, along with the garbage collection service.

The Village of Palatine will receive about $150,000 "in" revenue-sharing funds, Village Pres. Wendell Jones said.

"It has proved its worth and I'm glad it has been extended," Jones said.

supporting the override.

The House voted 312-83 to override, 42 votes more than the two-thirds majority required of each body of Congress to beat a veto.

A total of 65 Republicans defected from Ford and joined 247 Democrats to override in the House. Twenty-two Democrats joined 71 Republicans in voting to sustain.

The bill provides $10 billion for the Department of Labor, including funds to create some 27,000 new public service jobs, and the rest to the Department of Health, Education and Welfare for the major programs of aid to education and health services and re-

Firearm policy angers Sperandeo

by JOHN LAMPINEN

The 16-year-old Schaumburg youth used a black-ink pen to fill out the firearm owner's identification application.

In the space where it asked for his name, he scrawled a pseudonym. Where it asked for his date of birth, he wrote one that indicated his age as 18.

He finished filling out the form, slipped it and a money order for $5 into an envelope, and mailed it to the Illinois Dept. of Law Enforcement, Firearm Owners Identification Section.

IN A COUPLE of weeks, they sent him an ID card. He took it to K-Mart at Roselle and Golf roads in Schaumburg.

The clerk looked at the card and took down the ID number. The youngster's photo was on it, so the clerk had little way of knowing the card was phony. He sold the youngster a rifle.

Two weeks ago, police believe, that rifle was used to shoot up a vacant apartment in Hoffman Estates, some of the bullets passing through the walls into a neighboring apartment, narrowly missing its occupants.

Sgt. Ronald Sperandeo of the Hoffman Estates Police Dept. is angry about the way the identification program is run. He's been angry about it for a long time.

THE INTENT of the program had been to control guns. Sperandeo contends it is not doing that.

"The law's useless. Whatever its intent was, it's not happening," he says. "It's nothing more than a tax."

When Springfield gets an application, he contends, it mails the card and files the information. Very little work is done to ferret out false information.

"The only time you find that out," he says, "is when it's too late, when you've got a bad guy."

IN MOST CASES, that is, after the weapon has been used.

"What good is it if you don't verify that material?" Sperandeo asks. "We go through more trouble here verifying someone for a liquor license than they do for a gun."

In Hoffman Estates, he says, liquor license applicants are fingerprinted. Occasionally, police check for syndicate connections. With firearms identification, the state does not even ask for a birth certificate, he says.

The firearms program leaves the verification up to the notary public who signs the application or the dealer who sells the gun, he says.

BUT NOTARY publics rarely ask for identification, he says, and gun dealers have no idea whether an ID card is valid.

"The employe isn't a policeman. They're not trained. Many times, they are part-time," he says. "The problem doesn't really sit with the dealer; it sits with the law."

Applicants who knowingly lie on the identification form can be charged with perjury, Sperandeo notes.

But it is up to the state's attorney to prosecute, and Sperandeo cannot remember a single case going to court.

The Schaumburg youth, while charged in connection with the shooting incident, has not been charged with perjury on the application.

Mikva, Young square off in first of 16 debates

by STEVE BROWN
U.S. Rep. Abner J. Mikva, D-10th, and Republican Samuel H. Young Thursday night squared off in the first of 16 campaign debates agreeing they would oppose a constitutional amendment to ban abortion, but on little else.

The pair, opponents for the third time in the 10th Congressional District, answered a series of questions posed by more than 450 persons at the Leverone Hall at Northwestern University in Evanston.

Following the debate, both candidates said they were pleased with the outcome. Young said he would have preferred to ask questions of Mikva and allow Mikva to question him. However, Mikva said that procedure sometimes becomes "too cutesy," adding "I don't think it would serve any useful purposes."

ON THE ABORTION issue, while both Mikva and Young said they would oppose the Constitutional amendment, Young said his action would be based on a poll of district residents which indicates more than 70 per cent oppose an amendment.

Mikva said, "Even when we agree, we disagree on our reasons. I am opposed because the amendment denies the basic notion of 'the Constitution.'"

The questions in the debate ranged over a wide series of issues, including defense spending, regulations governing political activities by political employees and government bureaucracy. On the question of development of the controversial B1 bomber, Mikva said he was opposed because the advanced weapons system would be obsolete before it was ever put into use.

YOUNG SAID he supported development of the B1 because the bomber is necessary to develop an adequate defense force.

The pair also sharply differed on decriminalization of marijuana. Mikva said he supported such a move while Young said he opposed it.

In discussing the gun control, Young said he favors a ban on so-called Saturday night specials, but Mikva said he favored a ban on the sale, manufacture and distribution of all handguns.

During closing statements to the crowd, the Evanston Democrat said there were sharp differences between himself and Young. Young called the congressional race more important than the election for President.

"This election is more important because Congress has more power than the President, Congress passes the law," Young said.

HE DISAGREED with Mikva on the proposal to raise congressional standards and Mikva's suggestion that congressmen not engage in private law practices.

"Your income should be sufficiently small while serving in Congress that you've got to perform some sort of civilian occupation to make ends meet, that way you suffer like all the rest of the taxpayers," Young said.

Sculpture from junk? An artist can do it

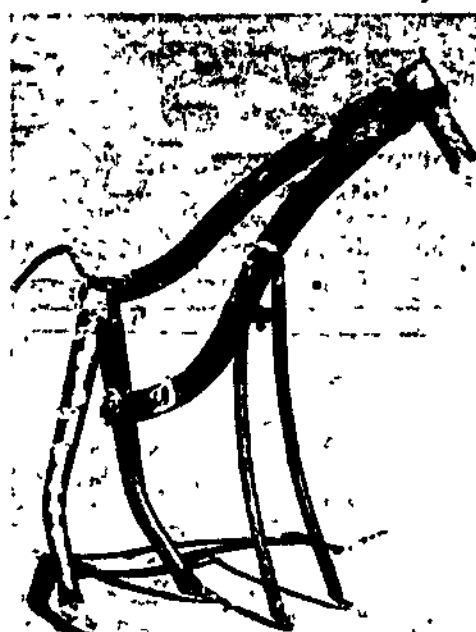

Someone once said, "One man's junk is another man's treasure."
Tom Joris proves this adage by creating and assembling sculpture out of other people's castoffs.
He demonstrated his craft recently for students at Hoover School, 315 N. Springguth Rd., Schaumburg, who gathered outside the school to help him solder junk into animal-like shapes.
Joris and the children constructed several pieces of sculpture out of old bicycle parts, rakes, twisted pipe, trash can lids, step-ladders and charcoal grills.
Joris is from the Urban Gateways program, a not-for-profit organization offering cultural programs to schools.

A rake is transformed into sculpture amid other castoffs and the youthful audience.

Tom Joris inspects the work in progress.

An old bicycle becomes art.

What is it? Jeff Bruggemans seems confused.

Funds extension may aid agencies

The extension of federal revenue-sharing funds through 1980 will probably mean a third fire station for Schaumburg and continued support of a number of agencies by Schaumburg Township.

Joseph Castor, Schaumburg Finance Director said the money will enable the village to "further a proposed building program."

"Although the ultimate decision is up to the village board, priority has been given to a third fire station to meet the continued growth of the village," Castor said.

BENNETT AND Kahnweiler Associates, the developers of Centex-Schaumburg Industrial Park, several years ago donated an approximately one-acre site near Wright Boulevard and Estes Avenue for the station. Schaumburg's fire stations are near Schaumburg Road and Carver Lane and on Meacham Road west of Woodfield Shopping Center.

Castor said he could not estimate the cost of the proposed fire station. Schaumburg has received a total of $894,425 since the revenue-sharing program was started in 1971. Last year, the village received $337,870. $261,000 is expected by Dec. 31.

Continuance of the revenue-sharing program means the township will be able to continue supporting a number of agencies, Vernon Laubenstein, township supervisor, said.

The township has approved revenue-sharing grants to Clearbrook Center, the Northwest Special Recreation program, the Salvation Army Counseling Center, the senior citizens program and several other agencies.

Laubenstein said Schaumburg Township has received more than $832,000 since the program started. He said an additional $160,000 is expected by the end of the year.

Village to gain $32,000 if Ford signs funds bill

Hoffman Estates stands to gain about $32,000 by next May if President Ford signs the federal revenue sharing bill passed by Congress Thursday.

Keith Wendland, village finance director, said he will not be able to gauge further the local implications of the bill until he analyzes the measure.

He noted that earlier House and Senate versions differed drastically.

However, passage of the bill came as no surprise.

"I suspected it would pass," Wendland said. "I thought that it was going to pass; it was just a matter of what it was going to be."

Uses of the extra money if Hoffman Estates are as yet undetermined.

About $101,000 in revenue-sharing funds are currently being funneled toward a street renaming and renumbering plan, writing a comprehensive plan, first-year computer costs, fire-arms for the police department, storm sewer improvements, a municipal sign, scanners for the Civil Defense department and various other pieces of equipment for the village.

The $32,000 would be added to a total of $672,748 the village has received since the program began in October 1972.

The village had been anticipating receiving $629,505 in revenue sharing over the next five years.

U.S. boosts Medicare fees 19%, cites cost rise

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Citing rising hospital costs, the government Thursday boosted hospital fees for persons on Medicare by 19 per cent and said the prices for extended treatment in hospitals and nursing homes also would rise.

Under the changes, effective Jan. 1:

- Persons entering a hospital under Medicare will have to pay the first $124 of the bill, compared to $104 now.
- Persons on Medicare staying in a hospital for more than 60 days will pay $31 a day for the 61st through the 90th day, compared to $26 a day now.
- Patients discharged from hospitals who enter a nursing facility and stay there more than 30 days will have to pay $15.50 a day toward the cost of the 31st through the 100th day, instead of the present $13.
- If a person chooses to draw on his "lifetime reserve" days — the extra 60 hospital days a beneficiary can use when more than 90 days of hospital

Nothing merry about cost of decorations

$1,500 needed for Yule lighting

by JERRY THOMAS

Although Rolling Meadows has spent nearly $30,000 on Christmas decorations during the last three years, city officials say the streets will not be decked out properly unless they come up with an additional $1,300 this year.

The $1,300 would pay the rent on new decorations while the city attempts to dispose of the Christmas decorations it bought three years ago from the State Street Council for $16,000.

Although the city has spent an additional $13,000 to refurbish the giant toy soldiers and fairy castles, the decorations have been stored outdoors for the past two years and are deteriorating rapidly.

MOST HAVE BEEN "cannibalized" to maintain the others, said public works director John Hennessy, and only about 10 of the 70 decorations are still usable.

At first, they were stored in a warehouse but were moved outside when indoor storage proved too expensive. "We have no proper storage place," Hennessy said. "I don't have enough room in my garage for city equipment, let alone the decorations."

He has recommended that the city contract with a private firm to supply the trimmings as well as put them up and take them down.

And the aldermen are hoping to find a buyer for slightly used soldiers and castles. "Somebody must want them," said Ald. Daniel Weber, 4th.

THE YULE decorations have been an embarrassing and expensive problem for the city since the Chamber of Commerce and a committee headed by Ald. Frederick Jacobson, 5th, recommended buying them in 1973.

Today most city officials do not like to talk about the decorations, but a few did mutter "bah, humbug."

The city officials say the chamber promised back in 1973 to pay for half of the $16,000 purchase price but raised only $750 in a fund drive.

Harry O'Brien, executive director of the chamber, said he still thinks the purchase was a good idea and pointed out that, at the time, city officials thought so, too.

THE DECORATIONS were worth $100,000, O'Brien said, and would have lasted longer if they had been stored properly.

He added that it is unfair to criticize the chamber's fund drive.

"Considering we weren't allowed to plan our own fund drive and have had little say about where the decorations are placed at holiday time or stored the rest of the year, the criticism isn't justified," he said.

He said the chamber renews its fund-raising efforts when the decorations are put up each fall. "I think we have done as much as we could," he said.

'Scrooge' shops early for Chamber

"It was dumb" to spend $30,000 on Christmas decorations that now are largely unusable, says Rolling Meadows Mayor Roland J. Meyer.

"But they would have called me Scrooge three years ago if I'd vetoed the council's decision," Meyer said. "But I wish I had."

"It was supposed to be a Chamber of Commerce project, anyway. It's not the city's job to decorate shopping centers," he added. "I'll recommend that we give them to the chamber as a Christmas present this year."

FOR SALE: Parts of Chicago's once-upon-a-time Christmas decorations. Rolling Meadows city officials are attempting to dispose of the tattered, mostly unusable, decorations after sinking about $30,000 in the project during the last two years.

Revenue-sharing funds on the way

A Herald staff report

Revised allocations for social service groups, new equipment and improved local government services for the Northwest suburbs are likely to result from Congress' approval Thursday of $25.6 billion in revenue-sharing funds.

A bill allocating the funds over a nearly four-year period has been sent to President Ford. He is expected to sign it. The funds would be made available to 39,000 state and local governments through September 1980.

Most Northwest suburban officials contacted Thursday were pleased with the action by Congress.

"WE'RE ABSOLUTELY delighted with the news," Wheeling Township supervisor Ethel Kolerus, said. "Revenue sharing will give us an opportunity to continue and increase services that are important to our area."

"All I can say is that I'm exhilarated," Des Plaines Mayor Charles J. Bolek said. "We've been working strenuously to have it reinstated. We've been preparing our budget on the assumption that we'd be getting it."

Thomas Markus, assistant village manager of Wheeling, said, "We're delighted the program has been extended. It will prevent any major tax increases in the village."

"We have allocated most of our federal revenue-sharing funds for fire department salaries and we'll probably continue to use them that way in the future," Richard Jesse, finance director for the Village of Mount Prospect, said.

WILLIAM MASLOWSKE, a Prospect Heights alderman and a member of the city council's finance committee, said he is "happy" about passage of the funding bill.

"At this point we're not sure how much revenue we'll be receiving, but every little bit helps," Maslowski said.

"I think they're smart people," Howard Olsen, Palatine Township supervisor, said of the congressmen who voted for the bill.

"I have no doubt that the various agencies will call the availability of revenue-sharing funds to our attention," Olsen quipped.

THE BILL WILL mean about $250,000 a year for Elk Grove Township. Richard Hall, township supervisor, said the funds will allow the township to "continue all of the programs we have without having to go to the citizens for a tax increase."

George C. Coney, Elk Grove Village finance director, said an $885,000 fund allocation will be used to buy a fire department pumper, a radio for paramedics and will finance improvements for the village garage and fire departments.

Hoffman Estates will gain about $32,000 between now and May if Ford signs the bill. Keith Wendland, village finance director, said the additional money would be added to $372,749 the village has received since 1972.

Additional funds will probably mean a new fire station for Schaumburg. Joseph Castor, Schaumburg finance director, said revenue-sharing will "further a proposed building program," meaning a third fire station.

SOCIAL PROGRAMS will benefit most from the funds in Schaumburg Township. Vernon Laubenstein, township supervisor, said the township will receive an additional $160,000 by the

City counting on funds extension

Rolling Meadows City Treasurer Robert Cole said the city has been betting that federal revenue sharing will be extended.

"I'm happy Congress extended it through 1980," he said. "We expected it would, in fact we counted on it."

Cole said the city figured it would receive about $176,000 in federal revenue sharing funds in 1976 and 1977 and included the anticipated revenue in its budget.

Congress overturns veto of HEW

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress, moving toward adjournment, overrode President Ford's veto of the $56.6 billion bill to fund labor, health, education and welfare programs Thursday, putting the measure immediately into law.

It was the 11th time in 37 attempts that Congress has overturned a Ford veto. The President has vetoed 59 bills since taking office two years ago.

The bill exceeded President Ford's budget request by $4 billion, an amount Sen. Carl Curtis, R-Neb., called "quite significant. It's not a small matter."

But Sen. Warren Magnuson, D-Wash., said the funds in the bill affect the lives and welfare of every American and called Ford's budget request "totally inadequate, a miserable budget creating more misery."

Democratic vice presidential nominee Sen. Walter Mondale, D-Minn., returned to the Senate to vote for the override. His Republican counterpart Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kan., was absent.

Dist. 211 voter lists are opened by county court

by HOLLY HANSON

Residents in High School Dist. 211 have the right to view voter lists for Dist. 211 Board of Education elections, a Cook County Circuit Court judge has ruled.

Schaumburg resident Judy Sherman last October filed suit to obtain the right to inspect Dist. 211 voter lists, which give the names and addresses of persons voting in each election.

In January, Judge Harry Comerford ruled Mrs. Sherman could examine the lists from the April 1975 election, but he did not extend the right to other residents or to other elections.

THE DIST. 211 BOARD appealed the decision to an Illinois appellate court, John Hager, attorney for Dist. 211, said.

The appellate court last Friday extended Comerford's ruling to allow all residents to examine and copy voting records 30 days after an election if no questions of tampering have been raised, Michael Krelloff, attorney for Mrs. Sherman, said.

In the past, Dist. 211 has destroyed its voting records six months after elections and has denied residents access to voting lists because election can be contested six months after they take place.

James Slater, Dist. 211 business manager, said the district had been interpreting the law to mean that the voting records could be destroyed after six months, but Krelloff argued in the case that Dist. 211 had been misinterpreting the law.

"THE LAW STATES all ballots shall be retained for six months and then be destroyed by burning," Krelloff said. But voter lists are not ballots, he said, and so are not provided for under this law. The lists may be destroyed only with permission of the local records commission, he said.

Dist. 211 has 30 days in which to ask for a rehearing. If it does not, Comerford's ruling will go into effect, Krelloff said.

Mrs. Sherman said she filed the suit because she is involved in school board campaigns. "It is hard to send mail to all residents so it's nice to be able to see who the voters are," she said.

She said she filed the suit for herself and for anyone else who has an interest in school politics.

"I'M THE PERFECT person (to file the suit) because there's no risk involved. They (the Dist. 211 Board) can't sue me for a fortune or ruin my political career," she said. "I can't lose. I can only win."

She said she thinks public records should be made available to the public. "I can't see making a little person suffer just because he's a little person," she said.

Slater emphasized Dist. 211 has attempted to cooperate with Mrs. Sherman by retaining the April 1975 election lists during the suit.

"We are helping to test it (the school records law) in court," he said.

end of the year. Trustee Frank Palmatier of Arlington Heights said the village has "usually earmarked it (revenue-sharing money) for capital gains," to avoid becoming dependent on it. Most of the money has been used for land acquisition and flood-control projects.

"I guess I should thank God it was extended," Robert Cole, Rolling Meadows city treasurer, said. Cole said the city has been counting on the extension of revenue funds to finance police and fire departments, along with the garbage collection service.

The Village of Palatine will receive about $150,000 in revenue-sharing funds, Village Pres. Wendell Jones said.

"It has proved its worth and I'm glad it has been extended," Jones said.

Mikva, Young square off in first of 16 debates

by STEVE BROWN

U.S. Rep. Abner J. Mikva, D-10th, and Republican Samuel H. Young Thursday night squared off in the first of 16 campaign debates agreeing they would oppose a constitutional amendment to ban abortion, but on little else.

The pair, opponents for the third time in the 10th Congressional District, answered a series of questions posed by more than 450 persons at the Leverone Hall at Northwestern University in Evanston.

Following the debate, both candidates said they were pleased with the outcome. Young said he would have preferred to ask questions of Mikva and allow Mikva to question him. However, Mikva said that procedure sometimes becomes "too cutesy," adding "I don't think it would serve any useful purposes."

ON THE ABORTION issue, while both Mikva and Young said they would oppose the Constitutional amendment, Young said his action would be based on a poll of district residents which indicates more than 70 per cent oppose an amendment.

Mikva said, "Even when we agree, we disagree on our reasons. I am opposed because the amendment decodes the basic notion of the Constitution."

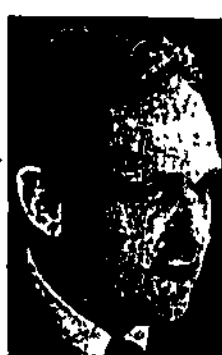

The questions in the debate ranged over a wide series of issues, including defense spending, regulations governing political activities by political employees and government bureaucracy.

On the question of development of the controversial B1 bomber, Mikva said he was opposed because the advanced weapons system would be obsolete before it was ever put into use.

YOUNG SAID he supported development of the B1 because the bomber is necessary to develop an adequate defense force.

The pair also sharply differed on decriminalization of marijuana. Mikva said he supported such a move while Young said he opposed it.

In discussing the gun control, Young said he favors a ban on so-called Saturday night specials, but Mikva said

Samuel H. Young

he favored a ban on the sale, manufacture and distribution of all handguns.

During closing statements to the crowd, the Evanston Democrat said there were sharp differences between himself and Young. Young called the congressional race more important than the election for President.

"This election is more important because Congress has more power than the President, Congress passes the law," Young said.

HE DISAGREED with Mikva on the proposal to raise congressional standards and Mikva's suggestion that congressmen not engage in private law practices.

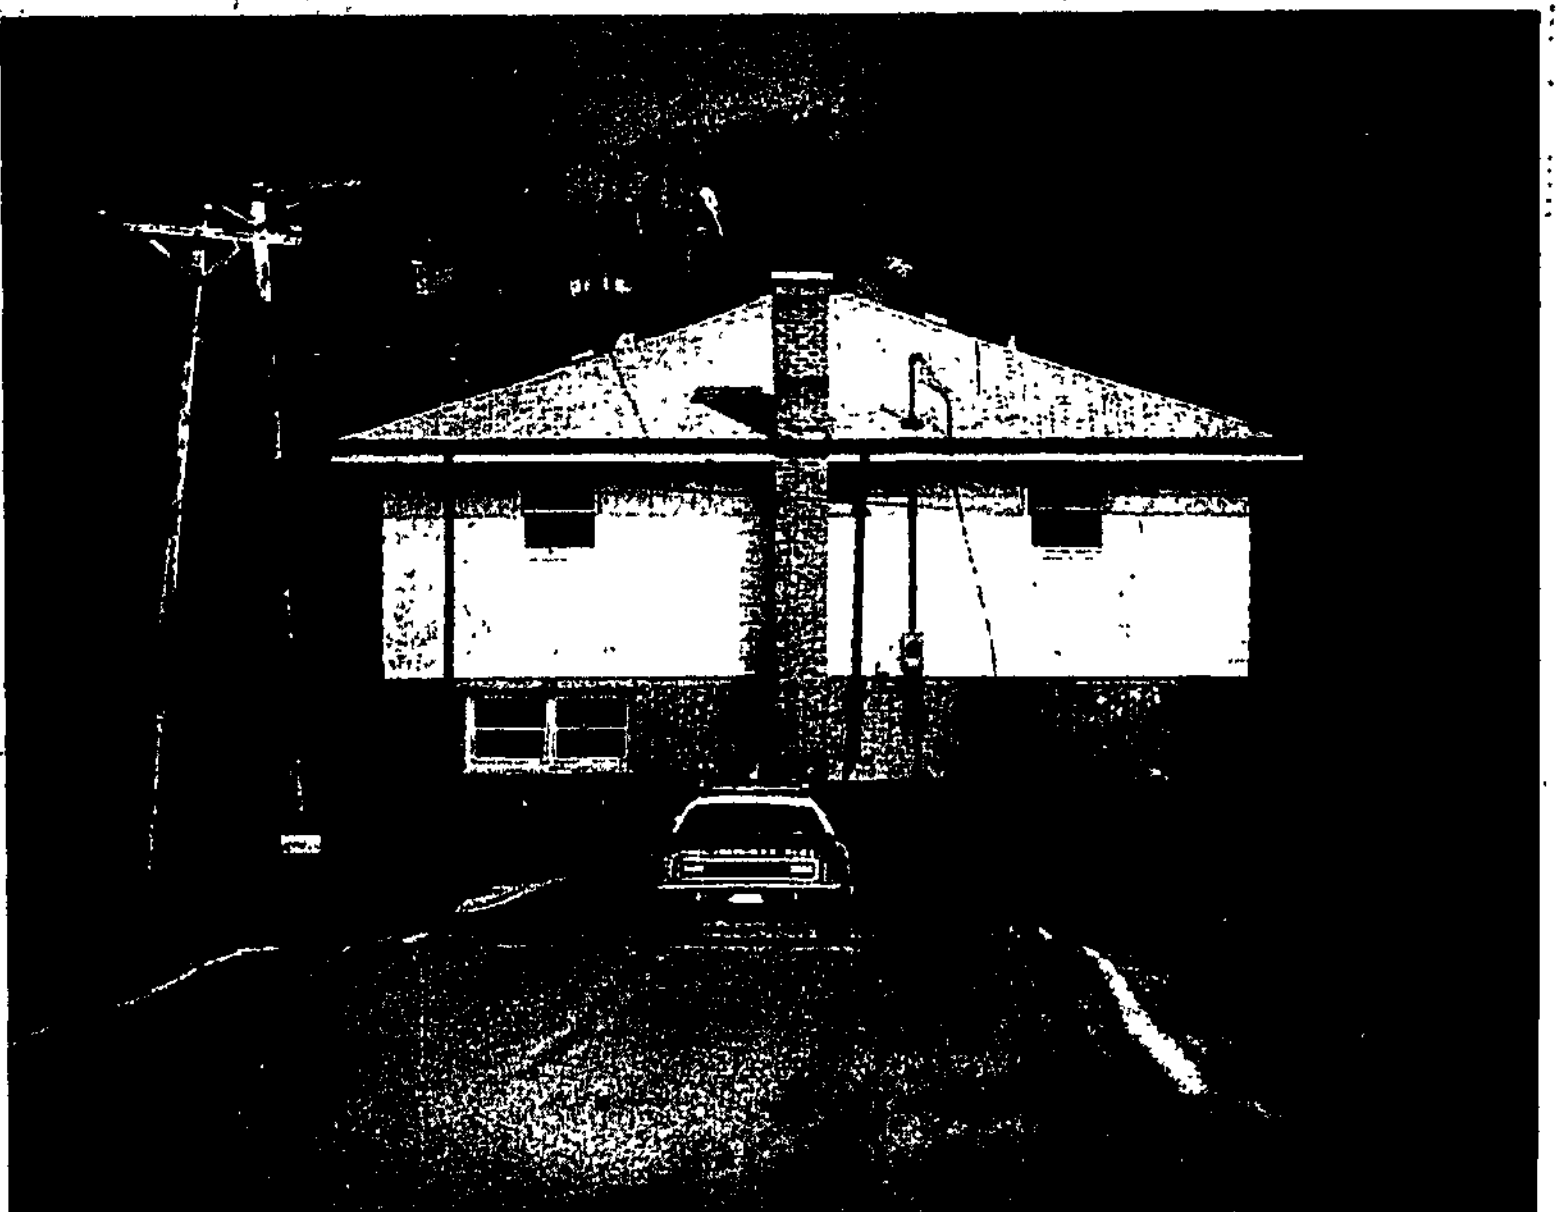

"Your income should be sufficiently small while serving in Congress that you've got to perform some sort of civilian 'occupation' to make ends meet, that way you suffer like all the rest of the taxpayers," Young said.

Parking meter stolen from Vail Street

Thieves early Wednesday morning stole a parking meter valued at $75 from Vail Street in Arlington Heights, police said.

Police said the thieves stole the one-hour meter, its $10 post and $2 in coins from a parking space on Vail Street 50 feet south of Campbell Street.

The theft, which occurred between midnight and 7 a.m. Wednesday, was discovered by a village public works employee.

A FIDDLER on the rooftop is supposed to bring good luck, but fiddlers are a little scarce in the Northwest suburbs, so the house-moving crew trying to squeeze a big house down a narrow road has to rely on one of its own members for good fortune.

Schools check out competency tests

by JOHN N. FRANK

Does a diploma mean a graduate is ready to competently deal with the day-to-day tasks of life?

A growing number of high schools across the country are developing competency testing as a graduation requirement, but the trend is much slower among elementary schools, Marion C. Omlatek, assistant superintendent for instruction in Palatine Township Dist. 15, told the district education committee Wednesday.

The education committee in an earlier meeting had been discussing having students pass a competency test before allowing them to graduate. Members asked the administration for a report on the use of such tests nationally and locally.

"NO ELEMENTARY district in proximity to Dist. 15 was reported to be using competency test results as a criteria for graduation from grade eight," Omlatek told the committee. "The movement is very slow at the elementary level (nationally) with only one state having legislation."

Omlatek defined a competency test as a "proficiency test designed to determine whether an individual can perform a specific task."

The Denver public school system was an early pioneer in the competency testing area, the report states. It began administering the basic skills test 15 years ago.

Oregon passed legislation in 1973 requiring graduates of the class of 1978 to demonstrate proficiency in 20 areas.

TWENTY OTHER states or school districts have introduced competency testing since 1973, the report states.

Omlatek said that when competency tests are used, the following questions must be answered by the administrative body involved:

- Which grades should be tested?
- What type of remedial programs should be instituted for those who do not pass?
- Which competencies should be tested?

The Oregon tests "focus on real life roles and the competencies needed to cope with those roles," the report states. Such things as reading a newspaper, writing a job letter, learning to swim, completing a simple income tax form and knowing the basis of property taxes are included in the Oregon test, Omlatek said.

LOCALLY, High School Dist. 211 introduced a pilot program in the 1975-76 school year, which calls for an essential skills math test to be administered to entering freshmen and an English essential skills test to be administered to sophomores.

Students who fail to pass either test would be placed in courses designed to develop a basic ability in the competencies tested, Omlatek said. Passing the tests would be a mandatory graduation requirement," Omlatek said.

Dist. 211 officials did not contact Dist. 15 regarding the elementary district instituting competency testing as previously reported, Omlatek said.

On the elementary level, Wheeling-Elmhurst District 21 has a "basics committee" attempting to identify the basic skills a child should have, but no consideration has been given to testing for graduation eligibility, Omlatek said.

Arlington Heights Dist. 25 is holding initial discussions on the topic, but, "it, as well as other districts, is finding it difficult to reach a consensus as to what the competencies should be," Omlatek said.

'Elderly should sign up for flu shots'

The elderly and chronically ill of Palatine Township should register for the swine flu inoculations with senior citizens' groups to which they belong, Marvin Schramm, program coordinator, said this week.

Schramm said new dates for the inoculations have not been set, but he expects them to begin in late October. Registration forms for the elderly and chronically ill will be available from senior citizens' groups, pharmacies and the township hall, 37 N. Plum Grove Rd.

A CHANGE IN Cook County regulations for the inoculation programs makes those 60 years old eligible for the bivalent vaccine, which protects against two strains of flu. The original plans had listed those 65 and older as "elderly."

The chronically ill include persons between the ages of 18 and 59 who have chronic heart disease, respiratory problems, kidney disease, diabetes or poor health in general. The chroncally ill must bring a certification ticket from their doctor to qualify for the bivalent inoculation.

Schramm said the elderly of the township may register with The American Assn. of Retired Persons, Harper College Senior Citizens' Group, St. Theresa's Leisure Club, Golden Years of St. Paul's Church, Rolling Meadows Senior Citizens' Club and at the Palatine Township Senior Citizens' Center.

Police arrest trio on drug counts

Arlington Heights police have arrested three suburban men on charges of possession of drugs valued at more than $1,700.

The first arrest took place when David M. Cleveland, 24, Morton Grove, was stopped for disobeying a traffic signal at Rand and Palatine roads at 11:18 p.m. Wednesday, police said.

Police reportedly found in Cleveland's car: 18.4 grams of cocaine valued at $1,472; tablets of amphetamines valued at $113; 11 tablets of LSD valued at $110; and 24 grams of marijuana valued at $15.

Police charged Cleveland with disobeying a red light and four counts of drug possession.

Detectives then telephoned a room at the Clayton House Motel, at 1080 S. Milwaukee Ave., Wheeling Township, where they said Cleveland told them he was staying.

POLICE SAID an investigator set up a drug sale with William D. Terry, 18, of 1624 E. Cedar Ln., Mount Prospect, where they said Cleveland told them he was staying.

An investigator met Terry at 3:30 a.m. Thursday in front of an office building at 1080 S. Milwaukee Ave., and paid Terry $60 for 33 tablets of amphetamines and a quantity of cocaine, police said.

Arlington Heights detectives and a Cook County sheriff's policeman moved in and arrested Terry and an accomplice, Philip N. Norman, 18, of

Housing plan for seniors near

Cook County Housing Authority officials are hopeful construction of the $3.5 million senior citizens housing development planned near downtown Arlington Heights will begin in December.

Once the parcel on Highland Avenue between Wing and Miner streets has been rezoned and persons living there now have been relocated, bids will be let for the project, said Victor Walchik, executive director of the Cook County Housing Authority.

Construction of the building will take 12-15 months, he said.

"We hope the zoning is finalized and the relocation can be concluded by Dec. 1. Then we'll finally be in the position to produce some housing for senior citizens that is so sorely needed in Arlington Heights," Walchik said.

The Arlington Heights Plan Commission is scheduled to review plans for the 119-unit development Nov. 3 and the zoning board of appeals will study the proposal later that month.

THE HOUSING PROJECT will be funded entirely by the U.S. Dept. of Housing and Urban Development. The L-shaped site is considered ideal because of its proximity to the central business district and the Chicago and North Western Ry. station.

Walchik said he does not expect any difficulty in getting the land rezoned because the parcel was mutually agreed upon by the housing authority and the village in 1975. The village first applied to the county authority for the senior citizens housing in 1970.

Plans for the six-story building already have been studied by the village's plat and subdivision committee and the only major question raised about the project was the amount of parking needed, John Best of the village engineering department, said.

Walchik is proposing 35 parking spaces for the 119 occupants.

"WE THINK THAT based on the national experience as well as the local experience, that about one parking stall for every three apartments is enough because the occupants just don't own automobiles," Walchik said.

The Arlington Heights Housing Commission has urged the village board to pass a resolution asking the housing authority to give Arlington Heights residents first preference when occupants are chosen for the building.

The village already has the names of more than 300 persons who have shown an interest in living in the 119-unit project.

2 juveniles nabbed in purse snatching

Two Des Plaines juveniles have been apprehended by police in connection with a purse-snatching incident at a local laundry.

The youths, under 16 years old, were picked from a series of photographs by the victim, 65-year-old Barbara C. Cermack, of Mount Prospect.

Ms. Cermack told police she was at a laundry in the Market Place Shopping Center, 777 Golf Rd., when two youths took her purse, off a table. The purse contained identification, credit cards, miscellaneous items and a $1 bill.

Police reported that two youths fitting the description of the thieves were seen at the laundry by an employee shortly after the theft.

Parking meter stolen from Vail Street

Thieves early Wednesday morning stole a parking meter valued at $75 from Vail Street in Arlington Heights, police said.

Police said the thieves stole the one-hour meter, its $10 post and $2 in coins from a parking space on Vail Street 50 feet south of Campbell Street.

The theft, which occurred between midnight and 7 a.m. Wednesday, was discovered by a village public works employee.

Football player, 15, in fair condition

A 15-year-old Rolling Meadows youth who suffered head and neck injuries at football practice remained in fair condition Thursday night in Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights.

Tim Martins, of 3816 Wren Ct., was admitted to the hospital Wednesday night for observation of a possible concussion after he reportedly was knocked unconscious at football practice at Rolling Meadows High School, 2801 Central Rd.

Martins was reported resting Thursday in the pediatrics section of the hospital.

A WARM FALL afternoon seems the perfect time for a center through South Park in Rolling Meadows for 2½-year-old Alexandra and her mother, Ute Menzel of Rolling Meadows. The two chose a sturdy steed.

Firearm policy angers Sperandeo

by JOHN LAMPINEN

The 16-year-old Schaumburg youth used a black-ink pen to fill out the firearm owner's identification application.

In the space where it asked for his name, he scrawled a pseudonym. Where it asked for his date of birth, he wrote one that indicated his age as 18.

He finished filling out the form, slipped it and a money order for $5 into an envelope, and mailed it to the Illinois Dept. of Law Enforcement, Firearm Owners' Identification Section.

IN A COUPLE of weeks, they sent him an ID card. He took it to K-Mart at Roselle and Golf roads in Schaumburg.

The clerk looked at the card and took down the ID number. The youngster's photo was on it, so the clerk had little way of knowing the card was phony. He sold the youngster a rifle.

Two weeks ago, police believe, that rifle was used to shoot up a vacant apartment in Hoffman Estates, some of the bullets passing through the walls into a neighboring apartment, narrowly missing its occupants.

Sgt. Ronald Sperandeo of the Hoffman Estates Police Dept. is angry about the way the identification program is run. He's been angry about it for a long time.

THE INTENT of the program had been to control guns. Sperandeo contends it is not doing that.

"The law's useless. Whatever its intent was, it's not happening," he says. "It's nothing more than a tax."

When Springfield gets an application, he contends, it mails the card and files the information. Very little work is done to ferret out false information.

"The only time you find that out," he says, "is when it's too late, when you've got a bad buy."

IN MOST CASES, that is, after the weapon has been used.

"What good is it if you don't verify that material?" Sperandeo asks. "We go through more trouble here verifying someone for a liquor license than they do for a gun."

In Hoffman Estates, he says, liquor license applicants are fingerprinted. Occasionally, police check for syndicate connections. With firearms identification, the state does not even ask for a birth certificate, he says.

The firearms program leaves the verification up to the notary public who signs the application or the dealer who sells the gun, he says.

BUT NOTARY publics rarely ask for identification, he says, and gun dealers have no idea whether an ID card is valid.

"The employee isn't a policeman. They're not trained. Many times they are part-time," he says. "The problem doesn't really sit with the dealer; it sits with the law."

Applicants who knowingly lie on the identification form can be charged with perjury, Sperandeo notes.

But it is up to the state's attorney to prosecute, and Sperandeo cannot remember a single case going to court.

The Schaumburg youth, while charged in connection with the shooting incident, has not been charged with perjury on the application.

ILLEGAL GUN use is not restricted to Chicago, Sperandeo says. It is increasing in the suburbs. Violent crime is on the upswing, and Hoffman Estates police are finding more juveniles with guns.

Sperandeo picks up a file and begins naming the cases:

• Two 16-year-olds charged with unlawful use of weapons; a 15-year-old shooting a rifle; a couple more 16-year-olds caught with guns and brass knuckles.

Last January, undercover police bought several weapons from a group of teens in a controlled buy.

"There's more; there's a lot more," Sperandeo says. "That's not only Hoffman Estates. It's happening in all communities."

OF COURSE, verification of identification information won't solve the problem completely, Sperandeo concedes. There will still be youngsters buying guns on the street.

But, he believes, a stronger law would offer some control, and might have prevented the shooting at the apartment complex.

"Make it a gun law," he says, "not a tax law."

U.S. boosts Medicare fees 19%, cites cost rise

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Citing rising hospital costs, the government Thursday boosted hospital fees for persons on Medicare by 19 per cent and said the prices for extended treatment in hospitals and nursing homes also would rise.

Under the changes, effective Jan. 1:

- Persons entering a hospital under Medicare will have to pay the first $124 of the bill, compared to $104 now.
- Persons on Medicare staying in a hospital for more than 90 days will pay $31 a day for the 91st through the 99th day, compared to $28 a day now.
- Patients discharged from hospitals who enter a nursing facility and stay there more than 30 days will have to pay $13.50 a day toward the cost of the 31st through the 100th day, instead of the present $13.

Rezoning of school site feared

THE NAME ON the 50-year-old landmark Palatine High School soon may read Palatine Municipal Center if village and township officials can agree to a plan to use the old high school as an office center. Architects are now studying possible space uses.

by LUISA GINETTI

A fear that highrise apartments will be built on the site of the soon-to-be-abandoned Palatine High School has gripped the Wood Street area whose residents say they want no part of such a trade.

A number of residents in the area surrounding the high school expressed concern Thursday over the prospect of multi-family housing being built on the school site. The fear was voiced despite the village board's adoption in April of a resolution promising the land would be rezoned single-family if the school building is not used as a municipal center.

"Anyone can get zoning changes," Kay Schnuck, 120 E. Wood St., said. "They (the village board) can say all they want till they're blue in the face, but it (highrise) is a possibility and a big possibility," she said.

"I HAVE A fear of that school coming down, and I think you'll find that most of the residents have the same fear," Mrs. Schnuck added.

Mrs. Schnuck said she is in favor of the school being used by local governments as a municipal center when it is abandoned next September. Students will attend the new Palatine High School, on Rohlfing Road north of the Winston Park subdivision, in September.

"I would love to see it stay a school, either a vocational school or an extension of Harper College," Mrs. Schnuck said. "They could do something with it besides tear it down. That would be a waste of the taxpayers' money."

Mrs. Schnuck's son, Keith, a junior at Palatine High, said he is opposed to the school being torn down. "We don't want apartments there because property values would go down," he said.

"I THINK IT would be good if it becomes a municipal center because we won't have so far to go to the village hall," Schnuck said.

Mrs. Ernaldo Diaz, 128 E. Wood St., said she was pleased to hear that the village, township and park district are discussing possible joint use of the building.

"I'm scared it will be torn down and the land will be sold to put up apartments," Mrs. Diaz said. "I would like to see it used as a municipal center because I'm used to having buses and kids around."

She said if the building cannot be used as a municipal center she would like Dist. 211 officials to consider alternative school uses for the building.

MRS. DONALD P. Eastlund, 268 N. Schiller St., said she would not mind seeing the building converted into a municipal center. "I wouldn't mind have the village hall across the street," she said.

ANOTHER RESIDENT of N. Schiller Street, who did not want to be identified, said she hopes the building will not be demolished.

"I don't want apartments there," she said. "I'd just as soon see it used rather than have it torn down. It would be a shame to have to tear it down."

Eleanor Armour, 307 N. Schiller St., said she believes the school should not be abandoned by Dist. 211. "If it's safe enough to use for some other reason, it's safe enough to use as a school," Mrs. Armour said.

Mrs. Armour added, however, that she would not be opposed to using the school as a municipal center if no other school use is viable.

Schools check out competency tests

by JOHN N. FRANK

Does a diploma mean a graduate is ready to competently deal with the day-to-day tasks of life?

A growing number of high schools across the country are developing competency testing as a graduation requirement, but the trend is much slower among elementary schools, Marion C. Omiatek, assistant superintendent for instruction in Palatine Township Dist. 15, told the district education committee Wednesday.

The education committee in an earlier meeting had been discussing having students pass a competency test before allowing them to graduate. Members asked the administration for a report on the use of such tests nationally and locally.

"NO ELEMENTARY district in proximity to Dist. 15 was reported to be using competency test results as a criteria for graduation from grade eight," Omiatek told the committee. "The movement is very slow at the elementary level (nationwide) with only one state having legislation."

Omiatek defined a competency test as a "proficiency test designed to determine whether an individual can perform a specific task."

The Denver public school system was an early pioneer in the competency testing area, the report states. It began administering the basic skills test 15 years ago.

Oregon passed legislation in 1973 requiring graduates of the class of 1978 to demonstrate proficiency in 20 areas.

TWENTY OTHER states or school districts have introduced competency testing since 1973, the report states.

Omiatek said that when competency tests are used, the following questions must be answered by the administrative body involved:

- Which grades should be tested?
- What type of remedial programs should be instituted for those who do not pass?
- Which competencies should be tested?

The Oregon tests "focus on real life roles and the competencies needed to cope with those roles," the report states. Such things as reading a newspaper, writing a job letter, learning to swim, completing a simple income tax form and knowing the basis of property taxes are included in the Oregon test, Omiatek said.

LOCALLY, High School Dist. 211 introduced a pilot program in the 1975-76 school year, which calls for an essential skills math test to be administered to entering freshmen and an English essential skills test to be administered to sophomores.

Students who fail to pass either test would be placed in courses designed to develop a basic ability in the competencies tested, Omiatek said. Passing the tests would be a mandatory graduation requirement," Omiatek said.

Dist. 211 officials did not contact Dist. 15 regarding the elementary district instituting competency testing as previously reported, Omiatek said.

On the elementary level, Wheeling-Buffalo Grove Dist. 21 has a "basics committee" attempting to identify the basic skills a child should have, but no consideration has been given to testing for graduation eligibility, Omiatek said.

Arlington Heights Dist. 25 is holding initial discussions on the topic, but, "it, as well as other districts, is finding it difficult to reach a consensus as to what the competencies should be," Omiatek said.

Jobs offered for census takers

Applications for census takers are available at the Palatine Village Hall, 54 S. Brockway St.

Applicants should have good appearance, be able to do considerable walking and climbing stairs, write legibly and be willing to work long hours.

The village will accept 90 applications which should be returned to the village clerk's office by Nov. 3. Applicants will be interviewed and tested Nov. 15 by Diane Barone, an employee of the U.S. Census Bureau assigned to coordinate the village's special census.

Deputy Village Clerk June Boston said census officials have not said how many of the 90 applicants will be selected for the work, which will begin the week of Nov. 15.

The project is expected to take about three weeks to complete and results are expected to be known by Jan. 1, Mrs. Boston said.

Congress overturns veto of HEW

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress, moving toward adjournment, overrode President Ford's veto of the $28.5 billion bill to fund labor, health, education and welfare programs Thursday, putting the measure immediately into law.

It was the 11th time in 27 attempts that Congress has overturned a Ford veto. The President has vetoed 59 bills since taking office two years ago.

The bill exceeded President Ford's budget request by $4 billion, an amount Sen. Carl Curtis, R-Neb., called "quite significant. It's not a small matter."

But Sen. Warren Magnuson, D-Wash., said the funds in the bill affect the lives and welfare of every American and called Ford's budget request "totally inadequate, a miserable budget creating more misery."

Democratic vice presidential nomi-

turned to the Senate to vote for the override. His Republican counterpart Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kan., was absent.

The Senate voted 67-15 to override the veto, 12 more than needed. Nineteen Republicans defected from the President and joined 48 Democrats in supporting the override.

The House voted 312-83 to override, 42 votes more than the two-thirds majority required of each body of Congress to beat a veto.

A total of 65 Republicans defected from Ford and joined 247 Democrats to override in the House. Twenty-two Democrats joined 71 Republicans in voting to sustain.

The bill provides $19 billion for the Department of Labor, including funds to create some 27,000 new public service jobs, and the rest to the Department of Health, Education and Welfare for the major programs of aid to education and health services and re-

THE SCHOOL BUSES won't be driving up and down Wood Street much longer as Palatine High School students get ready to transfer to their new school next fall. Residents of the area are fearful the old school will be torn down and replaced by highrise apartments, a concern which has been passed on to village officials. The building may be used as a municipal office center.

Dist. 211 voter lists are opened by county court

By HOLLY HANSON
Residents in High School Dist. 211 have the right to view voter lists for Dist. 211 Board of Education elections, a Cook County Circuit Court judge has ruled.
Schaumburg resident Judy Sherman last October filed suit to obtain the right to inspect Dist. 211 voter lists, which give the names and addresses of persons voting in each election.
In January, Judge Harry Comerford ruled Mrs. Sherman could examine the lists from the April 1975 election, but he did not extend the right to other residents or to other elections.
THE DIST. 211 BOARD appealed the decision to an Illinois appellate court, John Hager, attorney for Dist. 211, said.
The appellate court last Friday extended Comerford's ruling to allow all residents to examine and copy voting records 30 days after an election if no questions of tampering have been raised, Michael Krelloff, attorney for Mrs. Sherman, said.
In the past, Dist. 211 has destroyed its voting records six months after elections and has denied residents access to voting lists because election can be contested six months after they take place.
James Slater, Dist. 211 business manager, said the district had been interpreting the law to mean that the voting records could be destroyed after six months, but Krelloff argued in the case that Dist. 211 had been misinterpreting the law.
"THE LAW STATES all ballots shall be retained for six months and then be destroyed by burning," Krelloff said. But voter lists are not ballots, he said, and so are not provided for under this law. The lists may be destroyed only with permission of the local records commission, he said.
Dist. 211 has 30 days in which to ask for a rehearing. If it does not, Comerford's ruling will go into effect, Krelloff said.
Mrs. Sherman said she filed the suit because she is involved in school board campaigns. "It is hard to send mail to all residents so it's nice to be able to see who the voters are," she said.
She said she filed the suit for herself and for anyone else who has an interest in school politics.
"I'M THE PERFECT person (to file the suit) because there's no risk involved. They (the Dist. 211 Board) can't sue me for a fortune or ruin my political career," she said. "I can't lose. I can only win."
She said she thinks public records should be made available to the public. "I can't see making a little person suffer just because he's a little person," she said.
Slater emphasized Dist. 211 has attempted to cooperate with Mrs. Sherman by retaining the April 1975 election lists during the suit.
"We are helping to test it (the school records law) in court," he said.
Hager said he does not expect the district to ask for a rehearing on the suit. "I will advise the school board to accept the judge's ruling," he said.

Meeting on use of school canceled

A meeting which had been scheduled for Tuesday at the Palatine Township Hall between High School Dist. 211 architects and village and township officials to discuss use of the old Palatine High School as a municipal center has been canceled.

The meeting, which had been set for 9:30 a.m., will be rescheduled to a time which is more convenient for a majority of the officials.
Township officials complained this week that they failed to receive notification of the meeting and could not attend the morning session.

Events mark fire prevention week

An equipment display and awards ceremony will highlight fire prevention week activities in Palatine Oct. 8 at Palatine Mall, Northwest Highway and Hicks Road.

The Palatine Fire Dept. will display equipment at the shopping center between 4 and 5:30 p.m. Oct. 8. The Palatine Mall Merchants Assn. have invited Smokey the Bear to speak to children that afternoon.

The fire department also will award 1st, 2nd and 3rd place prizes for the best fire prevention posters submitted by 2nd, 4th and 6th-grade school children in the village.

The awards program will wrap up a week of fire drills in village schools. Firefighters will hold 10 drills Monday through Thursday.

Mikva, Young square off in first of 16 debates

by STEVE BROWN

U.S. Rep. Abner J. Mikva, D-10th, and Republican Samuel H. Young Thursday night squared off in the first of 16 campaign debates agreeing they would oppose a constitutional amendment to ban abortion, but on little else.

The pair, opponents for the third time in the 10th Congressional District, answered a series of questions posed by more than 450 persons at the Leverone Hall at Northwestern University in Evanston.

Following the debate, both candidates said they were pleased with the outcome. Young said he would have preferred to ask questions of Mikva and allow Mikva to question him. However, Mikva said that procedure sometimes becomes "too cutey," adding "I don't think it would serve any useful purposes."

ON THE ABORTION issue, while both Mikva and Young said they would oppose the Constitutional amendment, Young said his action would be based on a poll of district residents which indicates more than 70 per cent oppose an amendment.
Mikva said, "Even when we agree, we disagree on our reasons. I am opposed because the amendment decimates the basic notion of the Constitution."

The questions in the debate ranged over a wide series of issues, including defense spending, regulations governing political activities by political employees and government bureaucracy.

On the question of development of the controversial B1 bomber, Mikva said he was opposed because the advanced weapons system would be obsolete before it was ever put into use.
YOUNG SAID he supported development of the B1 because the bomber is necessary to develop an adequate defense force.
The pair also sharply differed on decriminalization of marijuana. Mikva said he supported such a move while Young said he opposed it.

In discussing the gun control, Young said he favors a ban on so-called Saturday night specials, but Mikva said he favored a ban on the sale, manufacture and distribution of all handguns.

During closing statements to the crowd, the Evanston Democrat said there were sharp differences between himself and Young. Young called the congressional race more important than the election for President.
"This election is more important because Congress has more power than the President. Congress passes the law," Young said.

HE DISAGREED with Mikva on the proposal to raise congressional standards and Mikva's suggestion that congressmen not engage in private law practices.
"Your income should be sufficiently small while serving in Congress that you've got to perform some sort of civilian occupation to make ends meet, that way you suffer like all the rest of the taxpayers," Young said.

Citizens fear school site rezoning

school has caused little or no nuisance to them.

"Sometimes the kids and the traffic get to be a nuisance but I'd say on the whole, we've never had a problem," Mrs. Diaz said.

"It has been marvelous living here," Mrs. Schnuck said. "On the whole, you couldn't ask for a better bunch of kids. I'm sorry to see the high school go."

Several residents also expressed displeasure because their children now will have to be bused to the new school.

"My son graduated from there (the old Palatine High) and now my daughter will have to go to the new school," Mrs. Armour said.

"We moved here with the idea that there would be no need for busing because all the schools are close by," Mrs. Schnuck said. "Now my son will have to graduate from a new school and my other children (three) will have to be bused."

'Elderly should sign up for flu shots'

The elderly and chronically ill of Palatine Township should register for the swine flu inoculations with senior citizens' groups to which they belong, Marvin Schramm, program coordinator, said this week.

Schramm said new dates for the inoculations have not been set, but he expects them to begin in late October. Registration forms for the elderly and chronically ill will be available from senior citizens' groups, pharmacies and the township hall, 37 N. Plum Grove Rd.

A CHANGE IN Cook County regulations for the inoculation programs makes those 60 years old eligible for the bivalent vaccine, which protects against two strains of flu. The original plans had listed those 65 and older as "elderly."

The chronically ill include persons between the ages of 18 and 59 who have chronic heart disease, respiratory problems, kidney disease, diabetes or poor health in general. The chronically ill must bring a certification ticket from their doctor to qualify for the bivalent inoculation.

Schramm said the elderly of the township may register with The American Assn. of Retired Persons, Harper College Senior Citizens' Group, St. Theresa's Leisure Club, Golden Years of St. Paul's Church, Rolling Meadows Senior Citizens' Club and at the Palatine Township Senior Citizens' Center.

After-school fun offered children

"Stay and Play," a Palatine Park District program designed to give children something to do until dinner is ready, begins Oct. 13 at three Palatine grade schools.

After-school activities are from 4 to 5:30 p.m. each Monday, Wednesday and Friday. Park District personnel will supervise games, sports, crafts, music, drama, special events and trips.

The program will last 10 weeks, ending Dec. 22. Stay and Play will be held at Sanborn School, 101 N. Oak St., Hunting Ridge School, 1106 W. Illinois Ave., and Jane Addams School, 1020 Sayles Drive.

A program fee of $15 will be charged for residents of the park district. An $18 fee will be charged to persons living outside the park district. Registration procedures are outlined in the district's fall brochure. Call 991-0333 for more information.

SECOND GUESSING Mother Nature isn't always an easy job, but it's an enjoyable one for Earl Finckle, owner of the Weather Forecasting Service, Wheeling. Weather maps are redrawn about every six hours to keep track of winds, rain, snow and sunshine in Chicago and the Midwest. Baseball teams, pilots and businessmen depend on the forecasts.

Wheeling-based weatherman

Forecasting folly Finckle's forte

by DIANE MERMIGAS

Earl Finckle makes a living trying to second guess the most unpredictable, temperamental woman of all time — Mother Nature.

Finckle has spent the past 30 years forecasting storms and sunshine because "it's a challenge" and because there are many persons whose livelihoods depend on the weather.

"The first thing people want to know when they get up in the morning is what the weather will be like. It determines what they will wear and even what their dispositions will be like," said the 50-year-old meteorologist and radio personality who operates the Weather Forecasting Service in Wheeling.

"BUT THERE ARE many corporations and businessmen who must make multimillion dollar decisions everyday on the basis of the weather — it has that much of an effect on what they produce and the job they do," he said.

Finckle, a Skokie resident, is paid anywhere from $10 to brief a private pilot on the weather conditions he'll encounter during a round trip to New York, to $20,000 a year for making daily weather reports to grain brokers who must determine the prospects for buying and selling.

He lets the Chicago White Sox and Cubs baseball teams know if rain clouds will burst over their home games so rain checks can be issued, and he informs road contractors if rain is expected before they begin pouring concrete.

The operators of the Great America amusement park in Gurnee need to know if high winds and stormy weather are headed their way before setting up death-defying roller coaster rides. Ski resorts need advance notice of snow before opening their slopes to anxious skiers.

EVEN PAKISTANI government officials recently employed Finckle to predict the success of this year's cotton crop.

The list of diverse clients seeking Finckle's talents is endless.

Finckle insists his method of predicting the whims of Mother Nature is completely scientific and he never relies on someone's throbbing corn or the thickness of a muskrat's fur to tell him when it will rain or how deep the snowfall will be.

Finckle and his seven-member staff chart the world's upper wind patterns on complex weather maps in the forecasting office at 1098 S. Milwaukee Ave.

COMPUTERS, radar devices and other machines, some connected to the U.S. Weather Bureau in Washington, D.C. keep the meteorologists informed about world weather conditions.

The forecasting service specializes in Midwest predictions, particularly in the Chicago area.

Finckle, who got his start as a meteorologist in 1945 with the Air Force, makes live broadcasts of the weather every morning and afternoon to Midwestern radio stations, including WIND and WGN in Chicago.

After the predictions are on record, Finckle retires to his office overlooking the runways at the north end of Pal-Waukee Airport and there, he is confronted with the truth of his forecast through ceiling-to-floor windows.

If it's a black, rainy day, and he's predicted sunshine, he's been known to draw the drapes.

"WE'RE USUALLY very accurate about the weather. We try to do our best with the equipment we have and our experienced eye," he said. "Of course, we aren't going to talk about the predictions that didn't pan out."

More often than not, Finckle says he's been right, but getting skeptics to believe his advance notices is quite another thing, he said.

One year, Finckle warned ex-Cubs' manager Leo Durocher that torrents of rain would fall midway through their Sunday baseball game at Wrigley Field.

Between innings, Durocher walked out of the dugout in a bright yellow rain hat and coat, parading around the field mocking Finckle's prediction. By the time he got to first base it was pouring," Finckle said.

OTHERS HAVE taken the weatherman's forecasts to heart. Family barbecues and outings have been postponed, parades have been canceled and even Cubs' games have been rescheduled, as in April 1975 when Chicago was hit by two inches of snow.

Finckle said he didn't know what to expect 15 years ago when he first opened his weather service at the airfield. He was given free office space in exchange for offering free advice to Pal-Waukee pilots.

"The weather in the Chicago area is extremely variable and the number of people who rely on weather conditions to do their work is ever growing. I've learned that," he said.

Revenue-sharing OK to give lift to suburbs

A Herald staff report
Revised allocations for social service groups, new equipment and improved local government services for the Northwest suburbs are likely to result from Congress' approval Thursday of $25.6 billion in revenue-sharing funds.

A bill allocating the funds over a nearly four-year period has been sent to President Ford. He is expected to sign it. The funds would be made available to 39,000 state and local governments through September 1980.

Most Northwest suburban officials contacted Thursday were pleased with the action by Congress.

"WE'RE ABSOLUTELY delighted with the news," Wheeling Township supervisor Ethel Kolerus said. "Revenue sharing will give us an opportunity to continue and increase services that are important to our area."

"All I can say is that I'm exhilarated," Des Plaines Mayor Charles J. Bolek said. "We've been working strenuously to have it reinstated. We've been preparing our budget on the assumption that we'd be getting it."

Thomas Markus, assistant village manager of Wheeling, said, "We're delighted the program has been extended. It will prevent any major tax increases in the village."

"We have allocated most of our federal revenue-sharing funds for fire department salaries and we'll probably continue to use them that way in the future," Richard Jesse, finance director for the Village of Mount Prospect, said.

WILLIAM MASLOWSKE, a Prospect Heights alderman and a member of the city council's finance committee, said he is "happy" about passage of the funding bill.

"At this point we're not sure how much revenue we'll be receiving, but every little bit helps," Maslowski said.

"I think they're smart people," Howard Olsen, Palatine Township supervisor, said of the congressmen who voted for the bill.

"I have no doubt that the various agencies will call the availability of revenue-sharing funds to our attention," Olsen quipped.

THE BILL WILL mean about $250,000 a year for Elk Grove Township. Richard Hall, township supervisor, said the funds will allow the township to "continue all of the programs we have without having to go to the citizens for a tax increase."

George C. Coney, Elk Grove Village finance director, said the additional allocation will be used to buy a fire department pumper, a radio for paramedics and will finance improvements for the village garage and fire departments.

Hoffman Estates will gain about $32,000 between now and May if Ford signs the bill. Keith Wendland, village finance director, said the additional money would be added to $372,749 the village has received since 1972.

Additional funds will probably mean a new fire station for Schaumburg. Joseph Castor, Schaumburg finance director, said revenue-sharing will "further a proposed building program," meaning a third fire station.

SOCIAL PROGRAMS will benefit most from the funds in Schaumburg Township. Vernon Laubenstein, township supervisor, said the township will receive an additional $150,000 by the end of the year.

Trustee Frank Palmatier of Arlington Heights said the village has "usually earmarked it (revenue-sharing money) for capital gains," to avoid becoming dependent on it. Most of the money has been used for land acquisition and flood-control projects.

"I guess I should thank God it was extended," Robert Cole, Rolling Meadows city treasurer, said. Cole said the city has been counting on the extension of revenue funds to finance police and fire departments, along with the garbage collection service.

The Village of Palatine will receive about $150,000 in revenue-sharing funds, Village Pres. Wendell Jones said.

U.S. boosts Medicare fees 19%, cites cost rise

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Citing rising hospital costs, the government Thursday boosted hospital fees for persons on Medicare by 19 per cent and said the prices for extended treatment in hospitals and nursing homes also would rise.

Under the changes, effective Jan. 1:

- Persons entering a hospital under Medicare will have to pay the first $124 of the bill, compared to $104 now.
- Persons on Medicare staying in a hospital for more than 60 days will pay $31 a day for the 61st through the 90th day, compared to $26 a day now.
- Patients discharged from hospitals who enter a nursing facility and stay there more than 30 days will have to pay $15.50 a day toward the cost of the stay through the 100th day, instead of the present $13.
- If a person chooses to draw on his "lifetime reserve" days — the extra 60 hospital days a beneficiary can use when there are more than 90 days of hospital

TEACHERS HIT the picket lines in Prospect Heights Dist. 23 before school opened Thursday to get the board to compromise and set another contract session. Don Radlein, a MacArthur Junior High School teacher, points out one major stumbling block in contract talks with his sign. Teachers want to drop the current merit pay system which the board wants to keep. Despite the picket line, schools opened on time with all teachers returning to their classrooms by 8 a.m.

Sticker sales lag; crackdown eyed

The sale of 1976-77 Prospect Heights vehicle stickers is lagging and city officials are considering hiring Cook County sheriff's deputies to enforce the Oct. 15 purchase deadline.

Ald. Edward Bryant, chairman of the city council's public safety committee, said he is investigating whether the city could hire two off-duty sheriff's deputies to patrol the city on weekends and week nights for vehicles that do not carry the stickers.

Only $3,000 has been taken in from the sale of stickers which began Sept. 15. The 12-month stickers are expected to generate about $100,000 in revenue.

CITY OFFICIALS are not sure how to enforce the sticker deadline and they are contemplating whether to have warnings or tickets issued to violators after Oct. 15.

An ordinance approved by the council this summer for the early sale of stickers sets a $10 fine for violators.

The sheriff currently provides free service to the community which will expire Jan. 1, 1977. The city then will enter into a contract for full-time protection with either the county or a nearby municipal police department.

"We will need some extra manpower to enforce the sale of these stickers. There was a purpose for selling them early and that was to provide the city with revenue," Bryant said.

ALD. SHIRLEY MOORE, who is helping to coordinate the sticker sales, said the sales seem to be lagging.

"But, I'm encouraging residents to buy them now to provide the city with the money it needs for road maintenance," she said. "They will ultimately be fined for not buying them."

The sticker prices are $10 for passenger cars and motorcycles, and between $10 and $50 for trucks depending on gross weight.

There is a special $1 rate for senior citizens and a discounted rate of $7.50 for residents who can prove they purchased 1976 Cook County vehicle stickers which are good until Jan. 1, 1977.

Prospect Heights will not be required to pay Wheeling Township a $2,746 bill for road maintenance, Township Road Comr. Howard Olsen said Thursday.

Olsen said he is "dismissing" the bill because the city intends to contract with the township board and bridge district for regular road maintenance.

The district has surplus funds to absorb the expense of services provided between May 24, when the city's first officials were installed, and June 7, when the township attorney advised Olsen to cease regular service to the newly incorporated city, he said.

"We felt that as a municipality, they should pay for their own road service, but they did not, at the time, have the money to pay us," Olsen said.

PREVIOUSLY OLSEN and Prospect Heights city officials were unable to agree on payment of the bill. City officials argued that they never authorized the road work to be done.

"For expediency sake, and to get things moving along, I've decided to withdraw the bill. There's a lot of road work that needs to be done in Prospect Heights before the snow falls and that should be our concern now," Olsen said.

The township, however, will require that the city pay an outstanding $193.37 bill for emergency road service provided in Prospect Heights during the remainder of June.

Ald. Thomas Merle, chairman of the city council's public works committee, and Olsen have worked out a tentative contract for road service.

THE PROSPECT HEIGHTS City Council is expected to approve the contract at a 7:30 p.m. meeting Monday at the Gary Morava Recreation Center, 110 W. Camp McDonald Rd.

"As soon as the council approves the contract and I sign it, we can get started again," Olsen said.

The township's first tasks will include filling holes, clearing road obstructions, replacing traffic signs and clearing storm drains once the con-

50 teachers picket center at Dist. 23

by JUDY JOBBITT

More than 50 of 90 Prospect Heights Dist. 23 teachers picketed the administration center Thursday morning in an effort to bring both sides in the stalled contract negotiations back to the bargaining table and to get the board of education to compromise on unsettled issues.

Teachers' union officials presented Supt. Edward Grodsky with a letter requesting his "assistance, as a neutral party, to reestablish direct and open lines of communications between the teachers and the board of education."

Grodsky said he is "in the process of thinking this through. They have asked a response from me."

The teachers termed his help "vital" in the letter. "We hope that you, Supt. Grodsky, who have worked so closely and have gained such respect from the board, can help them realize that this fine school district must continue to run smoothly and happily, and to ensure this, both sides must compromise."

GRODSEY SAID the teachers' demonstration was "very orderly" and that teachers returned to the schools by 8 a.m., their usual starting time.

"It was a matter of doing their thing, something they believed would get them back to the bargaining table," he said.

Teachers broke off negotiations two weeks ago saying the board was unwilling to negotiate a compromise.

Teachers want to drop the current merit system of pay for a standard salary schedule. The board requested that the merit system be kept for this year, but offered to establish a committee to investigate alternative methods of pay.

In return for allowing the committee to include merit systems in its investigation and recommendations, the teachers demanded that two board policies be added to the contract and that an early retirement policy be negotiated.

THE CURRENT board policies the teachers want added to the contract cover maternity leaves and procedures for releasing tenured teachers.

Board Pres. Melvin Luce said the early retirement policy is negotiable but the other policies are not. "These are things the board must not capitulate to because we're elected. There is no compromise on these things," he said.

He said he is concerned the demonstration Thursday resulted from differences over "issues the Illinois Education Assn. or other groups are trying to promote. It seems to be external to people in our district. It looks like people not at all familiar with our district are calling the shots."

The Dist. 23 teachers' union is affiliated with the IEA, a statewide teachers' union. The union also is a member of the North Suburban Unified Bargaining Council, a coalition of 16 teachers' unions which is involved in negotiating.

LACE SAID he also is concerned about the teachers' request that Grodsky act as a mediator in the current contract stalemate.

"It's not a case needing mediation," he said. "It's just a straight forward thing of negotiating. Mr. Grodsky has done many things to help us and the schools through conciliatory measures."

Lace said the superintendent is not supposed to negotiate and that teachers must schedule the next negotiating session because they broke off the contract talks. He said that requirement is included in the procedural agreement for negotiations.

David Kessler, union negotiator, said the teachers plan to distribute leaflets at PTA open houses being held Tuesday and Thursday at Ross and Eisenhower Schools.

He said union negotiators will not return to the bargaining table until the board is willing to negotiate inclusion of board policies in the contract.

'City not required to pay road bill'

Congress overturns veto of HEW

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress, moving toward adjournment, overrode President Ford's veto of the $34.6 billion bill to fund labor, health, education and welfare programs Thursday, putting the measure immediately into law.

It was the 11th time in 27 attempts that Congress has overturned a Ford veto. The President has vetoed 59 bills since taking office two years ago.

The bill overrode President Ford's budget request by $4 billion, an amount Sen. Carl Curtis, R-Neb., called "quite significant. It's not a small matter."

But Sen. Warren Magnuson, D-Wash., said the funds in the bill affect the lives and welfare of every American and called Ford's budget request "totally inadequate, a miserable budget creating more misery."

Democratic vice presidential nomi-

turned to the Senate to vote for the override. His Republican counterpart Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kan., was absent.

The Senate voted 67-15 to override the veto, 12 more than needed. Nineteen Republicans defected from the President and joined 48 Democrats in supporting the override.

The House voted 312-92 to override, 62 votes more than the two-thirds majority required of each body of Congress to beat a veto.

A total of 64 Republicans defected from Ford and joined 247 Democrats to override in the House. Twenty-two Democrats joined 71 Republicans in voting to sustain.

The bill provides $10 billion for the Department of Labor, including funds to create some 27,000 new public service jobs, and the rest to the Department of Health, Education and Welfare for the major programs of aid to education and health services and re-
